SPAIN GAY UNDER NEW RULE

GIVES CHICAGO BRIGHT PICTURE OF ITS DESTINY

Heilman Sees City as Leader of World.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

—The late Charles P. Steinmetz.

Dean Ralph E. Heilman of the school of commerce of Northwestern university gave the keynote yesterday for the celebration of "Chicago Products Week," which will begin on Saturday, with more than 6,000 Chicago manufacturing, retail and wholesale institutions participating.

In an address to the Chicago Association of Commerce at the Hotel La Salle, Dean Heilman traced the foundations for Chicago's phenomenal rise to power during the span of a human life, and discussed what lies ahead for Chicago industry. He applied the dictum of the wizard Steinmetz to the economic and industrial field as well as that of electrical power.

Credence must be given, he said, to the recent prediction of a New York economist that Chicago will outstrip its rivals in all lines and lead the world, surpassing New York in population in the second half of this century.

Bright Hopes for Future.

"Romantic as has been the story of the past," Dean Heilman said, after speaking of the geographic, industrial and human factors that have gone into Chicago's making, "brighter still are the predictions of the future, by students of economics and population.

"The last river and harbors act approved by the President on July 3, 1930, will make possible the completion of the Illinois waterway by the early summer of 1933.

"The opening of the waterway would mke possible sufficient saving in transportation charges to place Chicago in a position to strengthen its trade with the gulf area and the Pacific coast, the latter having been curtailed by the Panama canal.

"This project, if later accompanied by the consummation of the proposed St. Lawrence waterway, should not only make Chicago the greatest inland waterway center, but owing to the elimination of reloading, one of the largest exporting ports in the country.

Fair to Advertise City.

"The Chicago Centennial Exposition in 1933, depicting the Century of Progress, will inevitably serve as a powerful medium, advertising the advantages of the Chicago market to the world at large.

"The proposed unification of transportation agencies and construction of an adequate subway will do much to diffuse population, build up outlying sections and encourage sound building projects.

"Chicago is the hub of aviation activities in this country. This position can be greatly strengthened and its benefits correspondingly multiplied by the construction of a landing and loading field on the lake front, easily accessible from the business district. This is an inevitable development of the not distant future.

"The other possibility is the development of better reciprocal trading relations between Chicago and the Canadian northwest. The economic advantages afforded by Chicago's location in respect to the great Canadian northwest cause a natural economic interrelationship to exist which has not yet been fully capitalized.

Chicago Still Ascending.

"As we study these forces and factors which have combined to make Chicago great, and which are today enhancing her importance, we must conclude that:

"1. The ascent of the city is still in progress.

"2. The turning point lies beyond the immediately foreseeable future.

"3. We are compelled to give credence to the prophecy that Chicago is the city of the future.

"4. As great as have been the accomplishments of the past, they appear to be but the forerunner and harbinger of larger and greater achievements to follow."

In 1835, Dean Heilman told his audience of business men, a local newspaper reported with pride, that Chicago had fifty business houses and had an annual business of $1,000,000.

"Today 11,515 manufacturing establishments turn out 368 classes of products in the Chicago area, with a value upward of five billion dollars," he said.

"In 1835 the population was 3,297. The 1930 census gives Chicago a population of 2,376,438 and the Chicago region 4,675,877.

"Chicago's labor army totals 535,000 people, or more than the entire state population of Utah, New Hampshire.

DOWNSTATERS IN SENATE PASS INCOME TAX BILL

Vote 30 to 17; Must Go to House.

BY A[illegible] EVANS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., April 15.—[Special.]—The senate passed the Lantz state income tax bill today by a vote of 30 to 17 after a vehement debate in which the failure to reapportion the legislative districts and the governor's veto of the O'Grady prohibition repealer figured prominently. "Nullification" was the keynote of the controversy.

THOMAS J. COURTNEY. [Wallinger Photo.]

Downstate lined up against Cook county on the roll call. The 30 affirmative votes came from downstate senators. The 17 negative votes were cast by Cook county members, with one exception—that of Senator Victor P. Michel of Peoria, who led the repeal fight in the senate.

The measure, which was largely prepared by the Illinois Agricultural association, now goes to the house. Four years ago the house killed an income tax after the senate had passed it. This time the outcome is said to be in such doubt that a furious fight is awaited.

Result of Nullification.

Cook county senators, led by Thomas J. Courtney, minority leader, and Roy C. Woods, argued that the income tax is an effort of downstate to shift part of the tax burden from agriculture and small towns to the white collar boys and the flat dwellers in the city. It was made possible in the senate, they set forth, by the failure to give Cook county and the metropolitan area its proper representation at Springfield as ordained in the constitution.

"This bill is nullification," cried Courtney.

"We know you downstaters have the vote here, and that is made possible by the failure to reapportion the state, in conformity with the constitution. Passage of the bill is a product of nullification. Also the bill itself is deemed unconstitutional, and hence in itself is an effort at nullification, a word the governor used in his veto of the prohibition repealer.

May Be Unconstitutional.

"The bill is unconstitutional, said Senator Woods. "Six years ago a senate committee thought an income tax was unconstitutional, so an amendment to the constitution was submitted. The people defeated it in 1926. Four years ago the senate passed an income tax and the house defeated it. In the special session of 1930, a constitutional amendment allowing an income tax was submitted. The voters did not accept it. Now we are here today voting on an income tax without a constitutional amendment. It's time to stop passing unconstitutional bills.

"Gov. Emmerson vetoed the search and seizure repealer," said Senator Harold G. Ward [Dem., Chicago], "because he said it nullified. Now those who cried 'nullification' a few weeks ago in the prohibition argument, ask us to nullify the state constitution. It all depends on whose ox is gored."

"The Supreme court," said Senator A. S. Cuthbertson [Rep., Bunker Hill], dry leader, "is the body to decide on constitutionality."

"It's nullification made possible by lack of proper representation for Cook county," interjected Senator Courtney. "You fellows tried to nullify the United States constitution two weeks ago," retorted Cuthbertson.

Dodge Referendum.

"The governor who vetoed will never be governer again," said Courtney.

"Maybe he'll be Vice President or President," replied Cuthbertson.

"Why not put on a referendum?" suggested Woods.

"No, no," said Senator Simon E. Lantz [Rep., Congerville].

"Well, the governor said if the repealer bill had a referendum he'd have signed it," answered Woods. "If it's good on a liberal law, why not use it on a new tax?"

"A referendum would kill income tax," said Courtney, "so they sing a new tune. This is only a little matter of unloading a new tax on poor people in Chicago, renters and flat

Rowbottom Is Convicted; Gets a Year

H. E. ROWBOTTOM.

The former congressman was sentenced immediately by Judge Charles E. Woodward to serve one year and one day in Leavenworth penitentiary and was fined $2,000. This sentence was imposed on the first count of the indictment.

Judge Woodward also imposed the same sentence on three other counts on which the jury voted to convict Rowbottom, but he held that the sentences could be served concurrently.

Judge Refuses Clemency.

Motions for a new trial and arrest of judgment were overruled. The defense then sought to have the defendant placed on probation because of his physical condition and on the grounds that others involved in the postoffice deals were not indicted.

In refusing the request, Judge Woodward said:

"Respect for public office is lessened if they may be bought and sold. The office of which this defendant has been found guilty is grave. I do not deem it necessary to impose the extreme penalty but the sentence must be of such a nature as to deter other congressmen from such practices."

Will Take No Appeal.

Rowbottom's attorneys indicated that no appeal would be taken. He will remain at liberty under his bond of $10,000 until 11 a. m. April 20, when he is to report to the United States marshal at Indianapolis to begin his journey to prison.

The jury returned its verdict after deliberating two hours and five minutes.

The charges on which the jury found Rowbottom guilty were that he accepted from Walter G. Ayer $750 for procuring for Gresham Ayer, his son, a rural mail carriership at Rockport.

The third was that he received $800 for procuring "and aiding to procure" the postmastership at Dale for S. Grant Johnson.

Rowbottom presented a brief defense. The ex-congressman, testifying as a witness, told of receiving money from job seekers, but insisted it came to him with expressions of sympathy over his unsuccessful campaign for reelection last November.

TWO PENAL FARM PRISONERS SHOT IN BREAK; 4 FLEE

Springfield, Ill., April 15.—(AP)—Col. Frank D. Whipp, state superintendent of prisons, tonight disclosed two prisoners were shot Saturday night at the state penal farm at Vandalia, Ill., when they and four others made a break for freedom through a barbed wire fence. The other four still are free, he said. Col. Whipp said the event was reported to him today by C. J. Metzger, superintendent of the farm. The victims are not seriously wounded.

Igoe Raps Parole Board.

Decatur, Ill., April 15.—(AP)—State Representative Michael Igoe, a member of the committee which has been investigating conditions in Illinois penal institutions, told the Decatur Bar association tonight that conditions in "Illinois penitentiaries are deplorable and horrible almost beyond belief." He blamed the lack of employment for prisoners and the methods of the parole board as the principal causes of unrest which led to the recent rioting by inmates at the two Joliet institutions.

600 Evanston Women Learn How to Drive

BY KATHERINE KELLEY.

With policemen for ushers, safety experts for teachers, and a little gray pamphlet propounding the uncompromising law of motordom for a textbook, Evanston women put in their first day at motoring school yesterday.

When the roll was called it was discovered that 600 women had registered for the five weekly lessons, and most of them were on hand early to get seats in the auditorium of the Nichols school. The motor course, the first for women drivers in Evanston, is being conducted by the Evanston Safety council and the bureau of accident prevention of the Evanston police department.

Old and Young Attend.

Gray heads were sprinkled through the audience and more than one race was represented among the "students" busily writing notes on how to drive a motor car. Vindication of their sex from the "O, it's a woman driving," complex harbored by their husbands, appeared not to be the only reason, however, for attending a school to learn how to drive the family car. A questionnaire accompanying their applications brought such reasons as:

"I want a certificate that I know how to do something."

"Just to learn."

"It's a secret ambition."

Other Reasons Advanced.

Others confided that they are taking the course to learn the right way to make a left hand turn, because it is a civic project, because they are members of the league of women voters, or because they want to drive on their vacations. Some admitted they enrolled "because of my husband."

Mrs. Guy M. Pelton, chairman of the school and home safety division of the Evanston Safety council, opened the lesson period of an hour and a half, introducing Sidney J. Williams, director of the public safety division of the National Safety council.

"Skill or knowledge, and conscience or self-control are the requisites for safe, competent driving," Mr. Williams declared. "If you don't know the rules you aren't a safe driver. The timid driver is almost as much of a menace as the driver who recklessly goes his own way."

Franklin M. Kreml, director of the police bureau of accident prevention presented the first lesson on the privilege of using the public highway, explaining some of the traffic rules in the state laws and city ordinances governing motor traffic.

Spinster Home Wins Bequest of $2,500,000

The contest over the will of Mrs. Suzanne King Bruwaert, widow of Edward Bruwaert, French diplomat, was terminated yesterday when Superior Judge Denis E. Sullivan entered a decree upholding the validity of the will, which included a bequest of approximately $3,000,000 for the establishment of a home for elderly unmarried women in Chicago. The court decision followed an agreement reached by the litigants out of court.

The action to break the will was brought by a nephew of Mrs. Bruwaert, James Andrew King of Lake Forest, in behalf of himself and five other heirs, who were left about $75,000 of the total estate of slightly more than $3,000,000. It was reported that the contesting heirs have agreed to accept $500,000 as their share, and the remainder of about $2,500,000 will be used to build and maintain the home.

Plans Made for Home.

William Burry and Charles W. Froemen, executors of the estate, announced that construction of the home will start in the near future. It will be built either in Chicago or a suburb, they said, one of the sites under consideration being in Hinsdale. A number of applications to enter the home have been received during the two years since the will was filed.

The major question which the court was asked to settle was that of the nationality and residence of Mrs. Bruwaert. Judge Sullivan's decision stated that she was a resident of Chicago and an American citizen.

Mrs. Bruwaert died at Utica, N. Y., in November of 1928, on her way from Paris to Chicago, where she planned to reside. She was 80 years old. She was the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. J. McGregor Adams of Chicago, her father being the founder of the Adams & Westlake company, manufacturers of railroad supplies. She met Mr. Bruwaert during the world's fair of 1893 while he was French consul general.

Traveled with Her Husband.

For more than thirty years she accompanied her husband on his wanderings in the French diplomatic service. After his retirement they lived at Lausanne, Switzerland. Mr. Bruwaert died in April, 1927. His widow moved to Paris, where she drew her will in longhand two weeks before sailing for America.

The will left $50,000 to a sister, Mrs. Jane King Burry of Chicago, and distributed $25,000 among other heirs who sought to break the will. These, in addition to Mr. King, were his sister, Mrs. Marjorie Dumoulin of Hamilton, Ont., and four children of another sister, the late Mrs. Ethel Dumoulin Strong of New York. Under the agreement approved by the court they will divide a reported sum of $500,000.

GIRL, 13, TRAVELS 3,000 MILES BY BUS; MISSES KIN

Amy Fitzgerald, 13 years old, journeyed all alone by buses from Oakland, Cal., to Chicago, nearly 3,000 miles, to visit her uncle and aunt, but all she found on her arrival last night was a vacant house where her relatives were supposed to live.

Her mother placed her aboard a bus Saturday morning. She attached a note to the girl's necklace, giving Amy's name, and the names of the uncle and aunt, Charles and Edith Fitzgerald of 1862 Milwaukee avenue. Over desert and over mountains the note helped carry Amy to her destination as she was transferred from one bus to another.

The last lap was made last night. But neither the uncle nor the aunt was present to greet the girl. Bus attendants put Amy into a taxi and sent her to 1862 Milwaukee avenue. It is a vacant building. Shakespeare police were notified, sent her to the Juvenile home.

REPUBLIC BORN AMID SPIRIT OF WILD CARNIVAL

All Take Holiday; Queen Flees.

BULLETIN.

MARSEILLES, France, April 16 (Thursday).—(AP)—Alfonso XIII, reached Marseilles at 6:10 a. m. aboard the Spanish cruiser Principe Alfonso. The cruiser anchored and will not enter the harbor. The cruiser, with the former king, his cousin, the Infante Alfonso, and the duke of Miranda aboard, left Cartagena at 4:35 a. m. yesterday. It was believed bound for London. It is believed Alfonso will rejoin Queen Victoria and five of his children in Paris today and from there proceed to London.

BY JAY ALLEN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MADRID, April 15.—For the first time in history, Spain today was totally in the hands of a herd of small fry people who never had another responsibility heretofore than to toil, lie in the sun, pay taxes, die for lost causes, and enjoy a God given pride.

The police, soldiery, and civil guard all took a rest for the day, leaving the villages, towns, and capital entirely to themselves to celebrate the victory over the Bourbon King Alfonso, that is largely theirs. Others share in the victory and share in the government, but the common people are the ones who are having the most fun. They sang in the streets all day in a mad carnival of victory.

Burn King in Effigy.

They burned and hanged the king and generals a hundred times in effigy. They tore the Bourbon arms from public buildings and cleaned the landscape of statues of royalty, but they did no harm to a single living soul.

So well have they used their new won freedom that tonight there is not one outrage on record. The only bloodshed was in Barcelona, in a battle between thugs, and at Seville, in a prison row. In Barcelona rival anarchist syndicates exchanged compliments with pistols, killing four and wounding six, entirely among themselves. In Seville prison guards fired at criminal inmates demanding release like political prisoners. At Bilboa small communist groups clashed with Socialists.

Queen Victoria Eugenie and five of her children crossed over the French border today, following Alfonso into exile, and the nobility are slipping away along with certain well known generals, leaving the second Spanish republic alone with its problems, and there are many.

King Leaves with Defi.

The greatest question facing the new republic is the attitude of Alfonso himself. He has not abdicated, and far from it. He left Spain with a defi on his lips.

Next is the problem of Catalonia, where some of the original enthusiasm has now died down. It is apparent that Col. Francisco Macia, leader of the Catalonian separatists, has ambitions for Catalonia that already conflict with the will of the Madrid government. In objection to attempts at Madrid to name a civil governor for Barcelona, Col. Macia sent a personal envoy by airplane to smooth matters out with Provisional President Alcala Zamora.

The provisional government not only failed to win the renunciation of his rights from the departing king, but was left a note that was so determined that the provisional government has not yet seen fit to publish its contents.

Says He's Ready to Return.

In it the fallen Bourbon declared himself, in almost as many words, ready to come back at any time. He said in a paper written in a vigorous hand a half hour before the time limit for his departure was up:

"The election which took place Sunday revealed to me clearly that I do not have the love of my people. My conscience says that this state of affairs will not last, because I shall always try to serve Spain, my only interest being that of public welfare even in the most critical situation.

"'A king may make mistakes, and doubtless I have erred, but I well know that our country has shown itself generous at all times in regard to mistakes made without malicious intent.

"King of All Spaniards."

"I am king of all Spaniards and I am also a Spaniard. I might have found other means of maintaining my royal prerogative, but I wanted to avoid anything that might mean one compatriot fighting against another in a fratricidal civil war. I do not give up any of my rights because they are more than mine; they are the accumulated deposit from history, for the custodianship of which I shall have to give one day a rigorous account.

"I am waiting to know what is the authentic and adequate expression of the collective will, and until the nation speaks, I, after careful deliberation, suspend my exercise of royal power, and I am leaving Spain, thus recognizing her as the sole mistress of her destiny.

"Also, I believe I have fulfilled my duty as my love of my country dictates. I pray to God that the rest of the Spaniards will fulfill it as deeply as I."

Night of Terror in Palace.

Almost as furtive as his own was the departure of his queen and the enfeebled heir to the throne and his other children. They passed the night in terror in the palace, kept awake by the roars of the mob outside. They awoke to find the new yellow, red and purple banner flying over their heads.

Their leavetaking was heart breaking. Ladies in waiting wept. Old retainers wept. The queen, weeping quietly, said farewell to them all and then, with her brood, her sister-in-law and a half dozen courtiers, rode silently through the garden gates. The prince of the Asturias had to be carried to an automobile.

As the party left a small group of aristocrats standing by expressed the greatest disgust at the behavior of their fellows. When the king left the palace last night there were exactly 58 nobles, mostly women, to watch him pass the halberdiers in review for the last time and bid the palace servants farewell.

The Others? Under the Bed.

"Where were the others?" a grandee was asked.

"Probably under the bed," he retorted.

To avoid the thousands of roaring proletarians who overran the north station to meet their idol, Maj. Ramon Franco, the trans-Atlantic flyer, the royal family was taken to Escorial, where the tomb of the Spanish kings is located, 30 miles north of the capital. They boarded the royal train there.

Not more than a dozen nobles came to Escorial to say good-by. Perhaps the others did not know. Admiral Aznar and Count Romanones were there alone as representatives of the last king's government.

Blinds Drawn in Coach.

The royal refugees went directly to their coach, with blinds drawn, and it was shunted onto a side track to await the train to the frontier. Two hundred or so local republicans came up to the car. They had left their republican banners up the road. They stood silently. The nobles stood with silent misery written on their faces. A few old serving women, left behind, wept.

When the train roared in it, too, was packed with refugees. A blind man raised and Don Jaime, deaf and dumb since infancy, the very image of his father, opened the door. His eyes were red and his face swollen. He leaned down to embrace a handful of friends and made a sound like "Adios."

Princesses Throw Kisses.

The two princesses came to the door next, looking embarrassed and tearful. They threw hurried kisses. Only their little brother, Gonzalo, was unmoved. No other blinds were raised.

Don Jaime's friends raised a feeble "viva" as the train started. Their elders promptly hushed them. The silence was awful. Then there was a fierce cry: "Viva la republica." The last blind was drawn.

As the coach drew past Count Romanones a hand with jewels on it pulled back the edge of a blind at the center of the car and fingers moved slightly in a gesture of farewell—it was Queen Victoria Eugenie's good-by to her crumbling world.

Police Withdrawn from Streets.

The Spanish proletariat is doing its best to show that it knows how to keep peace. The provisional government withdrew police from the streets today and the only casualty in Madrid was when a cheer leader fell from the top of a street car. There has been little drunkenness.

Tourists who idled through the capital watching the frenzy were filled with admiration at the good spirit of the mobs. All classes continued to celebrate, but the proletariat predominated. They cried, "Death to Berenguer," but made no attempts to root him out.

They stood and admired the royal palace, covered now by enormous posters, "People, respect this edifice; it is yours," and pointed to the republican banner covering the Bourbon coat of arms.

The Bourbon coat of arms came down today from luxury shops that have long boasted the distinction of furnishing the royal palace. They came off the helmets of traffic cops and the collars of the soldiery. Queen Isabella, grandmother of Alfonso, was kidnaped from her pedestal in front of the royal opera.

The Madrid royal palace will be sealed, with only a skeleton personnel to keep it in shape under the care of civil guards. An inventory will be taken of the effects of the Bourbons to determine the nation's property.

Republican guards tonight arrested an army officer making his way out of the side door with a filing cabinet. In this they claim to have found documents relating to a last minute plan of the king for military resistance, implicating a number of high officers.

Envoy to U. S. Resigns.

Washington, D. C., April 15.—(AP)—Ambassador Padilla of Spain today resigned his diplomatic post as a result of the overthrow of the Spanish monarchy. The ambassador, who had been in Washington since 1927, submitted his resignation shortly after he had been advised officially of the formation of a republic. He was a close friend of King Alfonso.

HENDAYE, France, April 15.—With a duke as engineer of the train and the finest flower of Spanish aristocracy for her fellow passengers, former Queen Victoria Eugenie and her five children arrived here at 8:50 o'clock on their way to join Alfonso in exile. The five children accompanying the queen are Princesses Beatrice and Maria Cristina and Princes Alfonso, Jaime, and Gonzalo.

The long ride from Madrid to the border was one of the strangest ever made by any monarch, crowned or crownless. It might have been a triumphal march rather than exile. Even at San Sebastian, which is overwhelmingly republican, the royal train was cheered.

Cheered by Mob of 3,000.

When THE TRIBUNE correspondent tried to get on the train there he had to fight his way through a mob of nearly 3,000 monarchists jammed on the platform of the little station, shouting, clapping, tossing hats, waving handkerchiefs and screaming wild "vivas" every time the queen came to the window of her car.

At the other end of the platform a little group of republicans, some 200 or 300, tolerantly watched these proceedings. No one raised a hand against the royal train, no one booed or hissed as it went by, nor did they make any effort to interfere with the celebration the monarchists were putting on.

It was the same thing all the way from Madrid. To the republicans it was not the queen of Spain who was fleeing from her subjects, but just Donna Victoria, an English woman, returning to her native land and being greeted by some of her old friends as she went.

Party Closely Guarded.

Despite this, extensive precautions were taken to protect the royal family. A dozen armed guards were on the train and in every carriage was a couple of detectives, posted by the republican government to make sure nothing happened.

The engineer was none other than the trusted duke of Saragossa, who always takes the throttle whenever Alfonso or his family travel in Spain. Apparently the excitement at San Sebastian shook the duke's nerves. When it was at its height, he jerked down the throttle without warning and the train streaked out of the station so fast that many of its distinguished passengers were thrown off their feet. From then on to the border the train tore along at record speed.

At Hendaye, in France, a huge crowd waiting in the station gave the queen a big hand. The crowd closed in on her and the French gendarmes were forced to charge the crowd repeatedly to make a passage for her. As the queen climbed into another train for Paris she was visibly shaken with emotion at the farewell, and her eyelids were rimmed with tears.

She choked back her tears and remained standing at the window until the train pulled out, waving to the crowd or holding out her hands for those near the car to kiss. When some enthusiastic monarchist yelled at her that she would come back that way soon she shrugged her shoulders and smiled sadly.

Just before the train left Victoria took flowers from the bouquets that had been given to her and scattered them among the crowd, nearly precipitating a riot as peasants and noblemen scrambled for possession of the relics.

Meets Returning Exiles.

Just two minutes after the queen's train pulled into the station at Hendaye, the Cote d'Argent express arrived from Paris carrying Gen. Queipo del Llano and seven or eight other Republican refugees on their way back to Madrid. The two trains remained on adjoining tracks for more than five minutes. The French police had taken precautions to prevent Republican sympathizers from organizing a counter reception on the other side of the tracks, so the monarchist sympathizers had the station to themselves.

Young Prince at Gibraltar.

GIBRALTAR, April 15.—(AP)—A slim young fellow in white flannel trousers played tennis here today, but his mind was not on his game. He was the infante Juan, 17 year old son of the Spanish king.

Until yesterday he was a cadet in the naval college at Cadiz. When his father left his throne behind and went into exile the boy boarded a Spanish warship and came here. Today his father was fleeing Spain in one direction and his mother in another, no longer royalty, but simply private citizens.

Juan is treated with the greatest deference by royalists here, but, after all, he is only a boy and he was badly disappointed when the cruiser carrying his father away from Spain did not put in at this port.

He attended an official luncheon, at which he was the guest of honor, but he left the dining room to send the other wireless message to his father's ship. He played tennis.

EXILED QUEEN OF SPAIN ONCE THE NATION'S TOAST

Foreboding of Tragedy Attended Her Wedding.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

A stormy life has followed the exiled Queen Victoria of Spain since that May day in 1906 when, as a 19 year old girl, she became the bride of the dashing King Alfonso XIII.

Train wrecks, automobile accidents, threats of revolution, and even bandits have followed in the wake of the 44 year old English born queen, who is the granddaughter of another Queen Victoria, who ruled for years over England. But through it all she has passed virtually unscathed, while she held her position as a social leader among the capitals of Europe.

Bombed at Wedding.

From the first a foreboding of tragedy surrounded the new Spanish queen. The royalty of Europe had gathered in Madrid for the elaborate marriage of the 20 year old king to the daughter of Princess Beatrice and Prince Henry of Battenberg. As the royal couple passed through the streets there was a terrific explosion as a bomb was thrown at their carriage by a would-be assassin. Neither the bride nor groom was injured.

Again the queen had a narrow escape when bandits attacked the train in which she and her brother, the marquis of Carisbrooke, were traveling from Madrid to Seville. The robbers opened fire on the coaches, seriously wounded two trainmen, but Victoria and her brother were not hurt.

Several times the queen's automobile and train figured in or barely escaped wrecks. Always, however, she came through with little more than a shaking up.

Was a Popular Queen.

Not always has Victoria been unpopular with the mass of her subjects who have been cheering at the downfall of the monarchs.

Great joy prevailed throughout the kingdom at the birth of her eldest child, the Infante Alfonso, prince of the Asturias, on May 10, 1907. A national holiday was proclaimed and thousands of prisoners were released. For days the queen and the new prince were the toast of Spain.

Sports, charity, and public welfare interested Queen Victoria as much as society.

When the queen visited London, Paris, Brussels, and other capitals there usually were elaborate ceremonies. She also spent much time in the theaters and shops. She liked dancing and American jazz music and in 1925 she danced with the prince of Wales at a ball.

Queen Victoria always followed the latest styles in Paris and London. However, she insisted on long dress for women attending court.

Effect of New City Policy Is Tested.

Mayor Cermak's plan [illegible] courtesy [illegible] of the city hall. Public servants fair to radiated smiling politeness yester day, following the inauguration of the mayor's campaign for courtesy among city employes.

A reporter wandered through the the console building and the city hall asking foolish questions and mak ing unreasonable demands. He found, with one exception, smiling courtesy and sensible answers to his requests. He also tested the police department.

Police Are Courteous.

"My neighbor's dog is digging up my garden and tracking mud over my front porch and I want you to send a policeman right over here to [illegible] immediately or I'll do it," was the [illegible] telephoned to Sergt. Ross of the [illegible] station.

"Sorry, brother," said the desk ser geant, "you've got the wrong police district. Call on Lake View 4415 and the North Robey street police will take care of you."

"Why don't you come over your self," the reporter insisted.

"Brother, if I wasn't on inside duty I'd put my coat on and come right over," the sergeant replied. "You call up that number I gave you. They'll take care of you."

The desk sergeant at the North Robey station explained that all available men were assigned to duty else where for the moment, but that as soon as a man was available a po lieman would be sent to the scene immediately. Courteously he explained how and where to get a warrant against the dog's owner.

Gets Service in City Hall.

Courtesy prevailed not only among the police but among other city em ployes. A call to the bureau of parks, playgrounds, and aviation in the city hall brought full information on ques tions concerning the price of an air plane ride from Chicago to St. Louis and the offices where tickets could be purchased. Three employes in this bureau were enlisted to find answers to the reporter's questions. All were patient and polite.

Posing as an outraged citizen the reporter called at the city hall infor mation bureau to complain that his electric light bill amounted to $13 last month whereas it was never more than $6 before.

"There's certainly something wrong in Denmark there, sir," an attendant replied. "Have your bills ready and we'll send a man out the first thing in the morning."

Complains About Streets.

Similar courteous treatment was ac corded by attendants in the depart ment of streets and alleys. The re porter approached an employé in this department, launched into an abusive criticism of the department and com plained about the holes in the pave ment in front of his home. Instead of being ejected from the office, the complaint was given sympathy and promised an immediate investigation.

It was in the county building that the reporter encountered the only dis courteous treatment during his day's wanderings.

"Seven, please," he said as he stepped into a crowded elevator with an intention of putting the operator to the courtesy test. The elevator passed the seventh floor without a halt. The passenger protested.

"Why don't you speak up," snapped the operator. "Do you think I'm a mind reader?"

Eloper Makes Judge's Check Good; His Troubles End

The elopement difficulty of George W. Bease, 1220 North State street, was adjusted yesterday and he walked a free man from the court of Justice of the Peace Harry Hoyt in Wau kegan. Bease and Evangeline Mc Donough, former Hollywood actress, were married March 20 by Justice Henry Wallenwein of Waukegan. Bease gave the justice a $10 check—which bounced. The police arrested him. Bease pleaded it was all a mis take. He made good the check and charges were dropped yesterday.

GIVES CHICAGO BRIGHT PICTURE OF ITS DESTINY

Idaho, New Mexico, Delaware, Wyoming, and Nevada, receiving an annual dividend of eight hundred million dollars.

"Tributary to Chicago lies the most sought after market in the United States. At Chicago's door are the five states—Illinois and the four surrounding ones—which contain the center of national wealth and the center of population.

"In those five states is settled 17.5 per cent of the country's total population, an inconceivably huge market for Chicago products.

"Within 100 miles of Chicago are five million people; within 150 miles are ten million, but within a night's train journey are fifty-seven million, or half the population of the United States. And this is the natural trading area of our city.

"The industrial center of the nation is now within the metropolitan area of Chicago. The population center is about 200 miles south of the city. The center of agriculture is slightly southwest of Hannibal, Mo. The hinterland of Chicago has assumed an importance which rivals that of New York both in population and in purchasing power.

"Chicago has become a tremendous fabrication center, wherein the abundance of nearly every facility and condition for the successful production and distribution of goods is offered.

"Trends in merchandising are changing. The present trends are greatly to the advantage of Chicago. Miniature stocks, hand to mouth buying, reduced margins between producer and retailer selling price, and market accessibility—these are today's trends. Therefore the savings in time and freight resulting from proximity and efficient transportation are assuming an increasing importance in merchandising practices.

"This inevitably leads more and more dealers and consumers to depend upon the Chicago market as a source of their manufactured product. On the other hand, they are causing the producers to study more carefully those advantages of lower distributive costs in determining the location of their plants. On the whole, it can scarcely be doubted that these forces are highly favorable to the development of Chicago."

Policeman Battle Holdup Pair; One Man Is Shot

Two hours after Detective Patrick Carney of the Gresham station engaged in a revolver battle with two men who tried to rob him at 80th and Sangamon streets last night Frank Lekus, 20 years old, of 2901 Wallace street walked into Mercy hospital asking treatment for six bullet wounds in his arm. He told Cottage Grove police tat a pair of gunmen fired at him at Wallace and 30th streets. Policeman Carney was called to the hospital. He identified Lekus as one of the two men he exchanged shots with. Lekus was removed to the Bridewell hospital.

21 ARE INJURED WHEN BUS HITS VIADUCT PILLAR

Twenty-one persons were injured yesterday when a crowded loop-bound motor coach crashed into a concrete pillar of the Washington boulevard viaduct of the Chicago and North Western railroad terminal. About 50 other passengers on the bus were shaken up. The bus was a double-deck, open top front entrance type.

The accident happened when Arthur Jaffe, 505, South Lotus avenue, the operator, lost control of the bus when it struck a raised part in the pavement. Most of those injured were cut by flying glass and were taken to the Iroquois Memorial hospital for first aid treatment.

The most seriously injured are Thomas Flynn, 124 South Central avenue, who suffered a cut on the head, and Miss Elizabeth Rosenston, 6425 North Magnolia avenue, who received a fractured right leg when she was thrown to the floor of the bus.

Two deaths as the result of automobile accidents yesterday raised the Cook county motor toll since Jan. 1 to 341. The victims:

Mrs. Tillie Kefka, 50 years old, 2343 West Walton street. Died in St. Mary's hospital several hours after being struck by a truck at Division street and Ashland avenue. The driver was Joseph Welsh, 55 Illinois street, Chicago Heights.

Mrs. Lena Miller, 70 years old, 1616 South Harding avenue. Died in the county hospital of injuries received on Feb. 12 when she was struck by an automobile driven by Morris Weinberg, 570 Maxwell street, while crossing Harding avenue at 16th street.

ROUT 5 BANDITS IN CICERO BANK; CASHIER IS SHOT

Official and Guard Balk Holdup in Gun Battle.

The cashier and a special policeman of the Baker State bank of Cicero, 5823 West Roosevelt road, fought off a gang of five robbers in an attempted holdup of the bank yesterday afternoon. The cashier, Fred J. Sonnleitner, 37 years old, 5829 West 15th street, and probably two of the bandits were wounded. All of the robbers escaped, without loot.

The special policeman, John Haas, 67 years old, a retired member of the Chicago force who now lives in Forest Park, was on guard at the vault cage in the rear of the bank when the five robbers entered. All were armed with sawed off shot guns or pistols. As the bandits entered they shouted: "This is a holdup; we're after that dough!"

Cashier Joins Battle.

Haas, partly shielded by the vault cage, drew his pistol and fired. Instantly all the bank employés dropped behind their cages out of danger. Sonnleitner got his pistol from a drawer in his dish near the entrance, ducked around behind the fixtures to join Haas, and opened fire at the bandits.

The robbers started a retreat, firing at the two bank employés as they backed out the front doors. As the robbers withdrew, Haas and Sonnleitner advanced and just as they reached the entrance, Sonnleitner fell with a bullet in his left leg, shattering the bone near the knee. By this time the robbers had gained their automobile waiting at the curb with an accomplice at the wheel.

Report Two Robbers Shot.

Policeman Alfred Bibby of the Fillmore street station, on duty at 58th avenue and Roosevelt road, was attracted by the shooting and opened fire on the robbers as they sped past him and turned south into 58th avenue.

Miss Ruth Lorenz, 18 years old, soda dispenser in a drug store across the street from the bank, told police she saw two of the robbers pick up one of their companions who had staggered and fallen as he left the bank. She said another of the robbers was holding his shoulder as though he had been shot.

An automobile abandoned, with its motor running near the bank, was found to have been stolen in front of a north side hotel last night. A felt hat bearing the label of a north side haberdasher was in the car. The police believed the bandits may have abandoned this car.

DU PONTS' SOJOURN IN RENO MAY END IN SECOND HONEYMOON

Reno, Nev., April 15.—(AP)—A second honeymoon, instead of divorce, is the unexpected outcome of the visit to Reno of Mrs. Katherine Clark du Pont and her husband, Francis V. du Pont, son of the late Senator T. Coleman du Pont of Delaware.

Counsel for Mrs. Du Pont said today a reconciliation had been effected and that she had dropped her plans for instituting a divorce action.

Du Pont arrived here several days ago to meet his wife after he had returned from a sea trip for the benefit of his health. Mrs. du Pont had established residence here and her contemplated divorce suit would have been ready for filing shortly after May 1.

TRAYLOR URGES TAXING REFORM IN COOK COUNTY

Strawn Joins in Plea at Capital Hearing.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., April 15.—[Special.]—Melvin A. Traylor, chairman of the board of the First National bank, Chicago, and Attorney Silas H. Strawn appeared before a legislative committee this afternoon in the interests of Cook county tax reform. They came here to favor revision of the assessing machinery of the county and gave their views before the subcommittee considering the Schnackenberg bills to abolish the five assessors in Cook county and substitute one to do the work now being done by five.

Each presented a dismal picture of the city's financial condition, Mr. Traylor predicting that Chicago city employés will go unpaid on May 1. The bimonthly wages paid today came from special funds, he said, and just about emptied the pay roll coffers.

Issues Total $281,038,500.

The banker presented for the committee a tabulation of the amount of tax anticipation warrants that have been issued by the taxing bodies of Cook county, which totals $284,038,500, and is divided into the following parts:

City of Chicago	$226,832,500
Cook county	50,242,300
Sanitary district	21,863,700
West parks	5,000,000

The assessed valuation in Cook county in 1928 was $4,238,891,000, he pointed out.

"The Chicago schools couldn't meet their pay rolls today," Mr. Traylor said. "And the city had to tap special funds to meet theirs. I don't know what is going to be done on May 1 and I don't see how the city can function without tax reform. Before people can be induced to buy more tax warrants they have got to known when assessments are going to be made and collected."

Responsibility Divided.

The banker said that it was very difficult to get action on assessments when the responsibility is divided, which was taken to mean that he favored a smaller board.

Mr. Strawn reviewed the history of the citizens' committee which raised a $74,000,000 jackpot last year to aid the struggling taxing bodies of the county and city.

"For more than thirty years," Mr. Strawn said, "assessments in Cook county have been made under a system which embraces thirty local assessors, a board of assessors composed of five members, and a board of review composed of three members. These officials are all elective, virtually independent of each other, possessed of overlapping powers and numerous enough to pass the blame for anything that occurs back and forth among themselves indefinitely.

Refers to "Tax Fixers."

"The system has been characterized by the absence of any scientific methods, duplications of function, secrecy in its operation, and diffusion in its responsibility. The result has been an utter lack of uniformity in assessments which, in turn, has in recent years, produced a commercialized group of 'tax fixers,' whose activities have accelerated the demoralization of assessments."

Veto by Emmerson Unites Liberals Seeking Repeal

BY PERCY WOOD.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., April 15.—[Special.]—The liberal bloc in the house of representatives cut party lines today better to press the fight against the Emmerson administration for the governor's veto of the state prohibition law repealer.

A noonday caucus drew almost every member who voted for repeal, and the group decided almost unanimously that its first action would be to determine what funds the governor used in printing 160,000 copies of his veto message for broadcast over the state to a list of persons suggested, it is alleged, by the Illinois Anti-Saloon league.

This pamphlet, together with a loose page inserted in it, which quoted from the platform of the Republican convention last August, cost $4,000, according to Senator James O. Monroe [Dem., Collinsville], who called the attention of the senate to the matter this morning. The house bloc wanted to know from what funds the governor took the money.

Emmerson Reply Is Defiant.

An answer came from Mr. Emmerson late today which was interpreted as a direct defi to the liberals. The statement read:

"The house does not need to appoint any committee or pay any money out of its contingent funds to ascertain whether or not I am sending out copies of the veto message. I am sending them out, and I intend to continue to send them out. The voters and taxpayers of the state have a right to official copies of this message, and I am going to see that they get them in so far as practicable."

On the loose sheet was printed a photostatic copy of five paragraphs taken from the Republican state platform on prohibition. White lines were drawn around two of them, the first of which pledged the party to support "the laws of nation and state unless and until they are repealed or amended." The second indicated sentence is the contentious one which the governor chose to interpret as binding only candidates for congress to the results of the wet and dry referendum. It reads: "The Republican state convention, adhering to the doctrine of majority rule, pledges its representatives in the congress of the United States to vote consistently to carry out fully the expressed will of the people of their districts at the referendum on these questions of public policy in the election of Nov. 4, 1930."

No More Repeal Bills.

At the caucus the liberals also decided unanimously, on motion of Representative Leroy M. Green [Rep., Rockford], to introduce no further anti-prohibition bills during this session, ignoring the suggestion made by the governor that he would be favorably inclined toward a repeal bill which would be submitted to the voters in November, 1932.

"That's bunk," said Representative Thomas J. O'Grady [Dem., Chicago], author of the vetoed bill. "The governor calls us nullificationists in his message for voting for this bill and says in the next breath that if the bill has a referendum tacked to it he would be a nullificationist himself."

The caucus agreed that in 1933 it will again present the repealer and applauded the statement of Senator Victor P. Michel [Rep., Peoria], senate liberal leader, who said:

"Maybe two years from now we will have a governor on the second floor who will listen to the people."

Harmony Ignores Parties.

Democrats and Republicans were in perfect harmony at the meeting, a circumstance which led Chairman M. L. Igoe [Dem., Chicago], the house minority leader, to arise, beaming, and proclaim it the "first intelligent meeting ever held here on this question."

"The curse of prohibition was brought upon us because the Anti-Saloon league ignored party lines in its machinations," Igoe said. "We might take that page from their book and use it ourselves. We liberals should fight as liberals, not as Democrats or Republicans."

The governor came in for his share of criticism. Representative Harry M. McCaskrin [Rep., Rock Island] attacked the administration with vigor and Representative John Lee [Dem., Chicago] referred to Mr. Emmerson as "a good secretary of state even if he didn't turn in any interest."

It was the sense of the caucus that the liberals should not become obstructionists in holding up important appropriations, but should concentrate on cutting the "fat" out of any budgets that appeared too bulky.

DOWNSTATERS OF SENATE PASS INCOME TAX BILL

Measure Now Goes to the House.

dwellers, and downstate has the votes here. Besides, wherever income tax had been put up to the people, they've voed it down; so a referendum doesn't sound so good to them."

"Lauds Nontax Payer."

"We ought to amend the revenue section but in the right way, the regular way, through constitutional amendment," said Adelbert H. Roberts [Rep., Chicago]. "It's not an additional tax, but it makes the man who now pays no tax, pay a tax," remarked Epler C. Mills [Rep., Virginia].

"This bill," interrupted Joseph Mendel [Dem., Chicago], "puts an income tax upon every man and woman who earns $3 a day."

"Why don't they quit the farm racket, then?" replied Mendel.

"They've got a roof rent free and plenty of food."

"But the poor man in the city—how is he to live on three bucks a day and in addition pay income tax on this great stipend?"

"Poor people are not confined to farmers," interrupted Courtney. "This bill would place a tax of $50 to $100 on every man and woman paying rent in Cook county. We know farmers are being taxed to death, but is it fair to try to relieve them by putting a new tax on small earners and shifting the burden to the poor man? More than half this income tax will come from Cook."

"These bills," said Senator Lantz, "will make it possible for the state to dispense wholly with any levy of taxes upon property for state purposes and will save to the property taxpayers $30 to 35 million dollars a year. It will reduce taxes for the property taxpayers of Cook county 12 to 14 million dollars a year."

The roll call on the income tax bill was as follows:

Against: Cook county—Barbour, Broderick, Carroll, Courtney, Graham, Huckin, Leonardo, Loughran, Maypole, McDermott, Mendel, O'Grady, Roberts, Serritella, Ward, Woods—10. Downstate—Michel—1—17.

The Lants income tax embraces eight measures. A tax on income for state purposes only is provided. Its sponsors say it will provide 30 to 35 million dollars a year. The tax ranges from 1 per cent on incomes of less than $2,000 to 6 per cent on incomes in excess of $25,000. There are exemptions of $1,000 for single persons, $2,000 for married persons, and $500 for each dependent.

"The net proceeds," explained Senator Lantz, "of the income tax are to be used in lieu of all taxes on property for all state purposes except principal and interest on waterway and soldiers' compensation bonds."

INTEREST RATE BILLS OUT OF COMMITTEE AFTER TORRID DEBATE

Springfield, Ill., April 15.—[Special.]—A verbal tempest swept over the house of representatives this morning over two bills which would cut the interest rate on small loans which the sponsors wished withdrawn from subcommittees, where they seemed to be receiving little attention.

Representative James T. Burns [Dem., Kankakee] asked that the house grant leave for his bill, to cut the monthly interest from 3½ to 1 per cent, to be withdrawn from a subcommittee of the judiciary committee, where he said it had lain for more than a month.

Representative Elmer J. Schnackenberg [Rep., Chicago], chairman of the subcommittee, declared that Burns had agreed to the postponements.

The argument swept back and forth until Representative Thomas P. Sinnett [Dem., Rock Island] took the floor.

"I know all about subcommittees," Sinnett shouted. "I have a bill similar to Mr. Burns' in a subcommittee and I move to take it out also. It will suffer the same fate as his."

A roll call on Schnackenberg's motion to table Burns' demand was decided, 91-31, against Schnackenberg and the same vote took both bills from committee.

ACT TO ABOLISH PRIMARY VOTE ON PRESIDENT

Springfield, Ill., April 15.—[Special.]—Abolition of presidential preferential primaries in Illinois was voted for by the senate this evening. With few dissenting votes it passed the Michel bill to push the state primaries from April back to August. The measure repeals section 29 of the primary act, which provides that candidates for president may have their names printed on the primary ballots in April for an advisory vote. The preferential vote on president has been in vogue in Illinois since 1912.

In place of delegates to national conventions being picked by popular vote, the bill provides that they shall be selected by the state central and the congressional committees.

The house is expected to battle the measure which is regarded as having the support of Gov. Emmerson. Republican state officials have said they are desirous of knowing what the national conventions do in June before determining their candidates.

Opponents of the change from April to August, point out that in years past, when primaries were held in September, the time was too short between primaries and election to permit of contests and recounts in the case of elections suspected of being stolen. In 1920 Small won by a small margin over Oglesby for governor, but the time between was too short for a contest. Other instances are cited by antagonists of the change.

Mother Held with Two Youths on Robbery Charges

Mrs. Sara Davis, 40 years old, mother of a 16 year old daughter, was held with two young men yesterday on 29 robbery and burglary charges. The youths are Nicholas Sholtus, 18 years old, 5053 Lincoln avenue, and Stanley Ocherlund, 21, of 2180 Eastwood avenue. They were seized at Mrs. Davis' flat at 2756 Carmen avenue by Sergt. John Barrath. According to Capt. Ira McDowell, Mrs. Davis confessed participating in five holdups.

SEEK INDICTMENT OF TRADER AS POLICE SLAYER

Town Hall police are to go before the grand jury today to seek the indictment of Frederick Guy Sprague, 59 years old, a grain trader, for the murder of Patrolman Patrick Gallagher of the Town Hall station. Gallagher was shot to death early Tuesday morning when he went to Sprague's apartment in the Windsor-Wilson hotel, 915 Wilson avenue, to quiet a noisy party.

The coroner's jury, at the inquest conducted by Deputy Coroner Frank Donohue, yesterday recommended that Sprague be held on a murder charge. Attorney Barratt O'Hara said the defense would be that the shooting was an accident.

Among the witnesses at the inquest was Patrolman Carl H. Johnson, who accompanied Gallagher to the Sprague apartment; Miss Bernice Collins, former school teacher at Berlin, Wis., who is now studying art here, and Miss Julia Pierce, 22 years old, 2762 Hampden court.

The young women were guests at the party. Their testimony disclosed that Sprague had been drinking in celebration of his birthday. Miss Pierce said that when she arrived at the apartment and knocked at the door Sprague appeared carrying a pistol and exclaimed: "I thought it was those cops bothering us again; if they come around any more I'll shoot them."

LAY SUICIDE TO INSANITY.

A coroner's jury yesterday returned a verdict stating that George Ritsman, 53 years old, shot and killed himself Tuesday while temporarily insane. Ritsman was a farmer and lived near Waukegan and Dempster roads in Morton Grove.

SURVEY REVEALS MANY CARS LACK 1931 LICENSES

Autoists Fail to Pay City and State Taxes.

BY HAL FOUST.

One out of every five automobiles on the streets of Chicago is without a 1931 state license plate, a survey conducted yesterday. The boulevard traffic is thick with cars bearing 1930 numbers or no numbers at all, observers reported. There are even reports of a few 1929 plates having been seen in the last few days.

Chicago motorists are not alone in this delinquency. There were 1,638,260 cars registered in Illinois in 1930. Secretary of State Stratton reported that 1,293,562 licenses were issued in the first quarter of 1931. In the first quarter of 1930 1,315,294 licenses had been issued.

Fail to Pay City Tax.

Many are also delinquent in paying the Chicago vehicle tax. There were 661,474 of the tags sold by the city in 1930. On April 1 of this year 335,542 of the wheel tax tags had been issued. The state's records show there are approximately 670,000 motor vehicles in Cook county, and it is estimated that more than 500,000 of these are owned by Chicago residents. Morris Eller was former city collector.

The statutes specify that the plates of the new year must be carried by vehicles on and after Jan. 1. But this rule is not enforced.

Secretary of State Stratton announced more than a month ago that his office had caught up with current applications. However, police made virtually no arrests before the election last week for failure to have 1931 plates. Since the election there have been some warnings issued by the police, but few arrests.

Cars with 1930 Licenses.

A tour of the city yesterday disclosed 1930 plates on expensive limousines and on cheap, antiquated cars. It appeared that failure to purchase a 1931 license does not prove inability to pay the fee. Some of last year's numbers, noted on the streets at random, appear in the following list, with the names under which the licenses were issued:

"Those who are able to buy their city and state licenses should do so at once," said Charles M. Hayes, president of the Chicago Motor club. The state and city need this money for road and street work. There is approximately $1,500,000 in taxes that are three and a half months overdue."

CERMAK ORDERS CITY MOURNING FOR FIRE HEROES

Jurors Inspect Scene of Tunnel Disaster.

Mayor Cermak, in a telephone message from his Miami retreat yesterday, ordered the city hall draped with mourning for the loss of the lives of four firemen who perished in the sanitary district tunnel fire of Monday night. The mayor also directed his secretary, Henry Sonnenschein, to extend his congratulations to the heroes of the fire department who risked their lives time and again to rescue the men trapped in the tunnel.

An inspection of the tunnel was made yesterday by Coroner Herman N. Bundesen and the members of the jury impaneled to conduct an inquest into the 11 deaths due to the fire, as well as the death of Policeman Harry Fielder, who was killed by an ambulance near the scene of the disaster. The jurors spent an hour in the bore, which, when completed, is to be an intercepting sewer emptying into a sewage disposal plant at Stickney.

All but one of the fifty-four injured firemen and laborers had left St. Anthony's hospital last night. Capt. James Murphy of Engine Company 23 being the last fireman to be sent home. Agdin Busulovich, 1637 Clybourn avenue, a tunnel worker, was the remaining patient.

Orders Survey on Fire Rules.

Acting Fire Commissioner Edward A. Maloney ordered Division Marshal George Graves to make a survey of the fire prevention bureau to determine what regulations are provided for tunnel construction work in order that safeguards may be established. There should be ordinances preventing torches, candles, and lamps from being used in tunnels, he declared.

Maloney explained that under present city arrangements the families of the dead firemen will be given compensation in addition to whatever they receive as pensions. When a fireman is killed on duty his widow is given $5,000 if there are no children, $7,500 if there is one child, and $10,000 if she has more than one child.

Under police department provisions the family of Policeman Fiedler will receive $5,000. He was on duty at the time.

Compensations to Widows.

The seven tunnel workers who died in the smoke filled tube, not being city employés, came under the provisions of the workmen's compensation laws, lawyers said. At the offices of the Illinois state industrial commission, which has jurisdiction over claims for workmen killed or injured, the rate of payment to the families of the seven was given as follows:

For a widow with no children, $3,750, payable in weekly sums of $15; for a widow with one child under 16, $4,200 in weekly installments of $15; for a widow with two children under 16 years, $4,550, in weekly installments of $16; for a widow with three or more children under 16 years, $4,700, in installments of $18 a week if there are three children, and $20 a week if there are four.

Where the dependents of the deceased are living in Europe, the advice of the industrial commission is for the claimants to act through the consular office of their country.

FIREMEN TO BE HONORGUARDS AT COMRADES' RITES

Arrange Funerals for Tunnel Fire Heroes.

Honor guards of firemen will take part in the funeral services to be held for Capt. James E. O'Neill and Firemen William H. Karstens, William J. Coyne, and Edward Pratt, who lost their lives in trying to rescue men from the sanitary district sewage tunnel at 22d and Laflin streets on Monday night.

Delegations of firemen, including many who were injured in the disaster, will accompany the bodies to the cemeteries after services in homes and churches.

Services for Capt. O'Neill of truck No. 14, whose body was the last to be found by rescue squads, will be held from Visitation church, 843 West Garfield boulevard, at 9:45 o'clock tomorrow morning. Burial will be in Holy Sepulchre cemetery. Capt. O'Neill lived at 1019 West Garfield boulevard.

Services for Fireman Coyne of engine company 23, who had been with the fire department for 15 years, will be held at 9 o'clock tomorrow from the home at 1504 West Cullerton street, where he lived with his brother, Luke, to St. Pius' church, 1909 South Ashland avenue. Burial will be in Mount Carmel cemetery. Fireman Coyne was a member of the Firemen's post of the American Legion.

Services will be held at 9 a. m. tomorrow morning for Fireman Pratt at the home of his foster mother, Mrs. Mary Brennan, 6920 South Laflin street, and at St. Brendan's church, Marquette road and Racine avenue, at 9:30 o'clock. Burial will be in Mount Olivet cemetery.

Fireman Karstens' funeral will be held at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon from the home at 2313 South Kolin avenue. Burial will be in Waldheim cemetery.

Drop Vagrancy Charges Against Maxie Eisen

Vagrancy charges against Maxie Eisen, czar of the fish peddlers' union were nolle prossed by Judge Justin F. McCarthy of the Municipal jury court yesterday on motion of Assistant State's Attorney Robert E. Klenha. The prosecutor declared that no evidence of vagrancy within the eighten months' period permitted by the statute of limitations had been found against Eisen. Similar charges against Jack McGurn and Sam Battaglia, gangsters, were continued to April 29 and May 12, respectively.

CONTINUE CHARGE AGAINST WOMAN.

Mrs. Clara Buseke, 47 years old, 9619 Exchange avenue, was granted a continuance yesterday in the South Chicago court on a charge of performing an illegal operation. She shot herself when police went to arrest her on the charge and has not yet recovered.

COURT PONDERS RALPH CAPONE'S INCOME APPEAL

Defense Attacks Form of Indictment.

While counsel for Al Capone was docketing an appeal from his conviction and sentence to six months in jail for contempt of court arguments were heard yesterday by the United States Circuit Court of Appeals in Ralph Capone's income tax case. Ralph's appeal from a conviction and sentence to three years in the penitentiary was taken under advisement.

RALPH CAPONE.
[TRIBUNE Photo.]

United States Attorney Johnson, whose income tax campaign has resulted in the conviction of every gangster and politician so far tried, attaches much importance to the Capone appeal, for on its outcome the pleas of guilty by Terry Druggan and Frankie Lake, beer barons, are contingent with respect to felony counts.

An unsuccessful appeal on Capone's part also would encourage pleas of guilty and deter future appeals from convictions, thereby hastening the hoodlums and crooked public officials to prison, federal authorities believe.

The Capone case was unprecedented in one respect, an indictment charging "willful attempts to cheat, swindle and defraud the United States" through the making of a false offer in compromise for tax delinquencies. Druggan and Lake were similarly charged, and they reserved the right to change their pleas if Capone's conviction is reversed on this count.

Defense Counsel Dennis M. Kelleher yesterday attacked this indictment before Judges Samuel Alschuler, Evan A. Evans and Will H. Sparks. He said the statute was adopted during the civil war to curb cheating of the government by contractors, and that later legislation had superseded it.

Assistant United States Attorney Jacob I. Grossman defended the indictment, and cited Capone's claim of being a poor race horse man when he offered $1,000 in compromise of his tax difficulties as a willful attempt at fraud. Capone then had $25,000 in the bank, he said. The defense argued that testimony showing that Capone sold beer for $35 a barrel was improperly admitted, and Mr. Grossman replied that it was material to disprove the claims of poverty and gambling as a sole occupation.

A decision is expected to be handed down in the case within a month. Al Capone's appeal probably will not be heard before June.

LINGLE INQUIRY SPURS DRIVE ON GANGSTER POWER

Attack Hoodlum Rule on Many Fronts.

BY JOHN BOETTIGER.

CHAPTER XIII.

Never had the gangs of Chicago suffered such an assault as that which was dealt them because of the murder of Alfred Lingle.

Only once before, at the time of the gang murder of Assistant State's Attorney William H. McSwiggin in April, 1926, had there been a campaign against the hoodlum world which might approach in significance the events following Lingle's death. But the McSwiggin murder inquiry died within a half year. The slayers of the young prosecutor were never caught. There was a temporary lull in the activities of the gangs, but it was only a brief interruption.

The Lingle killing brought an end to one powerful gangster clan—the north side gang. The Lingle murder broke the spell which had shielded the all powerful gang of Scarface Al Capone, and it led Capone and the leading members of his crime cabinet to the threshold of penitentiaries and inside them.

War Still Continues.

As this is written, the war which began nearly a year ago is still in full swing; the advance of the forces of law and decency has not abated. Some of the gangsters are in prison, others await sentence, and many others await trial.

The great drive against the "public enemies," in which the time old vagrancy law was put to a new use, was inaugurated by Prosecutor Rathbun and Investigator Roche when they brought the first prosecutions of gangsters under this statute.

Before long vagrancy warrants had been issued for all the notorious leaders of crime in Chicago and prosecutions were begun under the direction of Assistant State's Attorney Harry S. Ditchburne, one of the ablest prosecutors on State's Attorney Swanson's staff.

Then Chief Justice McGoorty of the Criminal court called upon the grand jury to widen the scope of the public assault upon crime, and he urged the grand jurors to lead an investigation into the racketeering of hoodlums who had preyed upon builders and merchants for so many years. The Chicago Association of Commerce put new life into its demand for an end to crime and Col. A. A. Sprague took the helm of a committee of business chiefs which brought money and moral support to the rackets inquiry.

Hunt Police Graft.

As all these avenues into the land of crime were being pursued it became apparent that the police department stood at the crux of the battle, and that unless the department was purged of its grafting policemen allied with criminals no permanent relief from the rule of the gangs could be gained. So a special grand jury was impaneled to ferret out the graft on the police force, and this was put in charge of Assistant State's Attorney Charles Mueller.

Even before the murder of Lingle District Attorney George E. Q. Johnson had conceived his plan of attacking the politico-criminal alliance by investigating the incomes of the gang leaders and the crooked politicians. Mr. Johnson had obtained indictments against some of those investigated, charging them with income tax frauds.

Then, supported by all the force of public opinion aroused by the Lingle murder, District Attorney Johnson presented his cases against the gangsters to the courts and juries and convicted them.

'Launch "Vagrancy" Drive.

The vagrancy drive against the "public enemies" was launched in September. Lieut. Frank Johnson arrested Israel [Izzy] Alderman and Joe Condi, a pair of gangsters. Alderman was suspected of having aided Frank Foster, the gunman sought as an accessory to the Lingle murder, while Foster hid from the authorities in Los Angeles, and there was evidence that he had sent Foster letters and money.

Alderman was questioned by Rathbun and Roche, and he and Condi maintained a sullen, defiant attitude and refused to respond to questions. The evidence against the men was not sufficient upon which to bring any charge against them, but the Lingle investigators were not satisfied to permit them to go free. Alderman was known as a ruthless criminal, and Condi had but recently been released from the penitentiary, and both admitted they had had no lawful occupation for many months.

Prosecutor Rathbun read over the statute defining a vagrant.

"Why can't we prosecute these hoodlums as vagrants?" he asked Roche. "They haven't done an honest day's work in months. They have no lawful means of support. It seems to me these men are vagrants under this law."

Make Study of Law.

For many years, even back to a half century ago when the law was enacted, a vagrant was considered to be a wayward bum, a loafer who had no money. But the law specifically stated that a vagrant was one who had no visible means of lawful support, and that a person regularly engaged in a lawless enterprise was a vagrant.

Prosecutor Rathbun caused an exhaustive legal investigation of the vagrancy statute to be made, and a brief was prepared showing that prosecution under the law could be directed against notorious criminals.

Meanwhile, a writ of habeas corpus was sued out in behalf of Alderman and Condi, and Chief Justice McGoorty had directed that the men be released or charges laid against them. So Prosecutor Rathbun and Investigator Roche brought charges of vagrancy against Alderman and Condi, and they were arraigned before Judge John H. Lyle.

Sentenced to Jail.

The judge, in a peremptory hearing, sentenced both gangsters to six months at hard labor and fined them each $100. This was the first time that the vagrancy law was invoked in Chicago against a notorious criminal.

The two gunmen were hustled off to jail without ceremony, but immediately a legal dispute arose between Chief Justice McGoorty and Judge Lyle, the former contending that Judge Lyle had no jurisdiction to sentence the men while the habeas corpus writ was pending. Eventually Judge Lyle's sentence was revoked, but a way had been shown to strike at the gangsters and the new weapon was put into immediate use.

Judge Lyle issued vagrancy warrants for all of the "public enemies" who were then unmurdered and directed the police to bring all of them before the bar of his court.

THE PUBLIC ENEMIES

The term "public enemy" was coined by Frank J. Loesch, president of the Chicago crime commission, that courageous man who has fought so energetically against the evils of public corruption. Mr. Loesch, who at 76 stepped into the vanguard of crime fighters, directed the preparation of a list of 28 notorious gangsters of Chicago, gave their lawless history, and announced that henceforth these men were public enemies and should be dealt with accordingly.

When Judge Lyle issued vagrancy warrants for the public enemies, two of them had been slain and the number stood at 26. These were the public enemies named in the warrants, as they were described by the crime commission:

Alphonse Capone, alias Scarface, the worst of all of them.

Tony [Mops] Volpe, a Capone bodyguard.

Frank Rio, another Capone bodyguard, who was his chief's companion for a year in a Philadelphia prison, where both had been sent for carrying concealed weapons.

Frank Diamond, Capone gunman.

Joseph Aiello, head of seven brothers comprising the notorious Aiello clan, also of the north side gang.

Polack Joe Saltis, south side beer chief.

Vincent McErlane, brother of Frank.

Myles O'Donnell, brother of Klondike, also a labor racketeer.

Col. Henry Barrett Chamberlin, operating director of the Chicago crime commission, who prepared the list of public enemies with Mr. Loesch, sat on the bench with Judge Lyle as the warrants were issued.

The gangsters scurried for cover. They counseled with their gang lawyers, seeking a means of beating the vagrancy charges. Some of them overnight became "directors" in various lawful enterprises so that they might present evidence of a lawful occupation. It was plain to them that they could not forever escape arrest on the vagrancy charge unless they left Chicago for good, and if they did that the authorities were disposed to let well enough alone.

During the heat of this campaign two gunmen, Dominick Bello and Dominick Brancato, said to be old time members of the Aiello gang, were arrested in front of the Temple building, where the Rathbun-Roche headquarters were situated. Loaded revolvers were found in their automobile, and the belief was expressed that they intended violence to the prosecutors. They were taken to cells.

SCANDAL BREAKS

Then a sensational scandal broke, involving the police department. Federal officers, raiding a south side hotel known as a hangout for members of the Capone gang, entered the room of Tony Tagenti, a Capone bondsman, and they found under Tagenti's pillow an official police communication.

It was a list of gangsters, prepared under the direction of Acting Commissioner Alcock, and the hoodlums were scheduled for prosecution under the vagrancy law. This was a supplemental list, intended to cover notorious gangsters not named in the original list of 26 public enemies, and great secrecy was supposed to have been employed so that the gangsters named would not learn of the impending prosecutions.

Brings Censor Charge.

Forty-one hoodlums were named on the "secret" police list, which had been made up by Chief of Detectives John Norton and his deputy, John Ryan. Opposite the names of eight of the men on this list crosses had been placed in pencil.

Then it was discovered that a second list had been prepared by the police department, and that on this list the names of the eight men indicated with a cross on the list found in the Capone headquarters had been omitted. All of these eight men were notorious as leading figures in the Capone organization, and when these facts became known, the charge was made that the Capone gangsters had been permitted to censor the original police list, and had been successful in having the names of their own fellows taken off. None of the names on the revised police list were recognizable as those of gangsters affiliated with the Capone gang.

The Eight Names Deleted.

The eight Capone gangsters whose names did not appear on the second list were the following:

Louis Campagna, known as a Capone killer.

Claude Maddox, owner of the Circus café, where the St. Valentine's day massacre of the north side gang was said to have been planned.

Ted Newberry, erstwhile north side gangster who had deserted to the Capone forces to become the Capone leader on the north side.

Tony Accardo, a Capone gunman.

Marty Guilfoyle, operator of Capone gambling enterprises.

Two other names on the original list, Maurice and Frank Quirk, known as beer runners, had also been left off of the second police list.

An investigation was launched and Norton charged that the original list had been stolen from his files. Norton's secretary said he had prepared the second list from memory and that the elimination of the Capone gangsters was not deliberate but an oversight.

Deputy Chief Ryan Demoted.

Capt. Ryan was demoted as deputy chief of detectives, although he protested his innocence of any complicity in the matter. The 31 names remaining on the list of gangsters scheduled for prosecution for vagrancy were as follows:

Mike de Pike Heller.	Red Bolton.
James Joyce.	Nick Kramer.
Albert Ruggio.	Solly Vislon.
Martin O'Leary.	Sam Kaplan.
E. Cook, alias Butch.	George Vogel.
Ernest Fontana.	John Beran.
Joe Fiore.	Thomas Abbott.
Jack Sopkin.	Rocco Rocuna.
Frank Berman.	Frank Panio.
James Pelcare.	Ralph Scala.
Nick Valeta.	Steve Oswald.
William Dirrs.	Maxie Eisen.
William [Dutch] Emmerling.	Mike Carozza.
William [Bubs] Quinlan.	Dan McGeoghegan.
Paul Swain.	Dominick Nuccio.
	Harry Brown.

The investigation of the circumstances surrounding the police lists was taken up by grand juries and by a committee of aldermen, but no solution of this mystery has been announced. It was brought out that the police had neglected to question Tagenti, the Capone bondsman in whose custody the list was found, and that Tagenti was hurried through the bureau of identification at the detective bureau without being questioned by Norton or Ryan.

The rout of the gangsters went on. One after another men whose notorious names had been so often inscribed in the crime history of Chicago were arrested, haled into court, held in high bonds, jailed, imprisoned, harried, and harassed.

THE "HOWLING MOB"

Sometimes judges, feeling themselves bound by so many years of red tape and technicalities, put themselves in the way of speedy justice. Judges Harry M. Fisher and Joseph B. David, on the same day, while they were considering pleas of gunmen for relief from summary justice, by chance used the same phrase in declaring they would not be a part of "the howling mob" that was disregarding legal "traditions."

At the same time, Judge David refused to try the gun toting cases against Bello and Brancato, the two men found armed outside the Rathbun-Roche headquarters. Judge David said he was too busy to try them, but he adjourned court at 3:20 p. m., long before the regular closing time.

On the following day State's Attorney Swanson in a statement answered Judges Fisher and David.

"If it be a howling mob which is trying to send these gangsters, hoodlums, and racketeers to prison, then count me in as being in the front line," Mr. Swanson said.

Ralph Capone Pushed Around.

Ralph Capone surrendered to the police and was hustled out on bond in ten minutes, but the next day, when he came before Judge Lyle, the gangking's brother was given a "pushing around," and spent a day in custody being finger printed, "mugged," and questioned for hours.

Bugs Moran was captured in Lake county and hauled into Chicago for trial. Jack Guzik was arrested by the government. Danny Stanton, Jack White, and Red Barker felt the brunt of vagrancy warrants. Joe Saltis surrendered. And there were many others.

"Terrible Terry" Druggan was served with a vagrancy warrant while on a hospital bed. When he was to be arraigned, he sent a doctor before Judge Lyle to plead his illness, but the judge doubted and with Investigator Roche and a squad of men he searched Druggan's room at the Morrison hotel, where he was then supposed to be lying ill.

A loaded automatic was found in the room, but Terry was out. The Roche raiders went out to Terry's apartment in Rogers Park, a haven of rich luxury. Terry was not there, either, but a secret wall panel yielded a Thompson machine gun, shotguns, revolvers, and ammunition.

The story of the war on Chicago gangdom has but begun. There is more to tell before this tale of the Lingle case is ended, and that which is to come deals even more intimately with that case itself, and with the efforts to bring about a solution of the Lingle mystery.

Nor will the end of the story herald the end of the struggle of the law against gangs. Time will put an end to that. The struggle yet wages, and the odds at this writing would seem to favor the law.

INNOCENT VICTIM

WILLIAM KALCHBRENNER. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

William Kalchbrenner, 14 years old, 42 East Walton place, delivery boy for a florist, was shot and perhaps fatally wounded last evening by a bullet fired at a thief who had just snatched a pocketbook from a woman in front of 60 Scott street.

The boy, with a bouquet in his hands, had turned into an alley east of the scene to enter the Churchill apartments when the thief, having taken the purse of Caroline Wallace, a maid employed at 60 Scott street, ran by him.

Screams of the woman attracted the attention of Harry Steinley, chauffeur for Lyman B. Kilbourn, 70 Scott street, president of the Central Cold Storage company. From his room over the Kilbourn garage, which is on the alley, Steinley fired at the fleeing thief, who was getting into an automobile in which a confederate sat. The bullet struck the boy with the flowers in the abdomen. He was taken to the Henrotin hospital. Steinley was taken into custody by the police.

REBELS CAPTURE NICARAGUA PORT IN NIGHT ATTACK

Identify Nine Americans Slain in Battles.

PUERTO CABEZAS, Nicaragua, April 15.—(AP)—Word reached here that a band of insurgents, splitting from the main body which has been operating inland, captured Cape Gracias a Dios, a small port just south of the Honduran border, at 2 a. m. today.

Marine corps aviators investigating the silence of the Cape Gracias radio station were fired on by insurgents during the morning.

Rebels Carry Off Loot.

The attackers, they said, were shoving off in a number of small boats loaded with loot.

Hardly armed insurgent bands in the hills of northeast Nicaragua have killed nine Americans and an undetermined number of natives since last Saturday.

United States marines landed from the U. S. S. Asheville to protect the citizens of this port today. There are 60 Americans here.

Band Descends on Town.

Refugees from the sector in which the attackers are operating said the band descended early Saturday morning on the settlement at Logtown, 70 miles from here. A commissary clerk saw them coming and had time to call to Wawa Junction telephone exchange and cry for help before he ran.

Insurgents ambushed the little expeditionary force, killing Capt. Pefley and wounding two of the others. William Selser, an American, died of his wounds later. Reports brought here said the bodies of victims were chopped into small pieces.

Ambush Second Party.

Subsequently Lieut. Clyde Darrah set out with twenty men, but they, too, were ambushed.

The Americans killed were: Capt. Pefley, U. S. marines, Philadelphia; W. H. Bond Jr., Sarasota, Fla.; Percy Davis, Hammond, La.; Hubert Wilson New Orleans; J. D. Phelps, Baton Rouge, La.; J. H. Bryan, Clinton, Md.; "Rip" Davis of Mississippi; William Selser, Florida, and J. M. Sagastrumi, Gautemala City, believed to be an American citizen.

[A dispatch to the Standard Fruit and Steamship company at New Orleans listed two additional Americans among the dead. These were Joseph L. Pennington of Garyville, La., and a man named Roper of Bluefields, Nicaragua.]

Wisconsin Missionary Slain.

BLUEFIELDS, Nicaragua, April 15.—(AP)—The Rev. Karl Bergener of Watertown, Wis., a Moravian missionary in the Prinzapolka district, was reliably reported killed by bandits. When Cape Gracias a Dios was captured by insurgents, the tropical radio manager, Elbert C. Lester of Texas escaped and is en route to Puerto Cabezas. Other American residents of Cape Gracias a Dios include Albert and Edwin Fagot of New Orleans, and William J. Green of Allegheny, Pa.

KING OF SIAM IS ILL; CANCEL PLANS FOR CHICAGO RECEPTION

Plans to entertain the king and queen of Siam in Chicago on April 21 were abandoned yesterday when it was learned that King Prajadhipok was ill on the steamer Empress of Japan, on which he is crossing the Pacific. Other entertainments planned for him in Canada have been canceled.

KING PRAJADHIPOK. [Acme Photo.]

A radio message from the ship was received by Prince Amoradat Kridakara, Siamese minister to the United States, stating that the king had "suffered indisposition." The minister then notified the local committee of reception, headed by Maj. Reed Landis, that the train schedule of the royal party from the west coast to the east had been changed and that their arrival here would be in the evening instead of the morning of April 21.

The Empress of Japan is scheduled to dock at Vancouver early Friday. If the condition of King Prajadhipok permits he will board a train there on Saturday and proceed without leaving the train to New York, where he is to undergo medical treatment.

GRAND JURORS REJECT ORDERS OF JUDGE DAVID

Jurist Spends Busy Day Demanding Action.

Judge Joseph B. David of the Criminal court extended leniency in 1928 to James Chapman, 23 years old, 1910 West 21st street. But yesterday when Chapman was again in court, accused of another crime, the judge wanted to see that Chapman was given every bit of punishment possible—if he is guilty. As a result Judge David spent a stormy day trying to get additional action from the grand jury and the state's attorney's office.

Chapman was sentenced to four months in the bridewell by Judge David on Aug. 2, 1928. At that time the charge of burglary was changed to petty larceny to permit of the light sentence. Yesterday Chapman stood before the judge on a charge of stealing an automobile and on a second charge of stealing some drug supplies.

Sends for Grand Jury.

"Send for the grand jury," shouted Judge David when he was informed that only two indictments were pending against Chapman. "Some one is to blame for this and I intend to find out. If this defendant is found guilty on these cases I will make his sentence run consecutively."

The judge sat back to await the arrival of the grand jury. The bailiff returned and informed him that the grand jury was busy and that if he wanted to see the grand jury he could go down to their quarters.

"I should go down there," expostulated the judge. "Go back and tell that jury to come up to this court room at once."

The grand jury at this time was making the usual routine report to Chief Justice McGoorty of the Criminal court. The foreman of the jury communicated to Judge McGoorty the command, which had been received from Judge David. The chief justice told the jurors to stand pat and make Judge David come to them in secret session if he had any matter to present. This message was sent back to Judge David.

"Get the state's attorney up here," the judge told Assistant State's Attorney Georges Lavin and Jack Baum.

"I am the state's attorney in this court," said Prosecutor Lavin.

To the telephone went the judge and he called Judge McGoorty. It was reported that the wires sizzled during the brief conversation.

Judge David returned to the bench. He told Prosecutor Lavin to take up the matter with First Assistant State's Attorney William A. Rittenhouse during the lunch hour. He then adjourned court with the following remark: "What's the use? Apparently criminal court judges are no more than errand boys around here."

Chow Battles Gold Coast Robbers; Blinded by Acid

Three bandits, one armed, invaded the apartment of Mrs. Ida Helm above her tearoom at 118 East Delaware place in the Gold Coast late last night. They threatened her with death, took $50, and started to depart. As the last robber reached the door, Suey, a Chinese chow, growled and leaped at him. The bandit wheeled and hurled the contents of a small bottle into the dog's face. The stuff was acid and Suey probably will become blind.

WOMEN VOTE TO FORGET PARTY IN WAR ON DRY LAW

Then Show the Resolution to Hoover.

BY GENEVIEVE FORBES HERRICK.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 15.—[Special.]—Mrs. Leslie Wheeler of Chicago was today responsible for a resolution, regarded as the most significant of the entire convention, by which the Woman's Organization for National Prohibition Reform urged its 300,000 members to forget party regularity, and to support only those candidates for public office who have "openly declared themselves in favor of the repeal of the eighteenth amendment."

As chairman of the commitee on political activities, Mrs. Wheeler presented this resolution at the closing session this afternoon. The theme of many of the speeches had been "put principle above party"; but none of the officers would predict that the organization would really go so far as to urge its members to bolt their parties.

Resolution Unanimously Adopted.

This resolution, however, was unanimously adopted. As a matter of fact, everything was done unanimously. Mrs. Charles Sabin, the president, was questioned about this strange unanimity and she replied immediately.

"Of course, when it comes to anything about the 18th amendment, we, even though we are women, and there are 1,135 of us, are in absolute agreement."

The only thing about which there was a difference of opinion was on the question of going to see the President and presenting to him a repeal referendum resolution.

Mrs. Robert Lovett, former chairman of the Massachusetts woman's committee for Hoover, made the date with the President. Then the women began to demur. Some thought it "silly to go when he's against us." Others, 534 of them, thought it would be a "very good thing to do."

And so they went to the White House executive offices, where previously this week two deputations of dry women have been received. First the executive committee went in, and Mrs. Courtlandt Nicoll of New York gave President Hoover the resolution.

"He smiled," she reported later, "and said 'I'm glad to get it.'"

Then the others filed through the office and shook hands. One of the number was Mrs. William D. Mitchell, wife of Brig. Gen. "Billy" Mitchell of court martial fame. Through the open window she spied a friend, and being in somewhat of a hurry to greet her friend, she took the shortest if not the most official method of getting into the spring sunshine. She hiked herself over the window ledge and jumped onto the lawn of the White House, and the front page of local newspapers.

Later in the day, another Mrs. Mitchell, Mrs. William H. of Chicago, presided at the sessions; Mrs. George H. Brennan was chairman of the Chicago delegation.

When it was all over Mrs. Sabin pronounced it "one thousand per cent successful." She triumphed in the 300,000 memberships.

OLD NAVY YARD AT CHARLESTON GETS COIN AGAIN

Hoover Fourth President in Row to Yield.

Washington, D. C., April 15.—[Special.]—President Hoover is the latest American chief executive to come off second best in a brush with the political supporters of a group of Atlantic coast obsolete shore stations and yards which now exact a toll of millions annually from the United States treasury.

SENATOR E. D. SMITH.
[(C) Harris & Ewing.]

Like Roosevelt, Harding, and Coolidge before him, President Hoover came to grief when he attempted to curtail expenditures at the little used Charleston, S. C., industrial yard, considered the navy's prize example of what a go-getter congressman can do for a seacoast district in the matter of securing funds from the United States treasury.

The Charleston yard, established in 1901, through the political influence of "Pitchfork Ben" Tillman, South Carolina Democratic senator, has successfully weathered a score of legislative and administrative battles to curtail its activities.

In this latest instance, southern senators led by Senator Ellison DuRant Smith [Dem., S. C.] secured an administration promise to expend $150,000 in building a destroyer way at the Charleston yard, as the price of avoiding the double danger of an extra session of congress and final approval of the second deficiency bill carrying funds for items including the modernizing of three battleships and beginning construction on eleven destroyers. Both the budget controlled by the White House and the navy had failed to include the item in their estimates of naval needs.

As explained today, this is what happened: The South Carolina group, after meeting defeat twice in an attempt to have funds included in the regular naval appropriation and the first deficiency bill, put up a last ditch fight to include the $150,000 item in the second deficiency bill during the closing days of congress. Taking advantage of the fact that President Hoover was anxious to avoid an extra session, the backers of the Charleston appropriation threatened to filibuster against the deficiency bill if the item was not retained. Chairman Burton L. French [Rep., Idaho] of the naval subcommittee of the house appropriations committee termed the appropriation wasteful and unnecessary and refused to approve it.

The situation was called to the attention of the White House. Finally, to break the deadlock, a gentlemen's agreement was reached in the senate just before adjournment under which the item was deleted from the second deficiency bill, thus removing the French opposition, and Smith was assured that funds for building the way would be taken from regular navy maintenance funds.

The new Charleston way had been opposed by the budget because no new ships have been built at that yard since 1923 and present naval policy is against construction of new vessels there. Those supporting the appropriation, however, succeeded in 1929 in obtaining $300,000 for repairing the docks at Charleston despite budget and navy opposition and funds for the new way were asked with the idea of developing a building yard at Charleston. As a result a new destroyer which might have gone to construction firms on the great lakes may go to South Carolina.

The NORGE ELECTRIC REFRIGERATOR with the ROLLATOR

Norge has a simple, powerful and compact refrigerating mechanism, the Rollator.

One of these mechanical units was started running in 1927 in an open room in the Norge factory. Operating day and night continuously, except for yearly 24 hour inspections and checking by micrometer gauge, this unit has equalled 16 years of normal service in the home. This Marathon mechanism shows no measurable wear, is actually operating ½ of one per cent more efficiently than when started and it gives every indication of going right on performing as satisfactorily for years and years.

Only Norge has the Rollator . . . so, you should see the Norge before you buy! It is manufactured by Norge Corporation, Detroit, a Division of Borg-Warner, originators of free wheeling. Every American car made today contains products of Borg-Warner Corporation.

Simplest refrigerating mechanism, the Norge Rollator has only three moving parts . . . it's just a roller slowly revolving in a permanent bath of protective oil.

ILLINOIS TRACTOR COMPANY LANDS BIG SOVIET ORDER

Sells Russia $25,000,000 Worth of Machinery.

BY HENRY WALES.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MOSCOW, March 30.—[By Mail.]—Following a tour of inspection which led him clear across Siberia to the Pacific, where he visited Vladivostok, John Crumbaugh, representative since last autumn of the Caterpillar Tractor company of Peoria, Ill., has left Moscow for the United States. He will be replaced here by N. E. Gowing of Piedmont, Cal., who has been in London.

The Caterpillar Tractor company is estimated to have done $26,000,000 worth of business with the soviet government and its machines have been placed in numerous state and collective farms. Despite the efforts of the government to create its own industry and manufacture domestic tractors in accordance with the 5 year plan, the belief is held by Mr. Crumbaugh that another $50,000,000 worth of business will be done here by foreign makers.

Had Thrilling Adventures.

Mr. Crumbaugh had several thrilling experiences on his journey across Russia in the trans-Siberian express. On one occasion, after his sleeping car had been wrecked and cut out of the train, he was forced to sleep on the floor in the dining car. During the night one of the cooks, sleeping beside him, went out to the rear of the car, believing he heard moans.

Through the frosted window he could make out two forms, clinging to the hand rails and wedged against the steps of the vestibule. The door was opened and a dead woman, frozen stiff, her ungloved hands clutching the brass rails in a lifeless viselike grip, and her child, a boy aged 9, were found there.

They were taken into the dining car and efforts were made to resuscitate the boy, who had lost consciousness. He was revivied with a swallow of vodka.

At another station Mr. Crumbaugh alighted to stretch his legs. While walking up and down the platform he was attracted by the sight of an apparently demented woman rushing up and down, talking excitedly to every one who would heed her. She carried what appeared to be a bundle of rags pressed against her bosom.

"I thought she wanted some cigarets or a few kopecks, and I handed her a box with a few in, and a ruble," Mr. Crumbaugh said. "She ignored what I offered, however, but threw aside the rags and disclosed a dead baby. The infant had evidently been dead two or three days. Apparently the mother had become demented."

Mr. Crumbaugh said that east of Chita, in the Amur river district, the dining car literally fell to pieces, collapsed as the train was pulling out of the station and disintegrated.

"They make some miraculous repairs right on the road," he said. "They jack up cars and locomotives and repair jobs which in America would only be handled in railroad shops by experienced crews of skilled mechanics.

Finds Food Bad.

"Food was rather bad on the train I went east on, but all right coming westward on my return. Whenever I experienced any difficulty I went immediately to the G. P. U. police at the railway station and they found me a room in the hotel or somewhere and produced food for me—eggs at $1.50 apiece, bread, tea, etc."

Prices are extremely high for foreigners in the far eastern regions of Siberia, Mr. Crumbaugh said, and it costs almost $60 a day to live in Vladivostok.

"An ordinary luncheon costs $11 to $12.50," he said. "I saw a rivetless ship, welded by acetylene torch, 700 tons burden, and made of plates three-sixteenths of an inch thick, at the Vladivostok shipyards. She will be sent to the arctic and used as a whaler, but she seemed so frail she looked as though she would crumble up like an eggshell."

Sees Rush to Farms.

Mr. Crumbaugh witnessed the rush to collective farms in Siberia and feverish building efforts to house the communal villages.

"Whole new towns have been put up, log cabins and wooden shacks, mostly with walls up but still roofless," he said. "I saw millions of feet of cut and sawed timber piled up along the line of the trans-Siberian awaiting shipment."

TRIBUNE VESSELS START LAKE RACE TO CHICAGO PORT

Two lake vessels belonging to THE TRIBUNE, the Thorold and the New York News, cleared the Welland canal early last evening and pushed out into Lake Erie on the first long open stretch of their race for Chicago.

The skippers, Capt. George Ferguson and Capt. F. V. McIntyre, and the crews are anxious for the honor of being the first to land a cargo of paper in Chicago after the opening of navigation. Capt. Ferguson's Thorold, a specially designed motorship, is bringing 2,268 tons of paper and the New York News, a steam vessel, 1,220 tons. Both are expected to dock in the Chicago river on Sunday.

Their cargoes are the first that have come out of the Welland canal this spring, both boats leaving the dock of the Ontario Paper company, a TRIBUNE subsidiary, early in the afternoon. They were delayed for the opening of a railroad bridge over the canal. A chartered paper carrying boat, the Bennington, went into the canal yesterday and another, the Burlington, was coaling at Detroit last night and will proceed to the mill at Thorold on the canal for loading.

McFeely Appoints Three to Office in Oak Park

Three appointments were made last night by Willis McFeely, newly elected president of the Oak Park village board, at the regular meeting of the board. The new appointees are W. W. Clark, veteran newspaper man, as court clerk, succeeding Ben Colewell; Thomas W. Barrett Jr., as prosecuting attorney, succeeding Thomas A. Walpole, and Ted R. Leth, president of the Oak Park Real Estate board, as controller, succeeding William Unfried. Barrett is a nephew of Charles V. Barrett, member of the county board of review.

HARRISON HIGH BAND IS CHOSEN CITY CHAMPION

BY EDWARD MOORE.

Harrison High school will send its band as the Chicago entry to the national high school band contest in Tulsa, Okla., May 23, 24, and 25. The Harrison band won the city final contest last night.

The place was the auditorium of Roosevelt High school, and seven bands that had survived the preliminary and semi-final contests competed. Each played a piece required by the terms of the contest and another of its own choice.

Playing Shows Improvement.

There has been a quite extraordinary betterment in high school band playing in the last few years, especially in matters of spirit, attack, and general musical development. Most of them appeared to be under almost military discipline, not only in uniform but in deportment. As the curtain raised, the players were all in position on their seats, instruments, at least the small instruments, across their lap. As the director stepped to the stand, instruments were raised, as the baton went into the air, playing position was taken, and, with the first stroke, the music started.

This was an interesting spectacle. It needed only one further item, that all the instruments should have been tuned to the same pitch. That they were not in all cases was the chief fault, and also the undoubted reason why several were not tied for first place. But a contest that requires Massenet's "Phedre" overture for bands of from fifty to seventy-five players, and the Entrance of the Gods Into Valhalla, from Wagner's "Rheingold," for bands of from seventy-five to 100, with chosen pieces such as Gomez's "Il Guarany" overture, Verdi's "Force of Destiny" overture, and Tschaikowsky's "Valse des Fleurs," is no competition of beginners, but quite the contrary.

Senn Band Plays.

While the figures of judgment were being added and averaged, the Senn band appeared to play some extra numbers. This organization was not required to be in the contest, having been city champions in 1927, 1928, and 1929, and national champions in 1929. It is still rather the superior of the actual entrants.

Four selections were made, each to receive a shield as token. In order, they were Harrison, as just stated, Capt. John H. Barabash, director; Lane second, Capt. Gardner P. Huff, director; Austin third, Capt. Edwin O. Schildhauer, director, and Lake View fourth, Capt. Louis D. Wals, director. The other contestants were Schurz, Tilden, and Morgan Park. Fenger was listed among the entrants, but did not appear.

ALL this, plus the most important advance in motoring since the electric starter — Free Wheeling with positive gear control!

Free Wheeling, pioneered by Studebaker, has swept the nation. Other motor car builders have adopted it — notably Pierce-Arrow and Lincoln, whose conservative engineering judgment is beyond argument. Others will follow.

But right now, in a Free Wheeling Commander, you can enjoy the thrill of unfettered travel, carried instead of harried by the force of momentum!

You will enjoy it doubly, because it will save you 15 to 20% on gasoline and oil. Out of each 10,000 miles you travel, the Commander's velvet 101-horsepower engine works but 8,000 miles.

Every curve and crossing, every occasion for slowing down or gear change, will bring you added satisfaction, as you shift silently, easily, without touching the clutch.

You will delight in the knowledge of greater safety. Public highway and traffic officials from coast to coast have pronounced Studebaker's Free Wheeling with positive gear control a distinct contribution to highway safety.

Think ahead before you buy. Ask yourself: "How new is any 'new' car without Free Wheeling?" How much will it re-sell for a year or two from now?

DAUGHTER SEEKS MISSING GEMS OF LILLIAN RUSSELL

Sues to Break Will of Stepfather.

Pittsburgh, Pa., April 15.—[Special.]—The late Alexander P. Moore purchased for $1,000 a pearl necklace which was part of the estate of his wife, Lillian Russell, three days after an appraiser had valued the string at $8,500, it was testified in Orphans' court today.

The testimony was given by J. A. Grant, Pittsburgh newspaper man, in whose name the sale was listed. Grant was testifying at the trial of the suit of Mrs. Dorothy Russell Calvit to break the will of her stepfather, the late ambassador and publisher.

Grant said he gave the Union Trust company a check for $1,000 for the necklace, consisting of 67 pearls and a diamond clasp, Nov. 24, 1922—but that he acted only as Moore's agent.

Judge Trimble previously had ruled that the Moore estate must show what became of the necklace and of a $15,000 marquise diamond ring, alleged to have vanished from the estate of the famous beauty.

Appraises Jewels Highly.

A deposition of Smith A. Keim, New York jeweler, who had been engaged to appraise Miss Russell's jewelry after the comic opera star's death, listed the necklace as worth $8,500 and the ring worth $15,000.

Keim, in his deposition, said the marquise diamond and the pearl necklace were not offered for sale when the jewels, objects of art, and personal effects of Miss Russell were auctioned by the American Art galleries.

Mrs. Calvit seeks one-half of her stepfather's estate, worth about $600,000. She alleges Moore promised to provide for her when Miss Russell accepted his marriage proposal.

Tells of Missing Property.

Other depositions concerning the allegedly missing articles were given by Ada Patterson, magazine writer, and William W. Seaman of the American Art galleries.

A portrait of Miss Russell painted by Howard Chandler Christy was given to Miss Russell by the artist because, he said in a deposition, Moore "raised a disturbance about the bill and didn't pay it." Christy said his bill was $3,000.

FILE NEW SUIT TO HALT MERGER OF CAR LINES

A new suit to stop the merger of the city's transportation lines was started yesterday before Circuit Judge Michael Feinberg. The suit, alleging that the consolidation is invalid on grounds that the enabling legislation is unconstitutional, was filed as a supplemental bill to a suit begun more than six years ago.

The petition asks for an injunction to restrain the elevated lines from becoming a part in the merger. It was filed by Attorney Mitchell Dawson in behalf of Edward B. Grossman, retired business man living at the Chicago Beach hotel and a stockholder in the Chicago Elevated Railroad company. In his original suit Grossman asked for an accounting from Samuel Insull and others in connection with the 1911 amalgamation of the south and west side elevated lines.

Judge Feinberg granted Attorney Charles Le Roy Brown, representing the elevated company, thirty days in which to file an answer or demurrer to the new suit.

QUICK RELIEF FROM CONSTIPATION

Dr. Edwards, a practicing physician for 20 years and calomel's old-time enemy, discovered the formula for Olive Tablets while treating patients for chronic constipation and torpid liver.

No griping is the "keynote" of these little sugar coated, olive-colored tablets. They help cause the bowels and liver to act normally. They never force them to unnatural action.

If you have a "dark brown mouth"—bad breath—a dull, tired feeling—sick headache—torpid liver—constipation, you should find quick, sure and pleasant results from one or two of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets.

WHO SAYS SO!

ADVERTISING in THE SATURDAY EVENING POST is expected to state the truth.

The intelligent readers of this magazine are aware of that, as well as are the advertisers.

They know that The Post excludes advertising which is in any way unworthy.

They know that The Post policy is to temper reckless or super-exuberant claims.

They know that The Post declines to print advertising which unfairly reflects on competitors.

The combination pays dividends to advertisers in reader confidence and responsiveness which it would be hard to overvalue.

The statement you make about your goods in your advertising in THE SATURDAY EVENING POST is exempt from the usual "caveat emptor" discount.

NOW THE SUBWAY CAN BE BUILT.

No doubt the most important single contribution which the new city administration can make toward the physical upbuilding of Chicago will be the improvement of transportation through the construction of the subways. A tremendous obstacle thus far has been distrust of the capacity, not to say honesty, of the jobholders under the previous administration. That obstacle has now been removed. The disposition to delay in making definite commitments may have been warranted before the election, but it ought not be permitted to become a habit.

Sixty million dollars of the money needed to build subways is in hand in the city treasury in the form of the traction fund. The money should be put to work for the benefit of the car riders of Chicago from whom it was collected. More than that, it should be put to work to provide employment for thousands of men who are now out of jobs. The construction of subways will provide steady employment for several years for building mechanics of all sorts from common laborers to the most skilled tradesmen. Secondarily it will provide employment to workers in steel and cement mills, car building plants, and electrical equipment houses. The new rapid transit lines will necessitate a considerable amount of remodeling of existing buildings and will provide a sound basis for new buildings along the new routes. No other project now under consideration in Chicago—not even the World's Fair—offers as much or nearly as much for the common welfare as does this improvement in transportation.

The only important obstacles which remain are legal. A considerable number of the property owners who were specially assessed for the subway have taken their objections to court. Also, suit has been brought in the name of a number of taxpayers alleging that the enabling legislation under which the traction ordinance was written, the traction ordinance itself, and the supplementary subway ordinance all are unconstitutional. In addition, it is considered not unlikely that objections will be raised by junior security holders to the financial reorganization and consolidation soon to be submitted to Judge Wilkerson in the federal court. If these cases are all carried to the highest courts, as they might well be, months and even years may elapse before Chicago enjoys any considerable improvement in local transportation and before any wages will be paid to construction workers engaged in building the subways.

We do not suggest that the objections raised in the various suits are trivial, but whatever their weight they are obstructing progress at a critical time. It is to be hoped that under the strong leadership of the new city administration the difficulties can be composed out of court. Now that there is some assurance that subway funds will not be squandered there should be a much greater disposition toward compromise.

THE POLITICAL MEDICINE MAN.

Senator James Couzens of Michigan advises the business men who will meet in the convention of the United States Chamber of Commerce at Atlantic City to find remedies for economic conditions in private initiative unless they are prepared to have the government forced into the scene. The captains of industry are aware of the danger, but, however bewildered they may be in their investigation of cause and effect, they have no reason to believe that there is a clearer vision given to the members of congress. Fortunately congress is not in session.

Two things may be said of conditions. They are not attributable to political restrictions imposed on masses of the population. They are not caused by the predominance of an overprivileged and unsocialized top class. These two facts distinctly limit the province of politics even in theory. The first cannot be denied as a fact. The second may be protested, but reasonable people will not maintain that capital in the United States is largely in the hands of men seeking to establish a plutocracy on the general ruin of the country.

It used to be that the existence of a privileged class was attributed to restrictions imposed on democratic government. When the Englishman without a freehold could not vote it was not astonishing that a man with less than a hundred pounds a year could not hunt partridge on his own land. When Manchester, Leeds, Sheffield and the other manufacturing towns had no representation in parliament it was not remarkable that the workmen's conditions of employment were wretched and their wages unsatisfactory. The American democracy has been extended in every direction, with direct primaries, direct election of senators, woman suffrage, etc. Political action is not strangled by an autocracy.

There are, of course, some tory barons in finance and industry, but they are not politically entrenched. The United States senate in a former generation was regarded as the citadel of privilege. It is now the post-graduate school of the radicals. Where Aldrich, Platt, Quay, Foraker, Penrose et al. once sat in oppressive contemplation of the common herd La Follette, Norris, Nye, Frazier and the others of the minority in command do now gambol and cavort.

Political theorists in such circumstances are in doubt where to take hold of the economic problems, much as they would like to tie into them. The political privileges of the country cannot be blamed, because they are universally spread. If there were an autocratic and obdurate senate indirectly elected and directly controlled by large money that would be a radical objective, but there isn't such a body.

The government took a try at two staples of the country's economy and is bogged in wheat and cotton. It is to be doubted that even Mr. Norris thinks that if he could nationalize all the hydro-electric production in the country he would have found a solution of the business cycle and would put the country's business on a level where the production, distribution and consumption of goods would have no upsetting ups and downs. A particular enthusiasm will cover a lot of ground, but it is to be doubted that Mr. Norris covers that much.

The political perplexity of the radicals, liberals, and progressives is apparent. Evidently most of them do not want Moscow, but they forever see it ahead. If their programs seem to fade out in stutterings it is probably because they always get a glimpse of Mr. Stalin whatever road they take. If they wanted Mr. Stalin the way would be clear, but not wanting him is what must affect, say, John Dewey, and make his present day political proposals about as lucid as a mahatma's explanation of yoga would be to an Arkansas cotton planter.

ABOLISH THE SMOKE PALL.

It is a prominent item of the good news for citizens emanating from the city hall these days that the newly appointed city prosecutor, Mr. McNamara, proposes to make the smoke ordinance mean something once more. Chicago does not have to live under a smoke pall. Before the beginning of the late city hall régime a persistent campaign for cleaning the air we breathe had produced encouraging results. With the demoralization of our city government the smoke pall descended again and present conditions are as bad as they well could be. There is general disregard of the ordinance and reeking chimneys are everywhere to be seen. Each represents a breach of the law.

The smoke nuisance costs dwellers in Chicago millions of dollars a year, an economic waste that has little excuse or justification. There has been plenty of time for the installation of proper heating devices. Careless stoking is a matter of lax discipline. Vigorous prosecution is called for in justice to the community, to save health and money. The smoke that afflicts our health and comfort, destroys clothing and furnishings, and makes the city less attractive to its inhabitants and to visitors represents direct economic waste to the individual who permits it, for it represents insufficient combustion, low fuel efficiency. It means slovenly business management as well as slovenly civic housekeeping. That it should have been tolerated so long is not creditable to a self-respecting community or to the efficiency of management or to its sense of public responsibility.

Mr. McNamara should have the coöperation of all citizens and their strongest support.

COURTESY TO THE PUBLIC.

Mayor Cermak has instructed the department heads to discipline city employés in courtesy to the public. The mayor realizes that the city is inviting the world to the fair and it is time to form the habit of affability becoming in a host. The police are probably the most in touch with people day by day, but public service is generally a matter of public contact, and the behavior of the employé is not a negligible matter in government. It creates an attitude, one of hostility, if the conduct is rude.

Exaggerations of politeness can make behavior farcical. All that is needed is a good natured, considerate attention to duty with patience for innocent mistakes, thoughtfulness for bewildered visitors, and ordinary decency in language and demeanor. An abusive policeman makes an ill disposed critic of a guest and a resentful citizen of a resident. The public employés are not expected to overdo the Chesterfield to civilize the relations of citizenship and authority.

Editorial of the Day

AN AMAZING LAW PROPOSAL.

[Kansas City Star.]

The world has become more considerate of the juvenile offender, has given him more protection and has made better provision for his reformation. Generally speaking, minor offenses, particularly if they be first offenses, should be regarded as attributable to tender age, to noncomprehension of their gravity, to environment or to all of these, and the purpose of corrective measures should be the least humiliation consistent with the effecting of a cure. To this end the affairs of juvenile courts should be, and usually are, guarded by the officials of such courts and respected by reputable newspapers.

But every good policy has its extremists, and there are plenty of such extremists taking part in public policy toward offenders, juvenile and adult. Yet who could be prepared for such a bill as that introduced in the Massachusetts legislature and passed through some inadvertence [let us hope] by the house? This will would make it a crime, punishable by a $500 fine, for any one to give the public any knowledge as to "the name, address, photograph or other information tending in any way to identify a juvenile offender or delinquent, or his parent or guardian, or any witness or party to any proceeding against such offender."

We do not know what experience, if any, Massachusetts may have had to prompt such an unreasonable and dangerous bill. If sensational newspapers have exploited the names, pictures and stories of children brought into court for juvenile indiscretions, there has been provocation, of course. But no such provocation could justify the extremes to which the regulatory bill goes. Some of the most dangerous criminals of today are juveniles within the classification of most states. They run to banditry and even murder. Many of them have been apprehended only because their identities, pictures and descriptions have been widely published. To shelter such young criminals would be to give them exactly what they want and would encourage many others, evilly inclined, to commit crimes behind the shelter against publicity.

XANTHOMAS.

MRS. S. P. T. wants an article on "xanthoma of the eye"—the cause and cure.

My guess is that Mrs. S. P. T. has passed the meridian of life. If I were a Bell of Scotland, or even one of his camp followers, such as Conan Doyle [or Sherlock Holmes], or one of the prevailing garden variety of crime detector, I might add to my diagnosis of Mrs. S. P. T.: "You eat eggs for breakfast; and you are not certain your charms will hold out to hold your husband." Since I am none of these, I say none of these.

Xanthoma is a small, yellowish tumor located in the skin and causing it to stand up just a little. It is seldom as large as a pea and rarely does it project more than the thickness of blotting paper. Xanthoma of the eye is not on or in the eyeball. It is on the skin side of the eyelid. It appears in other parts of the body, but nobody cares. The worry is about those that appear on the eyelids.

They are likely to be multiple. Never are they large enough to do any harm, nor are they harmful in any other way. There is but one way to cure them and that is to remove them by surgical procedure. Rather than have them removed a woman had better adorn them somehow and pose as a proud possessor; exercise her inventiveness to convert a liability into an asset.

When a xanthoma is cut out and examined microscopically it is found to be related, somewhat distantly, to fat and to contain considerable of a near-fat substance called lecithin. This substance is found in the arteries of certain kinds of old people, the whitish zone of the eyes of some elderly people [which zone goes by the name arcus senilis], and in certain gallstones which are formed sometimes in people who are fat and forty.

This same chemical abounds in the yellow of eggs. Many middle aged people habitually eat eggs for breakfast. Had I been a Bell this would have been the only foundation for a statement that Mrs. S. P. T. ate an egg for breakfast. Dr. Bell, and no one else, would have said that Mrs. S. P. T. was an egg eater when she was a child or that she should not have been.

MANY SYMPTOMS AND CAUSES.

Miss B. V. writes:

1. What are the symptoms of gall stones?
2. What causes them?

REPLY.

1. In more than half the instances, gall stones cause no symptoms. In many instances, they cause symptoms for a while and then stop. The symptoms of gall stones are due to the location of the stone and its mobility more than to the stone itself. Among the symptoms are dyspepsia, heartburn, sour stomach, burning in the stomach, hyperacidity, jaundice, and gall stone colic.
2. Among the causes are obesity, age, sex, infections [particularly typhoid], and maybe faulty eating habits and constipation.

THEY ARE EFFICIENT.

A Reader writes:

1. Will a truss cure a rupture?
2. Is the kind with a ball the proper kind to use?

REPLY.

1. It will cure a few cases.
2. Such trusses are reasonably efficient.

HIGH BLOOD PRESSURE.

M. T. writes:

1. What is the cause of high blood pressure?
2. Can a person with a perfect heart, lungs, and kidneys have it? If so, what is the cause?

REPLY.

1. Among the causes are worry, anxiety, violent emotion, heart disease, kidney disease, lead poisoning.
2. Yes. See list above.

OWNER LIABILITY.

Chicago, March 31.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—Is a property owner liable for an accident that was caused by broken off fence posts which were left in the ground where the fence was torn down along the sidewalk? Could doctor bills or damages be collected? W. F.

We do not understand how the injury occurred. It is possible for a property owner to be liable for maintaining on his premises a dangerous condition which interferes with proper use of a public thoroughfare. TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

If this thing keeps on, what's going to become of us, one and all? We've groaned with awful groans and shed bitter tears when we had to dig down in our jeans to pay our income tax to the United States of America. And yesterday at Springfield the state senate voted that we should pay the grand old commonwealth of Illinois an income tax. Now, the next thing is for the county to vote an income tax. And then the city. And then the ward, and after that the precinct. We're going to be paying an income tax every time we turn around pretty soon. And what with?

It won't be long now before there will be two classes of citizens—the income tax payers and the income tax collectors. The people who are out of jobs should cheer up. If they haven't got any income there's one grand thing about it: they won't have to pay an income tax either to the government, the state, the county, the city, the ward, or the precinct. Anyhow, we can understand why we pay an income tax to the government; there's the army and navy and the President's salary and the half-a-cool-million-a-year upkeep of the White House. But all we can see that the state of Illinois does for us is to tax us on gas for our autos and put up signs reading, "Road Under Repair, Drive at Your Own Risk."

FOR A MATERIALIST.

You say that the soul is forever commingled with matter,
That it lives since the body lives and dies when that dies,
That it feels and thinks with the flesh and perceives creation
With the body's eyes.

The two are knit, I know, for the length of a lifetime;
But tell me—have you not seen a spirit unfold
Its beauty and grow more vital, although the body
Was faded and old?

Whence this splendor apart, this efflorescence,
This gaining in strength through the years that the soul can show,
If it depend so wholly on forces receding,
On sap running low?

The body may be assailed by the frosts of winter
And the spirit be steeped in the sunniness of May;
Why shall it not maintain, when matter has crumbled,
Its separate way?

ADELAIDE LOVE.

WE FEAR the tail end of the Nicaraguan earthquake hit Wall street yesterday. Many of the very finest and most substantial stocks were shaken down. As for our fifty shares of Desiccated Bath Caps, mercy! the ground must have opened right under it and swallowed it whole.

"ALFONSO FLEES to Warship," "Queen Flees from Madrid," "Royal Children Flee from Spain," "Spanish Nobility Flee in Panic," "King May Flee to England." Yes, and those were only a few of the flees that came out of Spain yesterday. Bet there isn't a newspaper in the United States today that hasn't worn the type used to spell that word down so that it's no longer legible. If they do any more fleeing today in Spain they'll have to print it: "Left in Hurry," or "Frantically Departed," or "Got Out on the Run," or something like that. There's no flees left.

SOME DESPERATE BURGLAR invaded the law office of Cal Coolidge at Northampton, Mass., but he didn't get anything belonging to Cal. But we'll bet Cal will write a piece for the column about how wicked it is to burgle and get—let's see, 200 words at 2 bucks a word—$400. Lucky Cal; he wins out every time.

THE FINNS, having tried out teetotal prohibition, are slowly coming out of the mess into which the country was plunged by declaring for 2.25 per cent beer. Oh, well, we have grape concentrate which can be bought legally and which if put away and left entirely to nature will develop a kick of 20 per cent in a couple of months or so. The Finns needn't gloat; we're just as smart as they are. And smarter!

AND LET US NOT weep or beat the breast or tear the hair because Alfonso Bourbon got kicked off the throne on which his ancestors have roosted for ten hundred years. Alfonso is out of a job, yes, but he left with fourteen million dollars stowed away in his suitcase. He won't be hunting around for another situation for quite some time. The king business has its ups and downs, but it pays well while it lasts.

AND, BESIDES, everybody's got trouble now. It's getting on to the first of May and that's moving day. Why everybody has to move the first of May is something that you, nor I, nor nobody knows. But they do; there's some kind of law about it.

Lagniappe.

EVERYBODY is courteous now in Chicago. Mr. Cermak, about the first thing he did when he started mayoring was to tell everybody—police, chauffeurs, dog catchers, and even telephone gels—that they must all be polite. Ask a cop a question now and he raises his cap, smiles kindly, and says: "Indeed, and it gives me great pleasure to answer your inquiry, dear sir, or madam, as the case may be."

AND WE shall struggle to do likewise. Therefore, in reply to the gentle question, "Wyinell hain't there no last line this morning?" we sweetly answer that what with practicing our bow and learning to smile like a sick hyena we had no time yesterday to write a last line. Sorry, very sorry, indeed. And good luck and a happy vacation, and what would you like for Christmas?

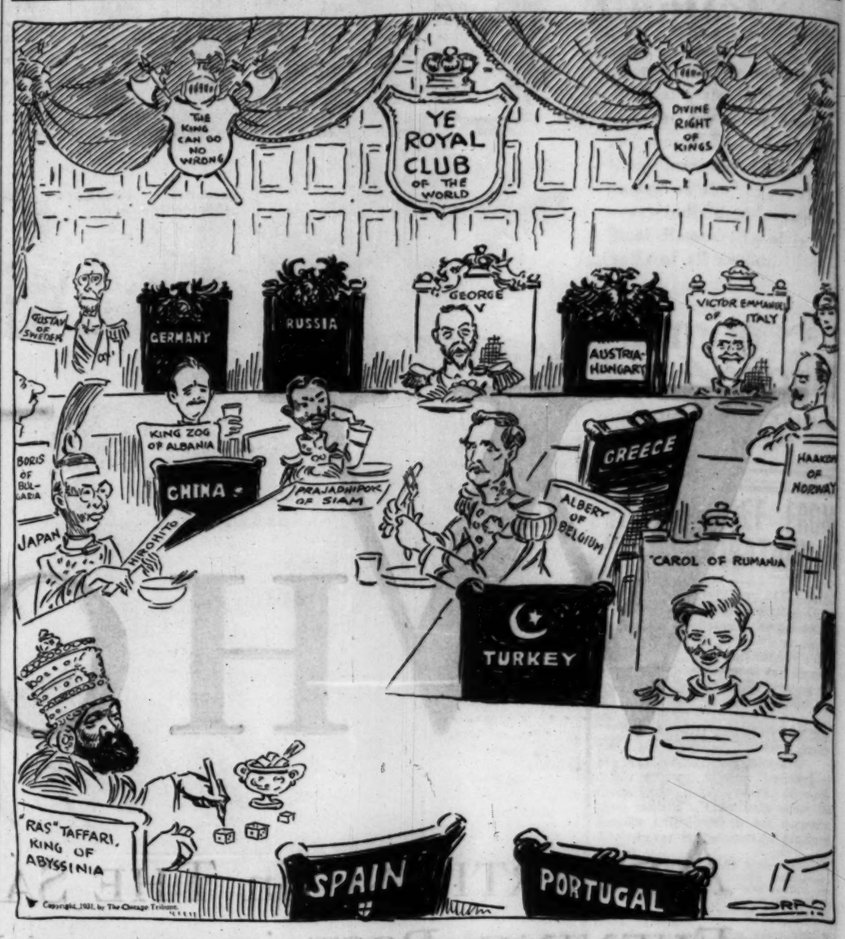
THE VACANT CHAIRS



FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

APRIL 16, 1915.

CHICAGO. — A gigantic building strike affecting 100,000 men and heralded by the premature opening of a campaign of violence abruptly and completely halted spring construction in Chicago. While contractors and many union workers were still hoping that a compromise might avert the threatened disaster, a limousine swept through north side streets carrying a gang of sluggers equipped with brass knuckles and blackjacks. They confined their attention to men employed by open shop painting and decorating contractors. Altogether 13,900 carpenters quit their jobs and with their strike contractors announced that practically all building in Chicago will cease. It is estimated that buildings on which work is stopped number 4,500 of an estimated cost of $20,000,000.

LONDON.—An aircraft, apparently a Zeppelin, passed over Dagenheim, a suburb of London. It came from the sea and returned at a rapid rate toward the island of East Mersea. This visit followed the dropping of bombs on several towns in England. These included Maldon in Essex county; Sheerness, Gravesend, Lowestoft in Suffolk county; Southwold, and Halesworth.

CHICAGO.—Due to the generosity of readers of THE TRIBUNE the second big shipment of books is ready to leave Chicago for United States soldiers in Honolulu. So far contributions of books have amounted to approximately 12,500 volumes.

30 YEARS AGO TODAY

APRIL 16, 1901.

WASHINGTON.—Treasury officials are concerned about the result of overspeculation in Wall street. They have reported the matter to the President and the influence of the treasury department is being exerted more and more in an attempt to induce New York banks to curb the speculative craze.

HAVANA.—The constitutional convention at a secret session appointed five delegates to go to Washington to see President McKinley regarding the Platt amendment. The commission was instructed to confer with Governor General Wood regarding the best conditions for an interview with the President. The proposal is to obtain information regarding points of difference over the amendment.

CHICAGO.—Gen. Alexander C. McClurg, president of the publishing house which bears his name, died at St. Augustine, Fla., at the age of 68. Ogden McClurg, the general's only son, had been summoned from Yale, but arrived too late to see his father alive. Mrs. McClurg was with her husband when he died. Mr. McClurg came to Chicago in 1859 and found a position as clerk in the book store of S. C. Griggs & Co.

CHICAGO.—Miss Minnie B. Knights, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Knights, and George Archibald Ellaire of Detroit were married at the home of the bride's parents, 6617 Harvard avenue.

50 YEARS AGO TODAY

APRIL 16, 1881.

NEW YORK.—The Tribune tomorrow will print another letter taken from the archives of the southern confederacy and written by J. Thompson, the rebel agent in Canada, in 1864, to Judah P. Benjamin, the confederate secretary of the interior, detailing his efforts to incite northern Democrats to riot and to desertion to the confederate cause. It gives some unwritten history regarding Thompson's infamous schemes to burn northern cities during the war.

ST. PETERSBURG. — All the nihilists except the woman Helfmann, condemned to death for connection with the czar's assassination—Roussakoff, Michailoff, Kibaltschitsch, Jelladoff, and Sophie Pieoffsky—were hanged at 10 o'clock this morning. Roussakoff fainted on the scaffold, but the others went with "souls undaunted to their doom." Michailoff's rope broke twice. There was an immense concourse of spectators.

NEW YORK.—Schaefer was victorious in his 4,000 point billiard match with Slosson by 1,220 points. The runs and the averages were the largest ever known in the billiard matches.

THE CASE FOR RAISING THE SCHOOL AGE.

Chicago, April 10.—I read with pleasure the editorial in THE TRIBUNE of Thursday, April 9, entitled "Raising the Compulsory School Age." It was so moderate and fair that it will promote helpful discussion of the question.

The editorial truly states that the question is at what age the line shall be drawn below which the regular employment of children in industry shall not be permitted and attendance in school shall be required. At the present time the law draws the line for child labor at 14 years of age. The committee on child welfare legislation, of which I am chairman, has come quite definitely to the conclusion that the age should be raised to 16 years.

The principal reason for this is that in recent times, by means of machinery, the efficiency of production has been enormously increased and necessary commodities can be obtained with only a fraction of the effort which was formerly required. Until consumption is very greatly increased nothing like the available labor power of the United States will be needed. It is estimated that even in normal times, barring the present depression, there are two million adults unemployed in the United States.

Under these conditions it seems shortsighted in the extreme to put children to work before they have attained something like their full physical development at least and the degree of education of which they are reasonably capable. Is it not clear that this is not true of a child of 14 years? Surely he is far from his full stature and normally he has barely completed his grammar school education, if he has done that. If he goes regularly into employment there is danger that from confinement he will be physically weakened and stunted in growth. He can do only the most mechanical tasks and a period is put upon his education which will limit him for life to low grade work.

If the labor supply were scanty there might be an argument for employing children of 14 and 15 years, although to do so would be to add inefficient workers at the cost of their usefulness both to themselves and to society in the long run. Fortunately, however, this is not the situation. The labor supply of adults is more than ample, and the employment of children below 16 seems as unnecessary as it is likely to be detrimental to the children concerned.

The elimination of employment of children under 16 will be in accordance with the clear trend in Chicago. Statistics of the bureau of vocational guidance of the Chicago board of education indicate that the number of employers of children between 14 and 16 years old in Chicago declined from 7,200 to 1,600 in ten years, and the number of children certified for employment between those ages decreased from 20,000 in 1920 to 2,500 in 1930. In the same period there was an increase in attendance at school of children between the ages of 16 and 18 of 165 per cent. It appears that only a small number of children, fast decreasing, are employed now below the age of 16. That number, however, would seem to be entitled to protection against premature labor which a law would give them.

It has been said that the provisions of the pending child labor bill for the issuance of certificates for employment of children between the ages of 14 and 18 would in practice prevent the employment of children below the age of 18. This is not the design of the committee, and it would not seem that the provision need have that effect. It will, however, be carefully considered, and if in practice it will be unduly restrictive or if there is a better alternative the provision will be modified. Some plan of certification for employment with reliable proof of age before a disinterested agency other than the employer is necessary to prevent misrepresentation of age and evasion of the law in that way. The committee does not desire to put any unnecessary obstacles in the way of the employment of children when they reach the age of 16. All it seeks is some reasonably efficient method of protecting them from employment below that age.

I have written thus because the editorial referred to seems to call for a dispassionate statement of the aims of the committee on child welfare legislation in recommending the child labor and school attendance measures. It is to be hoped that by candor and open mindedness on the part of persons considering these bills, such as the editorial manifests, a solution of the problem which is both humane and fair to industry may be found.

HENRY P. CHANDLER,
Chairman Committee on Child Welfare Legislation.

THE TAXES ON HEAVY VEHICLES.

Harvey, Ill., April 11.—An editorial which appeared in THE TRIBUNE of April 7 headed "Heavy Traffic on the Highway" states that buses should pay some fair share of the expense of the wear and tear on the highways and should bear a proper share of the tax upon public funds which their operation involves.

In 1930 authorized bus lines in Illinois paid in special taxes an amount which was approximately one-fourth of the entire cost of maintaining, patrolling, and policing the hard road system of the state. The average motor bus in Illinois paid $602.35 into the hard road fund last year.

Motor buses have become an indispensable form of transportation, offering a service which, because of its convenience and economy, was used by 186,000,000 passengers last year in Illinois. It now pays a larger proportion of its gross revenue for taxes than any other public utility. K. R. COLE,
General Manager Safeway Lines, Inc.

WHO PROFITS?

Galesburg, Ill., April 9.—I notice in a recent issue of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE that a certain cement company had saved $3,000 in freight transportation by hauling cement to St. Louis via water transportation. It would be interesting to know if the cement company reduced the price to the consumer commensurate to this $3,000 saved, or did they retail this cement at the same standard price as though it moved by railroad. DOAK REPORTS UPWARD TREND IN EMPLOYMENT

152,000 More Working in Factories.

Washington, D. C., April 15.—[Special.]—The last three months have seen an upward trend in employment in the manufacturing industries, it was announced today by Secretary of Labor William N. Doak.

WILLIAM N. DOAK. [Harris-Ewing Photo.]

A total of 152,000 more persons were employed in the manufacturing industries in the United States in March than there were in January, and the aggregate weekly pay roll of the workers was increased by $13,500,000, he reported.

The gain in employment, it was explained, amounts to an increase of 2.3 per cent; the aggregate pay roll has increased 10 per cent, and per capita earnings have increased 7.5 per cent.

"The increase in the aggregate pay roll being proportionately greater than the increase in the number of employés, indicates a greater percentage of full time worked," said Mr. Doak. "The larger number of persons working in March earned $1.55 more per week than the smaller number of persons working in January."

The secretary's announcement was founded on an estimate prepared by the bureau of labor statistics, which in turn was based on monthly reports from more than 13,000 industrial establishments and on reports from the bureau of the census.

ATTORNEY JIRKA ARRESTED ON 5 THEFT CHARGES

Attorney Harold W. Jirka was arrested last night in his office at 100 North La Salle street by Sergt. Rudolph Fremont on five warrants charging larceny by bailee and embezzlement. One of the complaints is an echo of the grounds cited in the federad courts last fall in a move to prevent Jirka from practicing in them.

This case is that of Mrs. Harriet Turek, 1252 Holt street, who says she gave Jirka $1,250 to have the two year prison sentence of her husband commuted. She charges larceny.

The other warrants served last night were signed by Mrs. Mary Gara, 2333 North Oak Park avenue, who says she gave Jirka $400 in a real estate deal; Thomas Fagan, of the same address, who alleges he gave the attorney $2,000 in bonds to institute a law suit; Mary A. Brady, 2636 North Clark street, who charges embezzlement, and Lena Lomanto, 6444 North Francisco avenue, who alleges larceny by bailee. Attorney Jirka will be arraigned in Felony court today.

WOMAN FATALLY BURNED, COOKING.

Buda, Ill., April 15.—[Special.]—Mrs. William Hazer was fatally burned last evening and died at the Princeton hospital this morning. She was preparing the evening meal last night on a small alcohol stove. While she was replenishing the fuel supply an explosion occurred and her clothing was

BOUND OVER

ALEXANDER PANTAGES. [Acme Photo.]

San Diego, Cal., April 15.—[Special.]—Alexander Pantages, Jesse Shreve, and John P. Mills, wealthy partners in a real estate enterprise here, and William Jobelmann and Olive Clark Day, asserted operators of a girl furnishing syndicate, today were bound over to Superior court for trial on criminal charges that they committed acts involving the delinquency of minor girls.

Justice A. L. Mundo bound over all five defendants at the conclusion of a three day preliminary hearing, in which Lydia Nitto, alias Alice Blake, 16, and Camille Livingston, also known as Helen Livington, 17, were state witnesses.

In announcing his decision at the conclusion of protracted wrangles between the prosecution and the three wealthy men's so-called "million dollar" legal staff of six attorneys, Justice Mundo stated: "While the case is not the strongest nor the evidence closely interwoven, I feel there is sufficient cause to believe that these acts were committed."

Judge Mundo continued to permit the defendants their liberty on bonds, in Pantages' case, $15,000; $20,000 for Shreve, and $25,000 for Mills. Miss Day and Jobelmann must stay in jail, being unable to raise $25,000 bail.

GIRL FIRES TEAR GAS AT FORMER SUITOR; FINED

The ultra modern methods employed by Peggy Costello, 20 years old, to coerce her former suitor, Timothy Cummings, to return her ring cost her $30 in the Town Hall court yesterday.

The young woman walked into Cummings' apartment at 4542 North Racine avenue yesterday, pointed a trick fountain pen at him, and pulled a trigger. A cloud of tear gas was discharged, and Cummings and his roommate, Jack Falk, began to weep copiously. Peggy fled, tearfully affected herself, and was seized.

Arraigned before Judge Leon Edelman, she complained that Cummings had borrowed her ring several months ago and refused to return it. Cummings asserted he held the ring for a loan of $60. Judge Edelman ordered the ring returned and fined Miss Costello.

TO KEEP NELSON AS CHAIRMAN OF 2 COMMITTEES

Council Floor Leader Survives Opposition.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Miami Beach, Fla., April 15.—[Special.]—Ald. Oscar F. Nelson [46th], recent floor leader in the city council, probably will retain the chairmanship of the judiciary and special assessments committee for the next two years, and also his membership on the finance committee.

ALD. OSCAR NELSON. [Melvin H. Sykes Photo.]

The retention by Nelson of these two positions was tentatively settled today by the council committee on committees, which is assigning the fifty aldermen to places on the working committees. It is reported that, despite pressure brought to bear to force Nelson off the finance committee and out of the judiciary chairmanship, the tentative agreement will not be upset.

Nelson was a prominent figure in the council during the last two years. He is identified with labor, being the vice president of the Chicago Federation of Labor.

Ald. Louis B. Anderson [2d] may not fare so well as Nelson. According to reports from the committee's sessions, Anderson may lose his place on the finance committee, and perhaps membership on other major committees.

The committee also has tentatively given the chairmanship of the harbors, wharves and bridges committee to Ald. William A. Rowan [10th]. Rowan's candidacy was sponsored by a number of south side civic and business organizations, which have deluged the committee with telegrams asking for Rowan's appointment.

CERMAK DELAYS PICKING CABINET UNTIL RETURN

Mayor Cermak made it clear in a long distance conversation yesterday from Miami Beach with his secretary, Henry Sonnenschein, that all further city cabinet appointments will await his return to Chicago next week. Current rumors about such appointments are sheer guesswork, the mayor said.

"I was instructed by Mayor Cermak to announce that while he is away he is giving out no statements for publication except through me," Sonnenschein announced. "He is making no appointments and will make none until he returns to Chicago, and all rumors are bare speculations not based on anything that he has said."

Mr. Sonnenschein mentioned in particular the report that Ald. Jacob Arvey [24th] would be corporation counsel. So far as he knows there is no basis for this report, Sonnenschein said. He added that he "suspects that the mayor is going to count on Ald. Arvey as his administration floor leader in the council."

The only permanent appointment of a major cabinet member made by Mayor Cermak so far has been that of Commissioner of Public Works Sprague. Corporation Counsel Busch is serving under a sixty day appointment, while the term of City Sealer Grein is indefinite. Ranking civil service deputies are in charge of all the other departments.

HANGS SELF IN GARAGE.

Ernest Hartschock, 73 years old, hanged himself yesterday in the garage in the rear of his home at 7717 South Bishop street.

Dear Mr., Miss or Mrs.
Try a fresh cigarette!

THAT LITTLE STING way down in the throat when you inhale a cigarette is caused by parched dry tobacco. You never feel it when you smoke fresh, prime Camels. The Humidor Pack keeps Camels from drying out or going stale. That's why they are always so cool and mild, so throat-easy. Blended from choicest Turkish and mellowest Domestic tobaccos and kept in tip-top prime condition by an air-tight wrapping of moisture-proof Cellophane, Camels are mighty hard to leave once you have tried them. If you don't believe it, switch to Camels for one whole day, then quit them, if you can.

PHILIP LEBOUTILLIER,
President and General Manager, Best & Co., New York

"NEWSPAPERS have always been our 'friendly hand clasp' in the home.

"They have been 'our intimate touch' with thousands and thousands of our customers whom we would like to know personally.

"But, we meet them and they know us through the newspaper.

"Our ideals . . our character . . our service are all revealed in our daily advertising message. Response is always immediate . . . results are sure.

"But, away and beyond the daily return . . is the 'faith' . . . in each other that newspapers help build."

No newspaper has built a finer background . . a more sincere, helpful service, than the New York Herald Tribune.

It has attracted a great circulation of active, youthful thinking men and women.

Families with high buying power . . . hundreds of thousands of them.

Of all the good things that come into a family none is more intimate and personal than the family newspaper.

And this becomes increasingly true in those homes of above average means and culture. It is markedly true in the great concentration of humanity and wealth which constitutes the metropolis of New York.

There is a mutuality of understanding between the New York Herald Tribune and its readers that is hardly paralleled by any other publication in this country. No wonder New York Herald Tribune advertisers invariably win the better grade business in the New York market.

For there are really two New Yorks. The city where the money is made. The suburbs where so many money-making New Yorkers prefer to live.

In every one of the twenty counties, surrounding New York City, the average family income is over $2,500 a year (according to Sales Management's estimate for 1929). Over a million families live in that area. Forty-six per cent of them live in counties where the average family income is over $5,000.

The Herald Tribune has over one-third of its daily circulation in the rich suburban area: a larger proportion than reported by any other New York daily newspaper.

In city and suburbs together 94% of the Herald Tribune's daily circulation is in districts or counties where the average family income is $2,500 and up; 37% is in areas where average family income is $5,000 and up.

If you would command the real New York market use the New York Herald Tribune. It is the direct and economical path to the richest market in the world . . and you ought to know about it now!

SENATORS VOTE SELVES FREE TRIPS ABROAD

Pittman Group to Study Silver Problem.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 15.—[Special.]—Trips abroad for themselves were voted today by the senate committee studying the depression in silver prices and trade relations with China.

Senator Key Pittman [Dem., Nev.], chairman of the committee, which is a subcommittee of the senate committee on foreign relations, was authorized at a meeting today to travel to China. Senators Claude A. Swanson [Dem., Va.], Henrik Shipstead [Farmer-Labor, Minn.], Hiram Johnson [Rep., Cal.], and Arthur H. Vandenberg [Rep., Mich.] will delve into the European end of the silver problem.

Senator Pittman announced that he expected to sail about May 15. The purpose of the committee, he explained, is to gather every possible detail and "be ready to give the senate definite information on every phase of the matter."

Tells Purpose of Trips.

He wished, he said, to ascertain the attitude of the Chinese business men toward an international conference on the stabilization of silver prices, the financial needs of the Nationalist government of China, and the uses to which such possible financial assistance would be put and the methods necessary to regulate its issue.

The report, Senator Pittman said, would supplement and clarify the report made by the foreign relations committee when it offered the two resolutions concerning silver which were passed at the last session. One of these resolutions suggested that the President call a conference of the major powers with a view to stabilizing silver prices. The other suggested that the President open negotiations with the Chinese Nationalist government with a view to making a loan of American silver for Chinese coinage.

Authorized to Spend $20,000.

Senator Swanson considers departing in the near future. Senator Vandenberg is already en route to the Philippines and other points in the orient. The mission of the senators going to Europe, it was stated, will be to interview European political and business leaders concerning the silver situation.

The Pittman subcommittee is acting under two senate resolutions, both passed last June, the first of which created the committee and the second of which authorized it to expend up to $20,000 in its investigations. Both resolutions were introduced by Senator Pittman.

ATTORNEY PLEADS GUILTY IN FRAUD CASE; SENTENCED

CRIMINAL COURT.

Henry Murray, larceny, sentenced to 1 year in Pontiac reformatory; John Summers, larceny, sentenced to 1 to 10 years in Pontiac reformatory by Judge John Prystalski.

Charles B. Goodman, confidence game, sentenced to 1 to 10 years in the penitentiary by Judge Joseph B. David.

Attorney Charles B. Goodman, 3[illegible] years old, was sentenced to one to ten years in the penitentiary yesterday by Judge Joseph B. David in the Criminal court when he pleaded guilty to nine charges of embezzlement, larceny and confidence game. He was sentenced on all nine charges, but on the recommendation of Assistant State's Attorney John L. Murphy the sentences will run concurrently.

"Before I accept any plea in this case I want everybody to understand that I will not write any letters of leniency to the pardon board," said the judge. "I also want it understood that the pardon board will be informed of every one of these indictments."

Goodman, who formerly had offices at 154 West Randolph street, defrauded many of his clients by the sale of worthless second mortgages and real estate bonds, testimony showed. It was estimated that he obtained more than $200,000 before he fled the city, leaving his wife and two children behind. He was later arrested in New York City.

GANGSTERS SLAY THE "AL CAPONE OF NEW YORK"

Put Five Bullets Into His Body.

New York, April 15.—[Special.]—It took ten years and a lot of shooting to kill Giuseppe Masseria—he was Joe the Boss to the underworld—but his enemies found him with his back turned today in a little Italian restaurant in Coney Island and when they walked out into the sunshine Masseria's career was ended. There were five bullets in his body.

To hear some of the detectives at police headquarters tell it, the killing of Joe the Boss is likely to cause an outbreak of gang warfare that may exceed anything this city ever has known. Some of the men who had kept tabs on the racketeer's long career insist that he was "the biggest of 'em all—bigger than Al Capone."

It would not be hard to tell why Masseria was "put on the spot," according to the police, for his name has been linked with numerous gang murders in the last ten years. And on the east side there was much whispering and speculation as to what would follow. Even to his countrymen Joe the Boss was a mysterious power, greater in strength than many whose names appeared more often in the newspapers.

According to the police, Joe was known as a local lieutenant of Al Capone. Detectives familiar with Masseria's activities said they had heard that Capone had warned him that unless he ceased some undesirable business practices he would be put out of the way.

Cardinal Mundelein Sails on Aquitania for Italy

New York, April 15.—[Special.]—Cardinal Mundelein of Chicago sailed on the Aquitania early today for Rome, where he will take part in the dedication of the college for the propagation of the faith. He will return in May. Two of his assistants, the Rev. Robert C. Maguire and the Rev. George J. Casey, accompanied him.

HINES WARNS OF MOUNTING COSTS OF VETS' RELIEF

Tells Red Cross Trend Is Alarming.

Washington, D. C., April 15.—(AP)—The government was warned today by Veterans' Administrator Hines to proceed cautiously with its future veterans' relief policy.

Addressing the annual convention of the Red Cross, Hines predicted by 1950 disbursements for veterans' relief, if the present rate of increase is continued, would reach and probably exceed the total cost of American participation in the world war—$23,500,000,000.

"Veterans must manifest a peacetime patriotism in connection with future demands," he said, "if the burden upon the government for their relief is not to become intolerable and the reaction impair their very cause."

Another speaker, James T. Nicholson, manager of the Chicago chapter of the Red Cross, said he had observed a 300 per cent increase in requests for assistance since the economic depression set in. If this is significant, he added, every phase of Red Cross relief for former service men and others must be strengthened.

Hines said a sound national policy "must rest upon the foundation of service, equality, and need."

"I can see no justification for a veteran applying to his government for aid who is well able to provide for himself," he added. "The fact that we are financially able to provide for all, regardless of the factor of need, does not change the principle involved."

He said that $5,000,000,000 has been expended in the veterans' behalf, or more than half the total spent for such relief, excluding the last war, in the entire 142 years since the first pension act of 1789.

He said 1,784,000 applications for loans had been received up to April 11 under the recently enacted amendment permitting veterans to borrow 50 per cent of the value of their insurance certificates. Of this number 1,250,000 had been granted, with a value of $473,000,000.

The wedding was a surprise to many of their friends. Mr. Wing is master of hounds at Harford county, Md., and a member of Meadowbrook, Piping Rock, Turf and Field, and the Baltimore clubs. Critic Praises Latest Poems of Miss Millay Finds Matured Beauty in New Collection.

THERE is no other poet in America who has the special appeal which Edna St. Vincent Millay has won for herself. She is a phenomenon—the poet of the masses as well as of the classes. The man in the street and the woman in the home—those mythical creatures whom the American public has created if not wholly in its own image, at least much in the image of itself—find in Edna Millay an alluring lyric beauty. Poets find her a veritable genius.

EDNA ST. VINCENT MILLAY

Usually a poet either is a poet's poet or the public's poet. Miss Millay is almost the sole extant example of such popularity.

Other poets have achieved a popular success with one volume or another—Stephen Vincent Benet with "John Brown's Body," the most outstanding success that comes to my mind, but not in his volume, "Ballads and Poems, 1915-1930," though it contained new material, did not fill the general reading public with high tension excitement as before—or even after—its publication. "Fatal Interview," Edna St. Vincent Millay's latest, has caused an excitement among readers—not only poetry lovers—that is as great as that caused by any book of the season. Fifty-two sonnets comprise this volume. They are sheer beauty, lyric in their content as well as their form, and with beauty singing in their very word rhythm and pattern.

I am not a poet. It was sheer blind friendliness which led Sinclair Lewis to write, years ago, in my copy of "Main Street": "To Fanny, impresario—or impresaria—too busy being kind to lesser poets to WRITE her poetry." But there are many of us who, although incapable of creating art, have an answering echo in us when we meet it. Real beauty stirs us, almost at times to tears. Years ago I remember Edna Millay wrote a sonnet about natural beauty which was called "God's World" and had these lines in it:

Here such a passion is
As stretcheth me apart, Lord, I do fear
Thou'st made the world too beautiful this year,
My soul is all but out of me—let fall
No burning leaf; prithee, let no bird call.

There is a certain essential, vivid beauty in nature at times—at rarer times of human beings' creation—that does that to one, almost literally "stretcheth one apart." Such beauty is in "Fatal Interview."

Edna Millay has had three periods, as it seems to me. Her first pure lyric period of "Renascence." Then her poetry was almost like a harp in the wind of beauty, when youth with its eagerness and its sadness and its disillusionment and its ecstacy was in her poems. Then came a slightly smarty period—when she wrote "A Few Figs from Thistles" and laughed at love and was brilliantly cynical; but even smartness could never drown the lyric loveliness of her words and their patterns. Then came a disillusioned, mystical, sad period in "The Harp Weaver."

In "Fatal Interview" she nearly is the singer of "Renascence" again, with a slight cynicism and sadness and disillusionment hovering over her lyrics but not casting gray shadows over them. Love is not the ecstasy that it was to her before, but it has achieved an added beauty and dignity through experience. Read this:

I dreamed I moved among the Elysian fields,
In converse with sweet women long since dead;
And out of blossoms which that meadow yields
I wove a garland for your living head.
Danae, that was the vessel for a day
Of golden Jove, I saw, and at her side,
Whom Jove the bull desired and bore away,
Europa stood, and the Swan's featherless bride.
All these were mortal women, let all these
Above the ground had had a god for guest;
Freely I walked beside them and at ease,
Addressing them, by them again addressed,
And marveled nothing, for remembering you,
Wherefore I was among them well I knew.

Shakespeare's matchless sonnets are matched by that, it seems to me. Those lines have the dignity and beauty of the classic sonnet form and a new modern personal vividness that makes them a part of and not apart from life today:

Love is not all; it is not meat nor drink,
Nor yet a floating spar to men that sink
And rise and sink and rise and sink again;
Love cannot fill the thickened lung with breath,
Nor clean the blood, nor set the fractured bone;
Yet many a man is making friends with death
Even as I speak, for lack of love alone.

That is the first octet of Sonnet XXX., which again is the old form inevitably modernized in spirit.

One of the most beautiful lines I have ever read about old age is the second of these:

When we are old and these rejoicing veins
Are frosty channels to a muted stream.

There is only one of the fifty-two sonnets which has the spirit of "A Few Figs from Thistles," and even the smart cynicism of that is muted. It reads:

Now by this moon, before this moon shall wane
I shall be dead or I shall be with you!
No moral concept can outweigh the pain
Faith, honor, pride, endurance, what the tongues
Of tedious men will say, or what the law—
For which of these do I fill up my lungs
With brine and fire at every breath I draw?
Time, and to spare, for patience by and by,
Time to be cold and time to sleep alone;
Let me no more until the hour I die
Defraud my innocent senses of their own.
She's in her grave, or where she wants to be.

"Fatal Interview" is, as every one hoped it to be, lovely lyric beauty, a matchless sonnet sequence.

"It is rich in purpose, mellow with beauty, rounded with ripe maturity... a living, glowing book into which love has been breathed."—Philadelphia Ledger.

GASOLINE ALLEY—CORKY GETS THE IDEA

HOW ONE GERMAN OFFICER FOUGHT WAR AMID AFRICAN JUNGLES

"Fugitive in the Jungle," by Wilhelm Mattenklodt [Little-Brown], is a war biography from a new angle. It's the author's experiences on the Teuton side, but on the battlefields of German Southwest Africa. It's a translation and starts with typical Teutonic calm. But it slowly slips into high and speeds into thrill after thrill.

Strange to say, the surrender of the German colonial forces to the English, which took place long before the European armistice, brought trouble instead of peace to Mattenklodt. Implicated in aiding two German officers in an attempted flight to East Africa, he was forced to flee to the jungle, where he was hunted for several years. His skirmishes with wild animals, however, are packed with more and narrower escapes than his entire army service.

His final flight through Angola with two companions and his unwarranted incarceration in a Portuguese dungeon for several months is a moving bit of true adventure. Mattenklodt tells a straightaway story, his simplicity and sincerity making "Fugitive in the Jungle" a book to read and to remember.

TODAY'S NEW BOOKS BRIEFLY REVIEWED FOR YOUR CONVENIENCE

Two novels are published today, "The Vintage of Yon Lee," by Louise Jordan Miln [Stokes], and "Men and Wives," by L. Compton Burnett [Harcourt-Brace]. Mrs. Miln writes again of east meeting west and the fine rare vintage character of a woman who is a thoroughbred, though half Chinese and half English. Miss Compton Burnett writes of an English country family subtly but cruelly dominated by the mother.

Gabriel the Archangel, by Frederico Nardelli and Arthur Livingston [Harcourt-Brace], is the first authentic biography of Gabriele d'Annunzio.

Animosities, by Peggy Bacon [Harcourt], is a volume of her own poems illustrated by that satiric and witty artist.

"Men of Art" was published, as I said on Monday, at $3, but between the time that I wrote that piece and the date of its publication the price was raised to $3.75 [and a bargain it still is at that price].

Chicago Rector Elected Bishop of Minnesota

Dr. Keeler Undecided on Accepting Election.

Faribault, Minn., April 15.—[Special.]—The Rev. Dr. Stephen E. Keeler, rector of St. Chrysostom's Episcopal church, Chicago, was elected bishop coadjutor of Minnesota here today at the annual convention of this diocese held at the Cathedral of Our Merciful Savior.

Dr. Keeler was elected unanimously on the first ballot. This is said to be unprecedented in recent years in the Episcopal church throughout the country. The Chicago rector was the only clergyman nominated. If he accepts the election, Dr. Keeler will be given full ecclesiastical jurisdiction over the entire diocese of Minnesota except for the city of Minneapolis, which will become the sole jurisdiction of Bishop Frank A. McElwaine. The new bishop will become the virtual administrative head of the diocese.

Notification of his election was made to Dr. Keeler this morning shortly after the balloting by long distance telephone. According to the Rev. Dr. A. E. Knickerbocker, rector of St. Paul's church, Minneapolis, Dr. Keeler has given no indication of whether he will accept or reject the election. This Chicago rector was nominated last night before the convention sitting as a committee of the whole in an executive session. The committee considered three other clergymen, according to information secured this morning.

St. Chrysostom's Rector Will Decide Later.

For the second time within two years, St. Chrysostom's Episcopal church, 1414 N. Dearborn parkway, has been called upon to provide a bishop for the Episcopal church, with the election of the Rev. Dr. Stephen E. Keeler, as bishop coadjutor of Minnesota. The Rt. Rev. H. P. Almon-Abbott was elected bishop of Lexington, Ky., early in 1929 after a few months' rectorship at the near north side parish.

Dr. Keeler would give no indication last night whether or not he would accept the election. He declared he would have no statement to make until after the official notification of his election had come to him, and until he had given the congregation and vestry of St. Chrysostom's church full consideration.

The unanimous election of Dr. Keeler on the first ballot with no opposing nominations is considered practically unique in the history of the American Episcopal church. Dr. Keeler came to Chicago in November, 1929, from the rectorship of St. Paul's church, Akron, O., a parish of more than 1,000 communicants and 2,000 baptized members. His rise in the church has been considered sensationally rapid. Dr. Keeler was born in Connecticut 43 years ago. He was graduated from Yale in 1910 and from General Theological seminary, New York, in 1913, and had served parishes in Cleveland, O., Pittsfield, Mass., and Akron, O.

According to church records, the diocese of Minnesota is the strongest in the country west of the Mississippi river with the exception of Los Angeles. If Dr. Keeler accepts the call to that diocese he will be the second Chicago rector to be elected there. The Rt. Rev. Samuel C. Edsall, bishop of Minnesota from 1899 until his death in 1917, had been the rector of St. Peter's church, Belmont near Broadway prior to his election as bishop.

BLAMES CITY COUSINS WHEN FARMERS MISS THEIR PASTORS' TALKS

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

Falling off of attendance at Sunday church services in suburban and rural districts is caused by self-invited visits of city cousins who seek a country meal. This was pointed out yesterday by the Rev. Dr. Peter Peterson, president of the Augustana synod of the Evangelical Lutheran church, in his presidential address before the 79th convention of the Illinois conference of that church now in session at Ebenezer Lutheran church, Foster avenue and Paulina street.

Dr. Peterson said, "These city folks get into their cars Sunday mornings just in time to reach their relatives or friends in the suburbs before the latter start to church. The result is that the head of the family hurries to the meat market and grocery instead of to the house of God, while the wife spends Sunday morning in the kitchen instead of the sanctuary with God's people."

Dr. Peterson said pastors had told him "heads of families—some of whom work only three days a week—frequently are victimized by city relatives and friends to an expense of $10 to $12 a week for Sunday dinners served to guests who have unceremoniously invited themselves."

THE STAGE

THE Billboard, weekly magazine of the theatrical business, carries in its current issue an article dealing with a rumored split in the Theater guild's board of governors which may affect that organization's plans for next season. It says under a New York date line:

"When the present New York Theater guild subscription season ends certain important figures within the guild will break away to form a rival guild, with the expressed purpose of accomplishing what the present guild, to their minds, has failed to accomplish. The guild season has been one of the most unsuccessful in its history, and certain officials feel that it has lost sight of its original purpose and has not used good judgment in choosing either plays or players for its productions. The new guild is reported to have backing, and is set to go in the fall.

"Its sole purpose will be to present plays possessing artistic rather than box office value. Its executives have received their training in the present guild and the more important theaters of Europe. The present officials of the Theater guild who will be affiliated with the new organization have not broken with the guild as yet, but are reported to be ready to hand in their resignations when the present season ends, which should be withing the next few weeks when 'Miracle at Verdun' completes its run.

"The organization holds the reputation of being the largest drama producing body in the world, and it has been the outstanding factor in keeping the road alive. While the New York situation has kept the guild's executives on the griddle, the support given by the road cities has been most encouraging, and there have been reports that the organization would expand its road activities next season."

All of which was denied last night by officers and executives of the Theater guild in New York; by Alfred Lunt, now appearing at the Illinois theater in the guild's production of "Elizabeth the Queen," and by the manager of that company. The silly season is definitely at hand when the gossips begin to split up the guild.

"The House Beautiful," by Channing Pollock, has been mentioned as a possibility for the Chicago stage this spring. But the plan of sending it here has been postponed until next fall. Meanwhile Mr. Pollock, a born crusader, is campaigning in New York against the "hard-boiled" school of thought among play-goers and dramatic critics. "Sophistication," as a code of conduct or a bit of current slang, causes Mr. Pollock to become as vehement as an Old Testament prophet. He is renting house tops and speaking his mind therefrom on the subject of "Modernism" with picturesque vigor.

"Three Little Girls" announces that the last performance of its run will be given May 2. Which means that this operetta will have thirty-two weeks on its Chicago record when it leaves the Great Northern to go to St. Louis under municipal auspices. C. C.

Hoover Greets Nippon Royalty at Washington

Prince and Princess Are White House Guests.

Washington, D. C., April 15.—[Special.]—A thin, solemn, slightly bored looking young man, and a very pretty, discreetly coquetish young girl stepped off a private car this afternoon and instantly every Japanese in town—and they were all at the depot—bowed and beamed.

For the young couple were the royal honeymooners from Tokio; their imperial highnesses, Prince and Princess Takamatsu, who next Tuesday will have been sightseeing for exactly one year. When tall Secretary of State Stimson, and short Secretary of the Navy Adams had removed their silk hats; when the state department officials, in their snow white spats, had done the proper thing; when Mme. De Buchi, wife of the Japanese ambassador, had presented the princess a sheaf of yellow talisman roses which she cuddled against her beige chiffon gown, the procession started through a double row of marines.

In the official car, preceded by motorcycle cops and screeching sirens, his imperial highness mused on the strangeness of using a siren for a visitor. In his country, he explained in Japanese, all that noise could mean only one thing, a fire.

Arrived at the Mayflower hotel they attracted so much attention that many women attending the prohibition reform conference rushed out into the lobby to see what was going on. A dignified matron leveled her lorgnette on the visitors, then she brightened, turned to her companion, and announced.

"I know what it is. It's the Chinese prince; and he's here to get his eyes fixed."

But the rest of the crowd knew who he was. And they all knew that his bride knew how to wear her Paris clothes with an air. They found their suite as they had wished it, not filled with transplanted Japanese knick knacks, but with American furniture. After a bit they received the press. By this time the princess had changed into a blue gorgette gown, and a blue floppy hat. She likes floppy hats and fluffy furs.

The interview was not very spacious. Speaking no English, the prince indicated, through an interpreter, that he likes America, that New York was wonderful, that he knows his will love Washington, and that he anticipates a beautiful time in Chicago and all points west. The princess said nothing.

While they sped away, again to the music of a siren, to pay their call on President and Mrs. Hoover, Commander Takeo Yamgata, master of ceremonies for the trip, acted as the amiable but diplomatic Boswell for the royal guests.

Returned from the White House, they started immediately to get dressed to go back to a state dinner. Across his chest this evening the prince wore the bejeweled grand cordon of the Order of the Chrysanthemum. The princess wore, for the first time, a gown especially designed for this dinner. Against a background of pale pink chiffon were appropriate spangles of stars.

Tomorrow they go to see the cherry blossoms, which, complimented the master of ceremonies, "we understand are finer than those in Tokio."

Tells How Machines Lower Work Chances for Sightless Persons

New York, April 15.—[Special.]—Need for finding new occupations for the blind whose sources of livelihood have been reduced by the widening use of machinery was emphasized today. Employment for the slightless was discussed at the world conference on work for the blind in the Hotel Pennsylvania.

S. W. Sterling, general superintendent and secretary of the Birmingham Royal Institution for the Blind in England, said that much research had been made in recent years in the hope of extending the field of usefulness of the blind. While suitable occupations can be found, he said, some obstacle usually is found to prevent the work being carried out. The field was limited generally, he said, to occupations concerned chiefly with manual dexterity.

"The reason for this is obvious," Mr. Sterling said, "especially in these days of highly specialized machinery which plays such a leading part in manufacturing; thus, generally speaking, only the few trades which cannot or have not been mechanized are left for the blind to pursue."

County Starts Tree Planting on Arbor Day

As Cook county school children and other students of books and nature prepared to observe Illinois' arbor day tomorrow, Emmett Wheelan, new president of the Cook county forest preserve commission, announced activities of spring planting.

"We are having about 20 arbor days in April alone," he said, "as we are in the midst of setting out 130,000 seedling trees and about 50,000 shrubs and vines in forest preserve areas."

One portion of this spring program is expected to produce about 30,000 walnut trees. Fifty bushels of stratified walnuts were received late in March and another 100 bushels this month, enough for a large scale experiment in walnut growing.

During 1930 a total of 126,000 trees and 50,000 shrubs and vines were set out. That was considered a planting record, but the spring program now under way is to surpass the spring and fall work of last year.

Charles G. Sauers, superintendent of the forest preserves, reported that no special program would be observed for arbor day except that as usual workers would probably set out between 15,000 and 20,000 trees.

The seedling trees numbering 130,000 are nearly all native hardwood stock 12 to 18 inches high and including sugar maple, red maple, linden, hackberry, black walnut, butternut, hickory, and the white, red, pin, and burr oaks. Other species are silver maple, honey locust, black locust, tulip trees, cottonwood, silver poplar, choke cherry, and black cherry.

Shrubs and vines, including the ivy, matrimony vines, and other native undergrowth complete the new plantings. The bulk of the seedlings are being placed in the hilly Palos section. About 5,000 trees five to six feet high are being set out among the smaller stock to draw attention of the public and thereby aid in protecting the smaller seedlings that might otherwise be trampled under foot or crushed under wheels.

Bridge planting is being carried on at all the principal crossings over the Des Plaines river in the preserve, including bridges at Belmont, Irving Park boulevard, Lawrence avenue, Devon, Touhy, and Golf road, and also at Simpson street on the north branch of the Chicago river.

Trees are being set out at the rate of about 1,200 to an acre and shrubs and vines at about 4,300 to the acre, giving an immediate growth effect and permitting later thinning and transplanting.

John D. Rockefeller Jr. Visits U. of C. Buildings

John D. Rockefeller Jr. visited the University of Chicago yesterday and made a brief inspection of several buildings either recently constructed or now under construction through Rockefeller support.

With the oil magnate was Everett Colby, a New York attorney and classmate. The two stopped at the Midway during a halt between trains. Rockefeller arrived from the west earlier in the day.

Rockefeller and Colby were chiefly interested in the new Oriental institute, which is virtually finished. They were taken through the building by Dr. James H. Breasted, director.

LAUDS ILLINOIS ARTISTS' SHOW

BY ELEANOR JEWETT.

THERE opened yesterday in the Merchandise Mart an exhibition which ranks high. It has been gathered by the Illinois Academy of Fine Arts, rather perhaps, it is the work of members of the Illinois academy, and it sets that interesting organization well in the forefront of contemporary exhibitors.

We read some of the names on the paintings and we at once realize the reason for the brilliancy of the show. An exhibition which offers work by Frederic M. Grant, Marshall D. Smith, Oskar Gross, John Spelman, Charles Killgore, Orin White, Othmar Hoffler, Lucie Hartrath, Joseph Fleck J. Jeffery Grant, Gerald Frank, and many others of like caliber is bound to be worth while.

In his exhibition Hoffler shows a beautiful and pensive "Elaine." Joseph Fleck has a rarely beautiful New Mexico landscape in browns with a burro, the burro and browns cannot escape you nor the adobe houses and general atmosphere of dusty quiet, although for name the artist lets his picture rest in the vague largeness of "New Mexico." Farther west go Orin White, with a magnificent grandiose "Mountain Ranch," and Charles Killgore to the Pacific with a splendid and beautiful huge vista of "Carmel Coast."

Oscar Gross shows an interesting study in character, a full length, "The Speaker." Arnold E. Turtle has a delightful painting from Orlando, Fla. John Spelman offers a vivid fall day on a north lake. Marshall D. Smith shows two tired work horses at noon, resting. Oscar B. Erickson has a well balanced landscape from Brown county, and William B. Schwartz shows again his fine portrait of Enrico Glicenstein.

There is much to be admired in the division devoted to sculpture. The adorable foal, Pegasus, sniffing curiously at its tiny wings, by Elisabeth Haseltine, is a high light in the exhibit. Viola Norman offers a superb horse of the heavy draft type, "King of the Yards." Mabel C. Perry completes the equine exhibit with her fiery "Poseidon." C. Lynn Coy shows a stunning head in bronze of Mr. Cornelius, who is the good genius in the affairs of the Illinois academy. He is also its president. William MacDonald offers a tender and delicate nun's head in white plaster and a sympathetic portrait of a little orphan boy, both beautifully expressed with a sensitive and understanding touch.

The exhibit goes from here to Springfield for the summer. Prizes for a total of $7,500 are to be distributed and the jury's decisions made in Springfield.

A FRIEND IN NEED

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

Family Is Destitute.

"A family of nine children and their mother live on the edge of town in a poor farm district. The father died a short time ago and they have no means of support. Do you think you can get clothing for the woman who wears size 36 or 38, and for the two eldest girls who wear sizes 14 and 16.

"MRS. E. B."

This letter comes from a reader in Michigan and she asks not for herself but for the family of a poor farmer. Any clothing to fit the mother, her eldest daughters or garments for smaller children would be greatly appreciated.

Often Best Way to Treat Shyness Is to Ignore It

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

"Make Patience Your Handmaiden," one of a new series of booklets for parents, will be sent by Mrs. Bevans on receipt of a stamped, self-addressed envelope. This series deals with the various aspects of child behavior directly, not through suggestions for reading.

A letter starts today's column:

"My dear Mrs. Bevans: I would appreciate very much if you could give me some advice about my little 4 year old daughter. She was stubborn about her food. At times she just wouldn't eat, and you couldn't get her to talk, no matter what you promised her or threatened her. If she got in that stubborn mood I just could not do anything with her.

"Some one suggested that elocution and dancing school would get her out of the mood, as she would be with other children and have to obey the teacher. It is now two months since she started going and she is just as bad as when she started. The worst is she won't talk. Sometimes she'll recite, other times you can't get her to do a thing.

"She's a well built child, received first prize for health when fifteen months old, and developed nicely. She is shy and doesn't make friends easily. I wanted to write to you a long time ago. I thought maybe the child would change, so I waited. I would appreciate your opinion."

It is difficulties like this which have led to my writing two of the new booklets—the one on stubbornness and the one on shyness. These booklets do not suggest reading, but deal directly with the subjects named.

The chief mistake that has been made in trying to help the little girl described in this letter is that the stubbornness and shyness have been worked on too hard. They are emphasized, and the child has become conscious that she is both shy and stubborn and that some one is trying to cure her, first by this means and then by that.

These direct methods just will not work. The child's elocution should be stopped. She is too young, and that sort of training too artificial. If the dancing is of the free, rhythmic kind, done only for fun, not for display, it might be continued. If she were my child I should simply let her alone for the present and study how to help her by indirect means. Advice is contained in the two booklets: "Side Lights on Stubbornness" and "Have You a Shy Child?" Both of these will be sent on receipt of a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Food Talk.

Mrs. P. M. S. writes that she used to make good biscuits when she lived in the south, but here she doesn't have any luck. "Why am I now failing? Is it the flour?" she asks.

Perhaps you do not make biscuits as often as you did down south. No matter what theorists may say there is such a thing as having one's hand in cooking and this particularly applies to baking. Practice has much to do with skill. We recognize this face in sewing, tatting, and crocheting, so why not in cooking?

Another reason for your failure may be the use of the wrong kind of flour. I have found a number of grocers here in the city who seem to think that any kind of flour will make good biscuits. Down south where hot bread is a staple article of food there is always a demand for soft wheat flour and it is available at every grocery. Hard wheat flour is not adapted for making the best of biscuit. A pastry or family [general purpose] flour is best. A potent baking powder is also necessary and the baking powder should be sifted with the flour thoroughly. The fat should be cut or rubbed into the flour just as it is in pie crust and any good, clean, sweet hard fat will make good biscuit.

Milk should be added to form a soft dough, really a wet dough. And milk should be added to the flour all at once. I like to stir the milk into the flour with a fork and stir it vigorously until the flour is dampened. Add a half dozen vigorous stirs to stiffen the dough and to make it smooth and thoroughly distribute the baking powder. The texture is finer and the crust of better texture and of more even color for the additional stirring.

Scrape the dough out onto a floured piece of paraffin paper or a floured dough board, but do not use too much flour—just enough to prevent sticking. Sift a light sprinkling of flour on top of the dough and pat out to the desired thickness. I prefer to pat dough for two reasons. There is a lighter touch in patting than in rolling, and there is one less piece of equipment to wash. The hands have to be used in cutting out the dough, so why not use them all the way through? And one can obtain just as smooth surface with the hands as is possible with the pin.

Cut the dough out and lift the biscuits to a baking tin, greased or not, as you prefer. Bake immediately in a hot oven [450° F.] and serve at once, piping hot. If there is an excuse for making biscuit and then serving them cold I do not know what it is. Here is a recipe which, if followed to the letter, will produce biscuit to satisfy the most fastidious.

BISCUIT.

2 cups family flour.
3 teaspoons baking powder.
1 teaspoon salt.
3 tablespoons fat.

Sift the flour, then measure. Resift with the other dry ingredients into a mixing bowl. Rub the fat into the flour with the fingers until the appearance is like coarse cornmeal. Add the milk and mix quickly with a fork. Stir until the flour disappears and then add four or five extra stirs to smooth and slightly stiffen the dough. Turn immediately onto a floured board. Pat dough out with hand or roll to ½ inch thickness. Cut and place on oiled tin. Bake in hot oven [425° F.]. About 12 minutes are required for baking.

Yield: Twelve biscuits 2¼ inches in diameter.

THE SAFE INHALANT FOR CHILDREN'S COLDS

Vapex breaks up a cold swiftly and surely—yet it is as pleasant to use as perfume

It is pitiable to see a child with a cold. His nose running, his breathing labored. And it's silly to allow a cold to grip a child.

For colds can be checked at the start. Just put a drop of Vapex on the handkerchief or blouse during the day, and a drop at each end of the pillow at night.

Vapex is very inexpensive. The $1 bottle contains fifty applications—an average of only 2c apiece. Millions of bottles are sold yearly. It is approved by Good Housekeeping because it is safe for every one—even little children.

Lovely Curves Are Always Admired

Why New Ironized Yeast Builds Weight Quick

This amazing new Ironized Yeast is two tonics in one—special weight-building, dried brewer's Yeast, and blood-enriching, strengthening Iron. The yeast is the same used in making malt and which makes malt so beneficial. It is specially cultured and concentrated to give the utmost in flesh-producing value. This special treatment makes it richer than plain yeast in those wonderful vitamins which revitalize the sluggish body cells, drive out dangerous body poisons, tonic the nerves, stimulate the appetite, increase energy and endurance, and build up weight and strength. Double-tested in the laboratory for strength, purity and potency. Used by physicians and big hospitals.

To this concentrated dried brewer's Yeast is added three kinds of easily assimilated Iron, to quickly make rich, red blood and tone up nerves and muscles. By this special process, Ironized Yeast is made more effective than yeast or iron taken separately. No starches, flours or gas-forming fillers.

If you are "skinny," nervous, tired, weak—if you suffer with constipation and indigestion—start Ironized Yeast today. You should quickly fill out with good, solid flesh and become strong and full of pep.

New Complexion for Many People marvel how Ironized Yeast has transformed sallow, blemished, lifeless, faded complexions into the fresh, smooth, lovely skin that every one admires. As poisons are driven from system and new health comes, years seem to drop from the looks.

Get a generous test treatment today. Pleasant easy-to-take little tablets—no nasty taste, never upset stomach or cause gas or bloating. Never spoil, no harmful drugs, safe for everybody.

Try It on "Money-Back" Offer

These Spanish Nobles Live Across Border

BY THALIA

If you wondered—as we did—on reading about the revolution in Spain and the abdication of King Alfonso XIII. whether or no the Marquise and Marquise d'Ivanrey and their daughter, Ines de Goriano, were involved by the political happenings, you'll be assured that at least they weren't among the nobles who took to flight across the border.

They live across the border, at Biarritz, to begin with—and none of them happened to be in Spain at the moment, as their kith and kin here, the Chauncey Blairs and the William Blairs, have no cause to be alarmed.

The marquise has been with her mother, Mrs. Chauncey Blair in Switzerland and now is in Paris, and the latter is either with them or with her father at Biarritz. Of course, the family owns the Ivanrey properties in Spain, and their value may be affected by the new régime, but since everything seems to be peaceable, there will probably be no drastic or startling changes.

Mrs. John L. Senior, just back from California, tells me that her brother and sister-in-law, the Neil Cowhams (of Toronto Province), who are on their wedding trip in Europe, should be in Spain now, according to their itinerary, so they'll have some good first hand stories to tell about the revolution when they return.

Golf Championship Title Awaits Rogers' Return.

The Exmoor club's backgammon championship won't be won or lost until Bernie Rogers gets back from the south this week-end. As things stand now, Mr. Rogers is paired off with John Blackledge, and whichever one of them wins is to play Larry Callahan. The winner of that match will then play Don Turner, who has qualified for the final round, to decide the tournament.

The Winnetka League of Women Voters is to have a benefit bridge and tea next Monday afternoon at the Winnetka Woman's club. Those who don't care to play cards may listen to Mrs. E. V. L. Brown's reading of "The Barretts of Wimpole Street." The committee in charge includes Mrs. R. C. McNamara, chairman, and Mrs. Morris Gresley, Mrs. G. Irving Bailey, Mrs. Ryerson D. Gates, Mrs. R. V. L. Wright, Mrs. H. P. Doolittle, Mrs. Theodore H. Buenger, and Mrs. I. M. Portis.

Coming events cast their publicity before. . . . Therese Linton, a young Chicago singer, who sang at Mrs. William J. Chalmers' tea for Ethel Barrymore last winter, and for whom Mary Garden prophesied an opera career, is to sing during the afternoon at the White Elephant rummage tea at the Casino next Tuesday. . . . Homer, who took charge of the refreshments at the late Mrs. Potter Palmer's first house party back in the '20s, will manage the details for the supper at the Lower North Community benefit at the Bendix gallery tomorrow evening, and Mrs. Rockefeller McCormick is giving a dinner party before the dance . . . the huge gymnasium at Fort Sheridan is being renovated and decorated to present a gala military appearance for the military ball on the 25th; the foreign consuls and high ranking officers in the army and navy are to be among those present.

Personals . . . Mrs. Jane Holabird Towne is here from the east and is staying at the Belden Stratford hotel. Miss Nellie Carpenter of the Drake sailed with Miss Emily Larned on Tuesday for a Mediterranean cruise. . . . Mrs. Edward A. Leight invited a number of her friends in yesterday afternoon for tea and to meet and hear the numerology instructor whom she had for a series of classes earlier in the winter. Mrs. Leight knows all about vibroscopes now, and has even added an initial to her name as indication of her faith in numbers. . . . Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick is to get in this afternoon from Colorado on her way to Cincinnati. . . . Mrs. Charles H. Besly is chairman for the Hinsdale spring bridge tournament which began yesterday and will be concluded this afternoon at the Hinsdale club [proceeds will be given to the Hinsdale Nursing and Relief society and the tournament is for contract players only].

Heard about or seen . . . Mr. Tracy Drake with a tableful of "Stepping Sisters" at one of the Opera club's recent gala Saturday night parties [Harry Puck is master of ceremonies, and there are always lots of theatrical stars present and performing] . . . the new Mrs. Jimmy Simpson Jr. in a box at one of the Stanley cup hockey games [she's medium tall and brunette] in a trailing beige dress and a scarf of brown tulle around her head.

THE SIXTH JOURNEY

BY ALICE GRANT ROSMAN

SYNOPSIS.

John Falconer, a successful architect, returning home to England from Cape Town, meets Hilary Revel, author of travel books, on shipboard. During the journey home their acquaintance grows into a friendship neither wishes to end.

John tells Hilary of his daughter Judith, born of a café singer while he was a soldier in his wife, John says, had magnanimously adopted the child. Hilary suspects such magnanimity. John's sister Gertrude became Judith's legal guardian when his wife died.

Judith leads a lonely life in her aunt's home. Her cousin Prue is her only friend. When Aunt Gertrude hears of her brother's engagement she sends Judith to a farm to stay with her former nurse, Tracy. John is uneasy about Judith not being in school. He thinks it unfair to drag Hilary continually into the question of the child and Hilary feels that he has had enough interference in caring for Judith. John writes Gertrude for the truth. His wrath explodes when she replies that she cannot, as a decent citizen, send a waif of dubious parentage among other children.

Judith is badly treated by Tracy. She makes friends with Clive Herpenden, to whose home she delivers cream for the old servant, Judy, having received no mail, writes secretly to Prue.

Prue meets Hilary for tea and tries to enlist her aid for Judith. Hilary's vow not to interfere makes her rebuff Prue. They run into Tim de Morreville, whom Hilary and John met on the boat home. Tim drives Prue home and makes an engagement to drive her next day to visit Judith. Prue sees and talks to Judy and is indignant at Tracy's treatment of the little girl.

Falconer leaves town on a business trip. Hilary, thinking over the problem of Judith, decides to write to John about her and her letter is a great relief to him.

Tracy becomes unbearably abusive to Judy, and Judy, crushed by the woman's cruel accusations, runs away to Prue. When John returns and hears of Judith's disappearance he rushes immediately to his sister's home. She tells him Tracy's address and he leaves at once for the farm. Tracy threatens to blackmail him. He calls on Mr. Herpenden, the magistrate of the district. Clive tells him he thinks Judy may have taken the bus to London.

Hilary calls Tim and asks him to drive her to see Prue.

INSTALLMENT XLVI.

OVERCOMING SARCASM.

Prue was in a serious quandary. She had met the little girl's broken story of being fatherless and unwanted with the scorn that might have been expected of her, but what had she to counter it after all? She could not be sure that Judy was convinced, and she had not dared to leave her for a moment. She had agreed gayly to the suggestion that Judy should stay as washer-up-in-waiting until they ceased to look for her; indeed, until the end of time, but again she was afraid the child's wistful eyes had seen through her, or would do so very soon. Judy was no fool. When the shock of her adventure wore off she would see that she was a problem and might, if left alone, seize an opportunity to slip away.

Somehow or other she would have to betray the poor youngster by making terms for her, but with whom? Since her Uncle John had not been roused to action by the letter she had written him, Prue ruled him out with a scowl. He was beyond the outside edge of the limit, she thought, must be, and Miss Revel with him. Her mother might be less guilty in intention, but was she to be trusted and could she be bargained with? Prue was afraid not.

Meanwhile she was missing her lectures, and this could not go on for long or there would be a row. On the whole, therefore, it would be as well to let Tim in, and, possibly, confide in him to some extent.

She slipped across to the bedroom to give her visitor a reassuring word. For a day and a half she had kept the little girl in bed, dosing her with milk, and playing the fool in the endeavor to make her laugh. This morning Judy had begged very hard to be allowed to begin washing up, but Prue had said it would be unlucky on a Wednesday and kept her in bed to breakfast. She was now dressing and, as she did so, eagerly tidying the room.

"If I don't like the way you treat her, Hilary Revel, you won't leave this room alive, so I warn you," she said.

"All right, old sport. Friend coming. Don't be worried if you hear voices," said Prue, and was just going to run down to the hall door when she heard steps on the stairs.

"Prudence, just a moment. Do you know anything of Judy?" asked Hilary urgently.

"O, hush; couldn't possibly mention that subject to you. Think of the bad taste!" Prue said with scorn.

"Then you don't know she's missing from the farm?" exclaimed Hilary, ignoring the thrust, ready to ignore anything in the urgent need of Prue's help.

"Missing from the farm? Dear, dear!" Prue's sarcasm overcame her. "That must be a relief to you all. Congratulations. And now you must really excuse me; good-by."

She endeavored to close the door, but the other girl was too quick for her. She was in the room in a moment and determined to stay there until she had had her say.

"Prudence, you may call me every name in the dictionary as soon as Judy is found, but I can't believe you know nothing. You are far too unconcerned," she said.

"I do know nothing," swore Prue fiercely, "but if I knew everything in the world, do you think I would tell you? O, if you're so anxious to wait and hear my opinion of you, come into the kitchen, for goodness sake. I have work to do."

Thinking that Judy might hear her angry voice and be frightened, she walked into the kitchen and proceeded to fill the kettle, since there was nothing else to do there. Hilary followed her.

"Where is she, Prue?"

"How do I know? I gave you your chance, and you were too much interested in your own good taste to take it. Now you can go to hell!"

"Yes, that's all right, but you needn't send Judy there."

"She's been sent already!" said Prue, whirling on her.

"Then you do know something!"

"I know this," stormed Prue, "that I sneaked down to see her, and found Tracy was making her scrub and slave and calling her a bastard to her face! I wrote and told Uncle John that little item a week ago, and if he hasn't done something about it, then he can take the consequences."

"Where did you write? To his office. . . . But he went north on business the same evening you had tea with me and only got back last night," exclaimed Hilary. "He hadn't even been told she was missing, and he's been driving about the country all night, and is still down there distracted with anxiety. Prue, dear, do believe me. Though I was so stuffy to you that afternoon for butting in, Judy hasn't been out of our thoughts for a moment. Almost the day after I saw you John wrote and told me he intended to look after her himself in the future, and I am with him there absolutely. As soon as she is found I am going to take her home to my own people as John's daughter. There's to be no more Judy Harris. That's all arranged. Now won't you trust me?"

Prue said slowly:

"Perhaps I'd better tell you her letter didn't mean what I thought. It wasn't Uncle John she was expecting, but some imaginary father, named Harris. She got it into her head that he went away years ago and would be coming back."

"Why, of course, the young man who emigrated," said Hilary at once. "No doubt she thought he was her father . . . the man her mother married."

"Never heard of him. This is news to me."

"It's quite true, my dear. After her mother died and he wanted to leave England, this man Harris went to your uncle and told him about Judy. He didn't even know of her existence till then. She was 6 years old."

"I supposed the poor kid had simply imagined her Mr. Harris," admitted Prue, "but anyway Tracy polished him off for her. That she devil told Judy she had no father, never had had, ought never to have been born, was unwanted, and so on and so on. Not so funny she ran away, is it?"

"Good heavens, the poor little soul! But Prue, can't you see this is all the more reason you must trust me? She's got to be told she has a father and she is wanted, terribly wanted." Hilary caught the girl by the shoulders gently. "I swear I'll be good to her."

Prue, nearly in tears, exclaimed stormily:

"She fainted on my doorstep two days ago. She had jumped out of the window in the night and slept in a wood. O, damn, damn, damn!"

Stamping violently, she felt a little better, and led her visitor to the other room.

"If I don't like the way you treat her, Hilary Revel, you won't leave this room alive, so I warn you!" she said.

Divided Skirt New Note in Daytime Wear

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—All Paris couturiers, you know, are favoring divided skirts for sports, indoor and outdoor hostessing, and for evening. A few go so far as to suggest the trouser skirt for regular about town wear. Worth does so, but he hides his below the knee pants under split panel skirts. Cheruit also favors this coy trouser technique. Schiaparelli's three-quarter bell trousers are partly masked by knee length tunics.

Lucile Paray comes right out for daytime divided skirt suits, but her skirts are only divided in front; a full length panel makes the suit appear to have a regulation skirt when viewed from the rear.

One of these Lucile Paray suites is sketched today. It's of rough surfaced, thick but transparent wool in a vivid sapphire tint. You can see how the skirt division is marked by an inverted pleat in front and how the back panel is brought around to finish on either side of it.

The short, single breasted jacket barely covers the hip bones in the latest fashion. It has pockets and a revere collar of the blue wool. Sections are cut out of the lower sleeves so as to allow the slightly puffed sleeves of the white marocain blouse to peep through.

Coiffures Go In for Thinning, Too, If They're Stylish

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

Yesterday we were talking about the signs already sharply etched on the coiffure horizon, said signs reading that the long bob is growing shorter.

Now, there are two other outstanding features of coiffures that you'd better be sharply and obviously aware of. What with the spring hats that aren't brimmed, and even with some of those brimmed not to hide hair beauty, there just has to be a terribly smart head and hair line. And the smart head line means head outline. It means, again, that the slender silhouette body practices you've become so adept in observing have to be put into execution in relation to your head. In a different way, of course, though it is called the "thinning" way! But you thin down your head silhouette by having the hairs underneath the top layers snipped out in such a way as to leave your graceful curved outline.

What money the hairdressers may have lost with the death of the shingle bob, they must be regaining with this thinning out work, for the longer the hair in back, the more slender the head silhouette proper must be.

Now that thinning out is one rule for the best spring 1931 hair dressings, the other is the nature of the wave current on our chic heads. It's the lack of wave on the top of the head that makes these new coiffures so young and charming. The severity of no waving on the top of the head couldn't be extended becomingly over the entire head except in rare cases of feature and profile, so the big loose waves begin at the ear tips in front or further down, according to the needs of the individual. And in the back you can break out into whatever form of curl your fancy [and your face] takes to.

The ageing effect of kinky waves on top of the head is realized when some young 17 or 18 year old comes home fresh from a misguided coiffure mission with her hair marcelled within an inch of her life. She looks years older.

Jobs Are Strongly Recommended for Restless Wives

BY DORIS BLAKE.

This disease called Restlessness is offered as a play title, with "Mrs. Disgruntled" in the leading rôle. Here's the plot:

"Mrs. Disgruntled" has been married seven years. She was married at 23, which makes her at the moment 30, the age of complete beauty fulfillment, it is written.

"Mrs. D." who has a number of counterparts in the fairly well circumstanced world everywhere, is bored with marriage. Not bored with her husband, especially—but with the limited field of activity her particular income marriage offers. She has a maid of all work, a nurse for the children, and a cleaning woman a couple of days a week.

"Mrs. D." is bored with the teas and bridge games and the aimless existence that has automatically descended upon her. She confesses she should be happy. With a loyal and generous mate and two nice youngsters she should be happy—but something's gnawing.

Now, some one has said of our modern wives that there are two kinds—those with a talent for enjoying the warm, atmosphere of home, and those without said talent. The latter are souls in whom rides a spirit of adventure and among this group you find that increasing tribe of "flirtatious wives." If the home doesn't absorb their full time interest they've got to stir up something on the outside, and because a flirtation is the easiest thing to stir up, they get into all kinds of messes. Once the habit of "excitement" fastens on a woman, she's got to keep on having it or the old fireside begins to take on, for her, a prison pallor.

Give these same women a legitimate outlet, such as a business life, an art life, a professional, or a charitable career—they'd get their adventure and all they'd want of it. Returning home at night would be just a gay part of the adventure of living. The difficulty, however, may be with a husband who still entertains past generation ideas about one working head to a family, or adventurous and energetic as the woman may be, she still may not have a definite talent for any especial field of outside endeavor. I think women of this nature should train for some vocation.

In every individual there is a flair for some kind of useful effort. It may take a little experimenting to determine just what a particular woman's is. But the object is to give the adventurous spirit a chance in some legitimate avenue rather than prostitute it with foolish amours and reckless flirtations that are a pretty poor substitute for the real adventure urge.

Bright Sayings of the Children

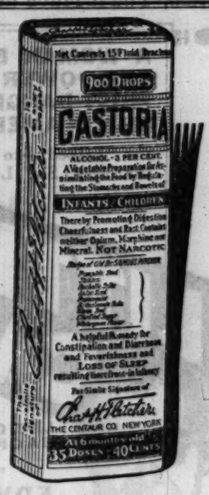
Castoria corrects CHILDREN'S ailments



WHAT a relief and satisfaction it is for mothers to know that there is always Castoria to depend on when babies get fretful and uncomfortable! Whether it's teething, colic or other little upset, Castoria always brings quick comfort and with relief from pain, restful sleep.

And when older, fast-growing children get out of sorts and out of condition, you have only to give a more liberal dose of this pure vegetable preparation to right the disturbed condition quickly.

Because Castoria is made expressly for children, it has just the needed mildness of action. Yet you can always depend on it to be effective. It is almost certain to clear up any minor ailment and cannot possibly do the youngest child the slightest harm. So it's the first thing to think of when a child has a coated tongue, is fretful and out of sorts. Be sure to get the genuine; with Chas. H. Fletcher's signature on the package.

Avoid Substitutes for Kotex

Sanitary protection definitely affects health—don't risk careless methods of manufacture

WHEN you're choosing sanitary protection is no time to take chances. This matter is too definitely related to your health.

The choice of hospitals

Kotex is scientifically made, of Cellucotton (not cotton) absorbent wadding in surroundings of hospital-like cleanliness. Human hands do not touch Kotex in the entire process of manufacture. Kotex is immaculate, pure. More than 10 million pads were used by hospitals last year.

When you are tempted to accept a substitute, ask yourself: "How is it made? Where? By whom? How do I know it is fit for this intimate purpose?"

No sanitary protection that cannot answer these questions fearlessly and honestly, should be considered. You dare not trust appearance alone. Demand the very highest standard of hygiene—the standard set by Kotex—accept nothing less.

Kotex offers every possible comfort. It is soft, and stays soft; shaped to fit; amazingly absorbent; completely disposable; treated to deodorize. Kotex Company, Chicago.

IN HOSPITALS . . .

Regular Kotex—45c for 12
Kotex Super-Size—65c for 12

The new Kotex Belt, 50¢

Brings new ideals of sanitary comfort! Woven to fit by an entirely new patented process. Firm yet light; will not curl; perfect-fitting.

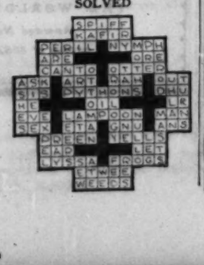
YESTERDAY'S PUZZLE SOLVED



2 OF FAMILY DIE, 3 BADLY HURT AS TRAIN HITS AUTO

Battle Creek, Mich., April 15.—[Special.]—Two persons were killed and three gravely injured here this evening when Jacob Vangilder, 45, drove his family in front of a Michigan Central train at Kendall street.

The injured are Vangilder, 45; a daughter, Jewell, 7, and a son, Homer, 1½. All the injured, it is believed, will die.

Vangilder, whose home is at Ceresco, had been working at the Advance-Rumely plant, which is being dismantled, and his wife had called for him in their car, bringing the children along. The husband took the wheel and was heading for home when a switch engine evidently confused him and he drove on to the tracks ahead of the Michigan Central passenger train, east bound.

The car was demolished and the victims scattered. Nellie was found dead in a ditch and her mother died at Nichols hospital shortly after reaching there.

W. H. BUSH WILL IS FILED; LEAVES $2,175,000 ESTATE

The will of William H. Bush, retired capitalist, disposing of an estate valued at $2,175,000, was filed yesterday with Oscar S. Caplan, assistant to Probate Judge Henry Horner. Mr. Bush died on April 9. His will makes bequests of approximately $150,000 to charitable and educational institutions.

One-third of the estate is left outright to the widow, Mrs. Ruth Gentry Bush of 1538 North State parkway, and another third is left in trust for two daughters, Caroline and Emaline Bush. The remaining third of the estate is also left in trust to be divided among other relatives, friends, employés, and charities.

Among the charitable bequests are: Presbyterian Theological seminary, $80,000; William H. Bush free library of Martinsburg, N. Y., $20,000; Whitaker Falls park and cemetery, Martinsburg, N. Y., $20,000; Art institute of Chicago, $20,000, and Park Ridge School for Girls, $6,000.

Crosses U. S. Line to Buy Cigarets; 2 Months in Jail

Burlington, Vt., April 15.—(AP)—Louis Marineau, 59, of Montreal, walked across the international boundary at Derby line to buy, he said, some American cigarets, but got two months in jail instead. Arraigned today for attempted illegal entry, Marineau said his craving for a cigaret was all that prompted him to cross the line. The court said he was inclined to believe the story, but meted out the usual sentence.

Spirituals to Be Feature on WLS Tonight

Dials are being twirled all over the country Thursday evening to hear that most unusual radio program, the Dixie Spiritual Singers, whose melodious harmonies come straight from the factory where Edgeworth Smoking Tobacco is made in Richmond, Virginia.

This program, which comes at 7 o'clock direct from Richmond, consists of the spirituals and work songs which have been handed down among the negroes of the tobacco country for generations.

The singers themselves are real workers, untrained in professional concert singing, but possessed of rich natural voices and long accustomed to harmonizing together. This Edgeworth presentation has already caused critics to hail the Dixie Spiritual Singers as being unique on the air.

Following the traditions of real Southern spiritual singing, the Dixie Spiritual Singers use neither notes nor musical accompaniment. In fact, many of their songs have not been set down in musical form. This unusual program is something no radio listener should miss. The Dixie Spiritual Singers are on Station WLS and the NBC Blue network every Thursday evening at 7 o'clock.

Mr. Davidson was active in the three organizations, and had been president of the Illinois Society of Architects. ALDERMEN FROM W. SIDE TO FIGHT TRACK REMOVAL

When the Illinois commerce commission reopens hearings on removal of the street car tracks in Lake Shore drive today, the Lincoln park commissioners, seeking removal of the tracks as an aid to the development of the new outer drive, will meet added opposition from west side aldermen. Ald. Wiley W. Mills [37th] announced yesterday that he intended to lead a delegation of his fellow council members as a protest against "denying the poor of the west side access to their only summer resort."

BABY IS FOUND DEAD.

CAPT. GUNDERSON, VETERAN OF SEAS AND LAKES, DEAD

OLD AGE PENSION BILL IS DOOMED THIS SESSION

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., April 15.—[Special.]—Old age pensions were put to slumber for this session in the senate judiciary committee today. On motion of Senator Thomas Courtney, minority leader, the subject matter was referred to a commission of seven to study the causes of old age dependency and to submit a report to the 1933 legislature.

The old age gratuity measure, one of the bills of organized labor, according to figures submitted by the civic federation, would make an increase of 5 cents per $100 in the state tax rate, which last year was 39 cents per $100.

"Estimates of the total gratuities under this bill," said Courtney, "range from 4 to 8 million dollars for the first year, from 8 to 12 millions for the second year, and from 14 to 24 million dollars thereafter. This postponement will save 5 million dollars a year during a time when economy and retrenchment are imperative."

A subcommittee of the house judiciary committee held a hearing all afternoon on the bill to amend the workmen's compensation act by increasing accident and death benefits. Victor A. Olander, secretary-treasurer of the Illinois State Federation of Labor, and the Rev. J. W. McGuire, president of St. Viator's college, spoke in favor of it. No vote was taken, roll call being deferred until next Wednesday afternoon.

COLORADO MINE, SOLD FOR JUNK, YIELDS FORTUNE

Denver, Col., April 15.—[Special.]—The famous Smuggler mine at Telluride, sold to a junkman a few years ago for a pittance by the Harry Payne Whitney interests, today is producing gold and silver rating $25,000 a ton, according to its present owners.

Max Grimes of Denver who is operating the mine made public smelter figures on ore today. They show that from 675 pounds of ore taken from the bullion tunnel of the mine, approximately 1,200 ounces of gold and 545 ounces of silver with a total value of $7,530 was smelted. Last year, Grimes said, the ground under the concentrating room was worked and netted $84,000 in gold and silver.

PAUL E. HARTUNG, Paul E. Hartung & Co., 1128 Granville Av., Chicago.—"Last December an owner of an apartment building listed some apartments with us for rent. As it was shortly before Christmas, one would ordinarily suppose that few people would be interested in finding apartments at such a time. Nevertheless we inserted a small ad of three lines in the Tribune, and oh, boy, what a surprise when we had people inquire about the apartments by the score. Several apartments were rented as a result, thus proving that even at such a time of the year Tribune Want Ads pay. But this has been an old story with us as your books will show. We have been using the Tribune Want Ad columns for over twenty years and can truthfully say that many people in Chicago who own real estate have today bought it of us after reading our ads in the Tribune. It has been our observation that the Tribune is entitled to much credit for having helped countless thousands to success and happiness through having used the regular want ad columns during the past twenty-five years of growth of Edgewater and Rogers Park particularly."

W. A. McKENNEY, 7 W. Forsyth St., Jacksonville, Fla.—"Last fall while in Chicago I received a letter from an old man in Florida, who was 82 years of age. The letter was written in a very shaky and almost unintelligible hand and offered to 'swap' his home and orange grove for a life membership in an old people's home. Upon my arrival here shortly afterwards I went to see the old gentleman, who lived in a cottage amidst his orange trees and flowers without near neighbors and with no companions but a few chickens and a cat. The old man had lived a hermit's life in this lonesome place for ten long years. He was almost destitute and too old and feeble to care for the property. I then inserted an ad in the Tribune and among the 43 replies was one from a Chicago man who came down to see the property. It was found to be as represented, and now the old gentleman has a paid up life membership in an old people's home in Chicago where he will have ample care, attention, and comfort during his remaining years. Everybody concerned was satisfied with the results of this want ad."

L. G. A., 6257 Niagara Ave., Chicago.—"Some time ago I was taken sick and needed money for the doctor. I could not get out of bed and my Durant sedan was standing in the garage. I put an ad in the Tribune for three days and the first time the ad appeared the phone started ringing at 9 o'clock in the morning. At 9:30 the same morning I sold the car for cash without getting up from my bed or without reducing the original price. I was so elated that I forgot to cancel the remaining two days and the phone kept ringing from morning until night. I could have sold ten cars if I had had that many."

M. B., cars Durst Chevrolet Sales, 1147 W. Jackson Blvd.—"I had a two weeks layoff in January of this year and I was very anxious to make a trip to Florida to see my mother, whom I had not seen for two years. However, I was short of funds and could not see my way clear to make the trip, but I had a car and decided to place an ad in the Tribune for passengers who would help pay my expenses. I had placed the ad two days. However, the evening edition of the Tribune which came out around ten o'clock began bringing me calls and all of the following day was spent answering the telephone. By noon I had five people wanting to go for sure and I could have had a dozen. I had enough from these five people to pay my expenses both ways. I also placed the ad with another paper but the Tribune brought me the most calls and the most satisfactory replies. I might add that the people I took with me were all Tribune readers and were very lovely people, which made the trip most delightful."

MRS. M. A. BERGDAHL, 3240 Sheridan Rd., Chicago.—"After trying unsuccessfully for several weeks to obtain a competent maid and nurse girl, I finally resorted to the want ad columns of the Chicago Tribune. I answered three advertisements on Saturday, the first and it was difficult to choose between the applicants. They were all very desirable. Thanks to your excellent service I now have a well trained servant and am firmly convinced that the quickest and safest way to obtain help is to refer to your columns."

INDIANS RALLY IN 9TH; M'KAIN SAVES CARAWAY

Tate's Double Scores Watwood.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Cleveland, O., April 16.—Pat Caraway put a lot of unnecessary strain on the White Sox today, but they refused to let it prove costly. Pat, after staggering around for the better part of the afternoon, finally let the Indians smoke him out with a tie in the ninth, but the Chicagoans bounced right back in the tenth with a run that led them to a 7 to 6 triumph.

The run that did the business was coined in very simple fashion. Johnny Watwood drew a pass and Ben Tate's double against the fence in right field gave him ample time to score.

The run with which the Sox broke up a chilly party was about their only legitimate score of the afternoon. The others were aided by charitable acts on the part of the home troops. For instance, throws were dropped by Burnett and Sewell in the third, when the Sox scored four runs. There was a wild pitch which proved of some value in the fifth, and in the sixth that old favorite, Bill Hunnefield, who was quite a demon on opening day, cut loose a throw that developed into another run. Bill also made a bad throw in the seventh, but it did no damage. Moreover, he was stepped at bat, so the local fame he built for himself yesterday is already crumbling.

Pat Just Hangs On.

Caraway was so poor a pitcher that it is not easy to explain just how he hung on as long as he did. He was shaky in the first three innings and yielded a run in each, but because of the four Chicago runs off Willis Hudlin in the third Pat managed to stay in the lead. This advantage gradually increased until Hudlin was forced out, but as soon as this happened Caraway began to slip. He gave up one run in the seventh. He was hit for another in the eighth and then was handed for a tying run in the ninth. It was only the rescuing skill of Hal McKain that prevented the Tribe from winning right then and there.

Tomorrow, because of a shortage of pitchers, Manager Bush is going to start Old Man Faber. Clint Brown will pitch for the Indians.

A Cleveland run in the first inning was the offspring of two hits. Burnett contributed one, a single to right. Fonseca popped meekly to Cissell. Averill leaped a hit into left for two bases and Burnett intended to stop at third, but when Watwood's return throw went wrong, Burnett decided to go right along home. In the next inning Hunnefield, hero of opening day, drew a pass and scored on Sewell's two bagger against the fence in right center.

Caraway Starts Rally.

Caraway opened the rally that led the Sox to their four runs in the third. He beat out a hit to Hodapp. Blue assisted with a pass. Simons bunted poorly in front of the plate, but luck was with the Sox. Burnett dropped Sewell's throw at third. This filled the bases and Caraway scampered home shortly afterward when Sewell dropped Hunnefield's low throw to the plate on Reynolds' bounder Appling fanned, but Cissell singled to score Blue and Simons. Reynolds dashed in on Watwood's fly. Averill's homer in the Indian half retrieved one of these runs.

The Indians were in a careless mood again in the fifth and the Chicagoans took advantage of it by scoring once to make their lead 5 to 3. Cissell singled to center with one out and dashed to second on a wild pitch. Watwood was given a walk. Cissell noticed that nobody was paying much attention to him, so he stole his way to third. Ramm promptly hit a single between Hunnefield and Burnett. Cissell scored and Watwood stopped at second. He

TY OUT AT HOME

Ty Cobb Sued for Divorce on Charge of Cruelty

Augusta, Ga., April 15.—(AP)—Ty Cobb, former star of American league baseball diamonds, was sued for divorce today by Mrs. Charlie Marian Lombard Cobb.

In a petition filed in Richmond County Superior court, Mrs. Cobb charged the baseball player with cruel treatment, asked temporary alimony and custody of their four minor children, Shirley, 19 years old; Herchel, 14; Beverly, 11; and Howell, 9. Tyrus R. Cobb Jr., the eldest son, is 21 years old and a student at Yale university.

Judge A. L. Franklin set April 25 for hearing Mrs. Cobb's alimony petition. The divorce action will be heard in the May term of court. It must be acted on favorably by juries at two terms of court to become effective.

Petition Gives No Details.

The Cobbs were married here Aug. 6, 1908. Mrs. Cobb is a native of Richmond county, and they have made their home in Augusta since their marriage.

Ty Cobb played constantly in the major leagues for twenty-four years—longer than any other man, pitchers excepted. He was born in Banks county, Ga., in 1886. In 1905 he went to the Detroit Tigers. He played continuously with Detroit, for the last several years as manager, until the season of 1927, when he went to the Philadelphia Athletics, winding up his major league career with the Athletics in 1928.

SWEEPS AND LOTTERIES.

DEAR HARVE: Congratulations on your attitude toward sweepstakes and lotteries as expressed in The Wake on April 8. I, too, think we should have a government lottery here in the U. S. A.

Now that folks in this country are finally coming to their senses and rejecting the "morals" laws which the fanatics have "put across" in the citizens' unguarded moments, it is possible that the MAJORITY may get together and "un-legislate" all of the anti-personal freedom laws which the intolerants have forced down our throats.

Here in my home town of Freeport, Ill., we have been buying freely of Irish Sweepstakes, Army and Navy Veterans of Canada, and at the present time a big business is being done in tickets on the Kentucky Derby. We buy as they come and hope for the best.

A national lottery and repeal of the prohibition law should certainly tend to reduce taxes and would keep at home a great portion of the American dollars now going to Canada, Ireland, and goodness knows where else. It would provide legitimate jobs for a lot of people and every drawing would make a new bunch of eligibles for the income tax. Come on, Harve; give us some more on that subject and let's see how the public feels.

Broadminded.

Since writing that we did not know where to buy tickets on various foreign sweepstakes on turf events we have received several letters from Helpers gently razzing us for not being well informed, as they "have been buying them for years." None, however, volunteered information as to their method.

IT'S CLEVELAND, STRIBLING, AND JULY 3 FOR MAX

News of Bout Finally Is Broken to Champ.

South Bend, Ind., April 15.—(AP)—Max Schmeling, world heavyweight champion, was officially told today that Cleveland had been selected as the site for his title conflict with W. L. [Young] Stribling, and the date will be the night of July 3.

The bout will be 15 rounds to a decision, and will be the German's first defense of the title he won a year ago on a foul from Jack Sharkey. The new municipal stadium at Cleveland, with a seating capacity of 110,000, will be the scene of the fight.

Max to Take Rest.

Although a scale of prices has not been definitely decided upon, Dick Dunn, representing the Madison Square Garden Corporation of Ohio, promoter of the bout, said the top price for ringside seats will be $25.

The announcement of the selection of Cleveland was made here because Schmeling appeared in South Bend tonight in an exhibition and today was the date agreed upon for the naming of the battle ground. Schmeling will go to French Lick Springs, Ind., tomorrow for a two weeks rest before finishing his tour. He has five more exhibition engagements to fill and will finish in Chicago May 8.

Will Train Near Cleveland.

Joe Jacobs, the champion's manager, said Schmeling would be in training near Cleveland by the latter part of May. He will spend six weeks in camp, but will train only five weeks.

Dunn, for years right hand man to the late Tex Rickard, said Cleveland was selected because of its central location. He regards the new municipal stadium as an ideal boxing arena and expects the contest to draw upwards of $600,000.

NORMAN'S RIGHT FLOORS DILLON IN THIRD ROUND

Edgar Norman, Chicago, knocked out Harry Dillon, Winnipeg, Can., middleweight, in the third round of the ten round windup of last night's boxing show at the Fronton. Norman sent the Canadian down three times in the last round and a right to the jaw ended the bout.

Joe Corrado scored a technical knockout over Martin Burke in the semi-windup. Burke was floored twice in the second round and was unable to answer the bell for the third. Other results:

Jack Stevens and Joe Brown drew [4].
Bobby Hynds beat Matt Andrews [4].

RAMEY WHIPS STRUBE; TAKES 8 OF 10 ROUNDS

Grand Rapids, Mich., April 15.—[Special.]—Wesley Ramey of Chicago tonight whipped Maxie Strube in the ten round windup of a boxing show at the Armory. Referee Slim McClelland gave Ramey eight of the ten rounds. There were no knockdowns, but Ramey piled up a wide lead with his left jabs. Strube weighed 128 and Ramey 133½.

Madison, Wis., April 15.—[Special.]—The plea of Wisconsin sports followers for an annual football game between the University of Wisconsin and Marquette university, Milwaukee, may be honored by a legislative decree. Assemblyman F. W. Hadley Baffles A's; Senators Triumph, 7-1

Washington, D. C., April 15.—(AP)—A four-hit pitching performance by Bump Hadley combined with some effective hitting and a pair of Philadelphia errors gave the Washington Senators a 7 to 1 victory over the Athletics today and an even break in the two games played so far.

George Earnshaw, Connie Mack's ace right-hander, was driven to the showers when three hits, two walks and fumbles by Boley and Bishop accounted for five runs in the fourth inning. Mahaffey, who followed, retired the side, but three singles in the fifth added another run. Spencer's single driving in Bluege had opened the scoring in the third. Todt scored in the sixth to prevent a shutout.

Bob Smith Allows Seven Hits.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

When you ponder yesterday's 6 to 5 Cub victory over the Pittsburgh Pirates, we suggest that you pick your hero from the following list:

Bob Smith, who pitched a great game, barring a letdown in the fifth and sixth innings. He allowed only seven hits in all, and five of them came in those two innings.

Riggs Stephenson, who singled with the bases full in the third inning, driving in two runs, and later scored himself.

Give 'Em All a Hand.

If we were in your place we'd give up the notion of picking out just one hero, for if any one of these aforementioned boys had been less of an artist than he was during the described activities, it is probable that the Cubs' victory slate would have been cracked. As it was the Pirates had the tying run on second and the winning run on first when Bell threw out Traynor to end the game.

For four innings it appeared that Bob Smith's debut as a Cub might go down in the books as something for his grandchildren to brag about, for he allowed nary a hit and nothing that looked like a safe smack. Although he had only one strikeout, it was evident that Robert had the enemy fellows guessing, as witness the fact that of the 27 putouts, 17 were on balls lofted for easy catching. Smith's mates had only six assists, half of the number marked up for the Pirates.

Smith's opponent, Claude Willoughby, erstwhile Philly, wasn't such a bad pitcher himself, if you're willing to forget the third inning. The last thirteen batsmen who faced him were unable to acquire anything that savored of a base hit.

Cubs Pile Up 5 to 0 Lead.

But returning to Smith, be it known that in the first four innings only one Pirate got to first base. This one was Grantham, second up in the first inning, who got the first of three walks he received during the day. In the same span the Cubs were piling up a 5 to 0 edge, which, of course, gave no hint of the skittish stuff that was to ensue shortly afterward.

The first of these five runs was made by Cuyler in the first inning. Kiki led off with the first of his two singles and went to third when English singled to right. He scored on Hornsby's fly to P. Waner. The four runs in the third were accomplished thus:

Smith opened with a single and moved to second on Cuyler's sacrifice. English popped to Thevenow, but Hornsby caromed a single off Willoughby's glove. Smith stopping at third. Wilson drew the first of three passes in a row, filling the bases. Then Stephenson took a toe hold and slammed a single to center, Smith and Hornsby scoring and Wilson taking third. Hartnett came through with a terrific smack that bounced against the scoreboard, a triple that would have been Gabby's No. 2 homer except for some inspired handling on the rebound by L. Waner. The triple, of course, scored Wilson and Stephenson. Gabby died on third when Bell flied to P. Waner.

Comorosky Gets First Hit.

The first hit of the day off Smith was a single to right by Comorosky, who stopped at second when Suhr, the only man to make two hits off Smith, singled to right. Thevenow fouled to Cuyler and Hemsley advanced the runners while rolling out to Grimm. Willoughby singled to center, scoring Comorosky and Suhr. Then L. Waner lined to Hornsby.

Hornsby opened the Cub half of the fifth with his homer, and nobody had any idea that it would supply the last Cub run of the day. Wilson walked after Rogers' smack, but when he attempted to go to third on Stephenson's single to right, P. Waner threw him out by 10 or 15 feet. Right there was where Cub offensive accomplishment was concluded for the day.

But the Pirates hadn't finished. They stepped out in the sixth and made three runs with no more hitting than two singles—singles being

Philadelphia, Pa., April 15.—(AP)—One big inning, the second, in which they shelled the rookie, Hal Schumacher, and Bill Morrell for eight runs, enabled the Phillies to defeat the Giants, 10 to 7, today and square their series.

Chuck Klein, Phillies' outfielder, who hit two homers on opening day, again was a big factor, getting four hits in four times up, including one for the circuit. The Giants made a gallant effort to stave off defeat with a rally in the ninth, scoring three runs and knocking Clise Dudley, starting Philly pitcher, from the mound.

Seibold pitched well for the winners, holding the Robins to eight hits, six of which were made in the last two frames. PHILS BEAT GIANTS, 10-7.

Philadelphia, Pa., April 15.—(AP)—One big inning, the second, in which they shelled the rookie, Hal Schumacher, and Bill Morrell for eight runs, enabled the Phillies to defeat the Giants, 10 to 7, today and square their series.

Chuck Klein, Phillies' outfielder, who hit two homers on opening day, again was a big factor, getting four hits in four times up, including one for the circuit. The Giants made a gallant effort to stave off defeat with a rally in the ninth, scoring three runs and knocking Clise Dudley, starting Philly pitcher, from the mound.

BRAVES TRIM ROBINS, 9-3.

Boston, Mass., April 15.—(AP)—Taking full advantage of seven errors by their opponents, the Braves mauled the Brooklyn Robins, 9 to 3, here today, making it two straight over the Flatbush flock. Seibold pitched well for the winners, holding the Robins to eight hits, six of which were made in the last two frames. Eight of Boston's runs were made off Hollis Thurston, the first of four Brooklyn pitchers who tried their hand. Only one Brave, Maguire, failed to hit safely.

ARMOUR BEATS CRANE, 5 TO 1, IN SIX INNINGS

Armour Tech defeated Crane college, 5 to 1, yesterday in a baseball game which was called on account of rain at the end of the sixth inning. Crane took a one run lead in the first and maintained it until the fifth when a four run flurry by Armour turned the tables. The winners scored once again in the sixth. Zody, pitching for Armour, and Stehno for Crane, each allowed six hits. Lineup:

Yanks Win Out Over Boston in Ninth, 8 to 7

New York, April 15.—(AP)—Fourteen Red Sox were strikeout victims today, twelve of them fanning at Henry Johnson's curves, but they gave the Yankees a merry tussle. Not until the last of the ninth did the home team put across the winning run in its 8 to 7 victory.

Johnson weakened in the eighth after his great fanning bee and was relieved by Sherid, off whom the Red Sox scored two runs to tie the count in the ninth.

Both Waite Hoyt of the Tigers and Sam Gray, credited with the Brown's triumph, were hard hit, but a crowd of 2,000 saw Bill Killefer's team get the most profit out of their batting.

Another tournament is planned for De Paul next week, when the aspirants for the tennis team will fight it out for the right to represent the university.

MARITAL ROW OF JACK NEWS TO WIFE'S MOTHER

Reports of marital strife between Jack Dempsey and Estelle Taylor, his movie actress wife, were news to Mrs. Bertha Boylan, mother of Estelle, she said yesterday when questioned by reporters at the Union station as she passed through Chicago en route to her home in Wilmington, Del., after a visit with her daughter in Hollywood.

Mrs. Boylan, accompanied by her own mother, Mrs. Ida Barrett, said no indication of a rift between her daughter and Jack had been apparent during her visit with Estelle.

George Lansbury, president of the Board of Trade, Sir Malcolm Campbell, and many famous athletes attended the banquet.

RING LARDNER HEARS FROM WILLIS CLOUGH

Chicago, Ill., April 15.—Dear Friend, well I suppose you seen in the papers where we loose the first game of the season but that don't mean nothing and after the game yesterday Charlie O'Leary who is one of Roger Hornsby's assistants come to our hotel to visit Bill Hinchman and some of the other boys on our club and I was telling him that loosing the first game did not mean nothing and he says it means a whole lot to you boys, it means that now you can only loose 153 more games instead of 154.

That kind of made me sore and I says that I would bet him a $1.00 even that our club would not loose 153 more games and would put the money up and says it sounded like a good bet but he could not put the money up as he would not have a pay day till the 1 of May and I say where can I reach you suppose I win or loose and O'Leary says just look up the schedule and where ever our club is playing I will be hitting ground balls to the infield just before the game.

He says I guest it will be safe to write you in care of the Pittsburgh bull pen but Hinchman says, no, Manager Ens has just ranged to have all his mail addressed to Willis Clough, the bench, Pittsburgh baseball club. Resp.

WILLIS CLOUGH.

Hornsby Hits Home Run as Cubs Win, 6-5

the maximum allowed by Smith all afternoon.

Grantham walked to get the score under way and stopped at second on P. Waner's single to center. Grantham got to third, while Traynor was forcing P. Waner. Comorosky rolled to Hornsby and Rogers was fixing to scoop the ball to English for the start of a double play, but instead of scooping as planned, the ball proceeded into center field, Grantham scoring and Traynor going to third while our manager got the distinction of perpetrating the only error in the two games, Suhr's single scoring Traynor and putting Comorosky on third whence he scored while Smith was throwing out Thevenow. The inning ended with Hemsley's fly to Wilson.

In the seventh Smith walked Grantham and P. Waner with two down, but ended the inning by making Traynor fly to Wilson. Thevenow singled with two out in the eighth, but Cuylor headed off an extra base hit when he made a fine running catch of Hemsley's drive. L. Waner singled with one out in the ninth. Grantham popped a foul to Grimm, but P. Waner walked. Then Bell threw out Traynor, the game was over and five minutes later it was raining hard.

White Sox Beat Cleveland in Tenth, 7 to 6 was still there when the inning closed on pop-ups by Tate and Caraway.

It was Hunnefield's turn in the sixth to do a good deed for his former mates. His gift blossomed into the sixth Chicago run. Blue started the inning with a grounder to short and the Honey Boy threw so wide to first that Fonseca was pulled off the bag. Simons sacrificed. Reynolds hit a single to center. Blue scored on the hit and Hudlin bowed himself out of the picture. Harder took over the job and fanned Appling. Reynolds then endeavored to steal, but didn't make it.

Indians Get Going.

After being more or less inactive for three innings, the Indians stepped up in the seventh and began whittling down Caraway's lead. Kamm made a great stop on Sewell to open the inning. Harder then singled to center, Burnett fanned, and Fonseca sneaked a bounding single just out of Appling's reach. Averill singled, scoring Harder. Another Indian scored in the eighth on singles by Vosmik and Sewell, with a pass to Hunnefield sandwiched between. Caraway had to dispose of two pinch hitters to escape further damage.

Caraway's banishment in the ninth began when Fonseca opened with a single to left. Averill struck out, but Hodapp put Fonseca on third with a hit to right. Hodapp has a bad knee and he was excused to let Goldman run. Seeds banged a hit to left on Caraway's first pitch. It scored Fonseca with the tying run, and McKain rushed into action to put a quick stop to the disturbance. Then the Sox ended it in the fashion already mentioned.

JACK SMITH AND HANS BAUER SIGN FOR MAT CARD

Jack Smith, Chicago wrestler, has been given a place on the Jim Londos-Kola Kwariani world's heavyweight championship wrestling card at the Stadium next Tuesday night. He will appear in one of the five supporting matches. Smith's opponent will be Hans Bauer, German veteran.

Smith made his professional debut here recently against Rudy Laditzi and beat the Hungarian quite handily. He will be tested more severely, however, by Bauer, who is busy every minute he's in the ring.

DARTMOUTH MAY PLAY STANFORD IN MIDDLE WEST

Hanover, N. H., April 15.—[Special.]—The Dartmouth-Stanford football game, one of the best intersectional attractions in the country this fall, was without a site tonight as the result of action by the mayor of Boston, James M. Curley, who refused permission for the contest in the Harvard stadium on Nov. 28.

It appeared tonight as though the game will go to the middle west, with Cleveland as a proposed location, according to Harry R. Heneage, director of athletics at Dartmouth, into whose hands the Stanford authorities have given full power to choose a new site. Dartmouth also has an option on Soldiers' field in Chicago for that date.

SCIENTISTS SEE NIGHT CRAWLERS BY THE MILLION

Spectacle Takes Place at Williams Bay.

BY BOB BECKER.

Sometimes truth is stranger than fiction in the outdoors. The following report from Prof. Edwin B. Frost of Yerkes observatory at Williams Bay, Wis., is offered as proof of the statement because Prof. Frost, a keen nature student, has written us about the strangest spring convention of night crawlers that we have ever heard of. Here is the story:

"When I walked over to the observatory the other night [it was the evening following a very warm day] I could hear thousands of geese on Lake Geneva making a cheerful pandemonium. But I stopped to listen for other things and I was quite surprised to find that the leaves around our shrubbery were alive with little noises, like the gentle patter of small raindrops.

Crawlers 10 Inches Long.

"Of course I knew that it was not raining, but I called up to a young man at the comet seeker in the observatory for his confirmation of the weather.

"Then I asked a couple of our young men to come out with flashlights and presently they saw, to their great surprise, the creeping forms of untold numbers of night crawlers, some of them 8 to 10 inches long.

"Their movements were lifting the few remaining leaves and thus betraying their presence. In some places there were as many as 20 to the square foot but as soon as the light hit them they darted into convenient holes. On the lawn, which has suffered from the drought, they were abundant but nearly noiseless. As you know, I am used to large figures which I employ conservatively, but I estimate that there might have been a million of these night crawlers on our lawn south of the observatory.

All of the men who came to see the show were astonished at the extraordinary quantity of worms and some were not acquainted with them. The phenomenon doubtless is familiar to the helminthologists but I take this to have been the first spring meeting of the 'Amalgamated Federation of Night Crawlers' Night clubs.' Perhaps it was also ladies night!

A Feast for Robins.

"If I had been skillful enough to have called down the robins, who must have been close in the trees above, they could have had a regular gorge."

Now comes the queer part of this occurrence at Williams Bay. On the same night Western Springs, a suburb west of the loop, saw a similar uprising among the night crawlers. Howard Smith, a resident of the suburb, reports that on

SUN BEAU WINS; TAKES 3D PLACE IN PRIZE MONEY

Balko Races to Victory in $9,950 Handicap.

Havre de Grace, Md., April 15.—[Special.]—It was old timers' day here this afternoon with the two six year olds, Balko and Sun Beau, sharing the spotlight in what was about the best racing program seen this spring. Balko, the big black speed king, bore the Agmore stable colors to victory in the Hartford Handicap to earn $9,950. Sun Beau, beaten favorite in the $10,000 Agua Calliente handicap and the pride of Willis Sharpe Kilmer, made his first eastern appearance of the year in the Bay View purse, running to a victory which left observers saying, "How did a horse like that lose in Mexico?" Under double wraps Sun Beau ran a mile and seventy yards in 1:42 3-5, three-fifths of a second slower than the track record, and he was pulling Jockey Clarence Kurtsinger out of the saddle in the last furlong.

He won by six lengths, earned $1,-10 and became the third largest money winner in America with $272,-10. He now leads Blue Larkspur by something more than a thousand dollars and has only Gallant Fox and Sir Shend of him.

Sixty Boxers Survive Trials in A.A.U. Meet

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Thirty bouts last night at the Illinois Athletic club reduced the field of boxers seeking the Central A. A. U. title to the quarter finals. These will be held tonight in all except the heavyweight division. Then, a week later, at the Chicago Stadium, the eight champions who will represent Illinois, Wisconsin and Minnesota in the national tournament at New York will be chosen. Sixty boys remain in the tournament.

Haywood Story, national junior middleweight champion, last night stopped Ed Blue in one round to continue in the senior tournament. Tony Batiza, Golden Gloves light heavyweight winner in the inter-city matches, knocked out Dominic Kovalic in one round. Tony and Leo Mylinski are the favorites in this division.

Knauer Wins Twice.

Frankie Knauer, Milwaukee Golden Gloves welterweight champion, won twice last night. After whipping Custer White in three rounds, he came back to repeat the victory against John Lewis, although it took him four rounds. Wesley Bryant of Minneapolis is another welterweight who promises to fight his way to the finals. Johnny Phagan, Negro Golden Glover in the 147 pound division, was rejected by the doctors because of a badly bruised eye.

The summaries:

Conservation Is Theme of Walton League Meeting

The three day convention will open at the Sherman hotel next Thursday morning. The program will include exhibits depicting every aspect of the activities of the outdoor sportsman. These exhibitions will be part of the National Sportsmen's show, which will be held under the auspices of the Walton league. This show opens on Wednesday.

While every aspect of outdoor life will be considered by the followers of Walton, the principal speakers on the program will discuss game and fish conservation, to which the league is devoting most of its efforts.

Among the speakers on the program for the opening day will be Col. Robert Isham Randolph, president of the Chicago Association of Commerce, who will deliver an address of welcome; Paul G. Reddington of the United States biological survey, who will speak on "Unfavorable Wildlife Conditions and Some Means of Relief"; Maj. Y. Stuart of the United States forest service, who will speak on "Game Management in the National Forests."

McMurry, professor of geography in the University of Michigan, will discuss "The Importance of Land Inventory in Conservation," and Dr. Carl L. Hubbs, director of the institute of fisheries in the University of Michigan, who will talk on "A Program for Inland Fishing Developments."

Other speakers at the opening day's sessions will be Earl C. Doyle of Michigan, Aldo Leopold of the national game survey, Martin L. Davey and Frank E. Mullen, director of agricultural broadcasts for the National Broadcasting company.

Johnny Layton, the ten time holder of the world's three cushion title, defeated Allen Hall of Chicago, 50 to 38, in 37 innings in the opening block of their six block match at Mussey's, 131 South Wabash avenue, yesterday. The winner will meet Arthur Thurnblad, world's three cushion titleholder, in a special test here soon.

This was the first victory scored by Layton over Hall in more than five months. Layton twice lost to Hall in the 1931 world's title tournament, losing in the regular tournament and then bowing in the playoff for second place by 50 to 27 in 32 innings. But Johnny was in rare form yesterday, ending the game with runs of 6, 2, 4, and 2.

Hall played consistently and at the nd of the first eighteen innings trailed by 28 to 18. In his total of 18 there were thirteen single points, one run of 2, and another of 3. The game was on a par with the work they displayed in the world's classic two months ago.

The current match is at 300 points. Layton has quite an advantage, but last fall he got away to a similar start in a 300 point test, but at the finish Hall was the winner.

Canzoneri to Arrive Today for Berg Bout

While Canzoneri is training here, Berg will be doing road work at Waukesha, Wis. In order to win Canzoneri's title, Berg must enter the ring at 135 pounds or less. If he does not he will lose all chances of taking the lightweight crown, whether he wins or not.

Both fighters are confident of victory. Berg yesterday wired Nate Lewis, Stadium matchmaker, to arrange a bout for him with Jimmy McLarnin in defense of his junior welterweight crown. Shortly afterwards Canzoneri also wired, asking for a bout with McLarnin.

Canzoneri will be accompanied here by Sammy Goldman, his manager, and Lud Abella of Spain. Abella, a lightweight of the Berg type, will meet Ralph Lenny of Jersey City in one of the supporting bouts. Abella's victories since his arrival in the United States three months ago included decisions over Joe Glick and Young Firpo. The latter recently defeated Benny Bass, junior 135 pound king, dropping the Philadelphia battler four times.

INSULL CONCERN ACQUIRES GARY UTILITY COMPANY

Midland United Buys Firm from U. S. Steel.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

The Insull interests, through the Midland United company, have acquired the Gary Heat, Light and Water company from the United States Steel corporation, according to an announcement made late yesterday by the latter concern.

The move marks another step in the expansion program of the Insull company, which holds securities in a number of utility firms, the principal ones being located in northern Indiana and western Ohio.

Details of the Gary transaction were not made public. A brief announcement issued by the steel corporation said: "In view of the increasing importance and volume of service required in Gary, it is deemed for the best interest of all concerned that the business be placed under the ownership and control of those who are qualified by long and successful experience to give the best service."

Settle Rate Dispute.

The steel corporation controlled the utility company through stock ownership. Early last year the Gary company settled a dispute of several months' standing over rate schedule. A citizens' committee had threatened to appeal to the Indiana public service commission for a lower electric current rate. E. J. Buffington, president, countered with a proposal for a new rate schedule. The concern furnishes electric and water service to a population of 100,749.

Stockholders of the Associated Telephone Utilities company, at their annual meeting yesterday, voted to amend the company's charter extending the time from Dec. 31, 1931, to Dec. 31, 1932, during which the $6 convertible preferred stock may be exchanged for common stock.

Shares of the utility companies shared in the general market weakness on the Chicago exchange yesterday. Losses were held within a narrow range in the majority of cases. Volume of sales receded to around 120,000 shares. The Burnham stocks, which had shown a burst of strength on Tuesday, lost most of their gains.

Sales Rise 40 Per Cent.

Claire L. Barnes, president of the Houdaille Hershey corporation, told stockholders at the annual meeting yesterday that March sales of the company were 40 per cent above February. Stockholders elected Sanford Brown to the board to succeed Chas. F. Kelley, retired. At a later meeting of the directors M. D. Harrison was named treasurer of the company.

The W. F. Hall Printing company is not acquiring the Art Color Printing company through outright purchase, President Frank R. Warren states. The two firms are to be merged under a plan whereby Art Color stockholders will become stockholders of Hall. Art Color Printing will continue as a corporate entity under the present management. Ernest Lilienthal, secretary and treasurer of Art Color Printing, will become vice president and a director of Hall Printing.

The Katz Drug company reports March sales of $637,189, an increase of $141,661 or 28 per cent over the corresponding period last year. The increase reflects the expansion carried out by the company during the last year. First quarter sales in 1931 were $1,837,459, against $1,380,634 in the corresponding 1929 quarter.

LOOKING AHEAD WITH BUSINESS

Developments in the rubber industry so far this year have been marked by a seasonal recovery in manufacturing operations from the low levels of last fall, and by a continuation of the unfavorable factors which have depressed the crude rubber market during the last two years. During the first two months this year output of the industry was about 30 per cent under the average rate for the corresponding periods of the four preceding years. By the end of February production of casings had increased approximately 50 per cent from the low point reached in November of 1930.

Dow, Jones & Co. says net profit of Paramount-Publix corporation in the first quarter was in excess of $1.10 a share.

The American Machine and Foundry company is working on an improved cigaret machine which is expected will have approximately three times the capacity of present machines. The new machine, which the company has been developing for more than a year, is designed to manufacture between 1,500 and 2,000 cigarettes a minute, whereas machines now in use by the cigaret industry can manufacture approximately 600 cigarets a minute.

R. C. A. Radiotrons company has reduced prices on tubes averaging from 50 cents to $5 per tube.

C. F. Miller, president of the Hamilton Watch company, said that orders during the last fifteen days has shown a decided increase.

J. R. Williams, president of Electric Storage Battery company, told stockholders at their annual meeting that he expected a substantial improvement in business of the company during the second quarter, which, he believes, will show results close to those of second quarter last year.

Charles S. Pearce, president of Colgate-Palmolive-Peet company, announced that group life insurance for its employés totals approximately $9,000,000.

Philip Leboutillier, president of Best & Co., stated that sales for February, March, and April to date were ahead of the same period last year.

W. T. Grant, chairman of W. T. Grant & Co., said unit sales of the company for the first quarter were running well ahead of the same period of 1930 and that net earnings should show a 50 per cent increase over the like quarter of last year.

The Bankers Life company of Des Moines is now a 150 million dollar company in total admitted assets, it was declared by President Gerard S. Nollen, who has been reelected to a five year term.

THE SERVICE WE RENDER

Experience teaches

. . . bright pupils only

"Experience isn't acquired merely by being present," writes a philosopher of modern business. Experience comes from being present with eyes and ears open, with mind and memory alert.

Moody's Investors Service has had thirty years of experience in the supervision of investment funds. An eventful thirty years that have seen booms and depressions, peace and war, revolutions in governments and in industries. Through all this, the Moody organization has followed closely the story of business, industry, and finance, and interpreted each incident in the light of the individual investor's problems.

This organization emerges from its first three decades of service with a mature judgment—an intelligent understanding of these problems. With this background it is guiding some eighteen thousand banking institutions and conservative investors to a realization of its aims: sound appraisal of true investment values, protection against capital depreciation, and a share in the legitimate growth of business and industry.

STEEL INDUSTRY PONDERS DROP IN PRODUCTION

Eyes Auto, Public Works Programs.

BY O. A. MATHER.

A further decline in steel production this week, marking the third successive weekly recession, finds leaders of the steel industry in a quandary as to the future course of operations. While hopes of expansion from the March level have been about dissipated, still it is not generally admitted that the industry is sliding into the usual summer quietude.

"A further decline in steel ingot production, additional price recessions in light flat rolled products and widespread reductions in scrap quotations have given the iron and steel market a negative tone," the Iron Age says in its weekly review. "Seasonal influences that control the course of steel demand in ordinary times are now overshadowed by cyclical forces. Production for the country at large has receded from 53 to 51 per cent of capacity.

Rail Orders Below Normal.

"Such important outlets for steel as railroad car building and farm equipment manufacturing have been largely shut off. Rail bookings are far below normal. The volume of automobile production, although still offering promise, defies prediction. Construction, stimulated by public works programs, and line pipe projects loom up as the most likely sources of heavier demand in the immediate future.

"But it is impossible to forecast whether this prospective gain will bring a net increase in total steel output or whether it will be more than offset by losses in other directions. Aggregate steel production is at such a low level that variations in business that would pass unnoticed in normal times are immediately reflected in steel works operations. Even buyers' psychology is affecting current mill schedules.

"Current steel demand is not brisk enough to lend any encouragement to those who have entertained hopes that the dip over the last three weeks has been only a temporary reaction, nor has it fallen off sufficiently fast to bear out the contentions of the more pessimistic," Steel says in its summary. "Production continues to vary in some districts, although the general average still is slightly above 50 per cent, or within six points of the spring peak attained in the third week of March."

Automobile Expansion.

The fact that automobile production this month is adding to the expansion shown in March and the likelihood that this upturn may continue into June is perhaps the most encouraging factor. Registration returns from 21 states show that registrations last month were 84.4 per cent of a year ago, with the various companies ranging from 70 per cent to even more than last year.

The General Motors corporation reported yesterday that March sales by dealers to consumers totaled 101,339 cars, compared with 68,976 in February and 61,566 in January. Thus March gained 47 per cent over February. Sales in March, last year, totaled 123,-781 cars. The corporation itself delivered 118,195 cars last month, including Canadian sales and export shipments, compared with 96,003 in February and 131,330 in March, 1930. Dealers in the United States took 98,943 cars, compared with 80,373 in February and 113,041 in March last year.

RECOMMEND NO INCREASE IN OIL SCHEDULES

St. Louis, Mo., April 15.—(AP)—The oil states advisory committee, in session here in connection with the mid-year meeting of the refining division of the American Petroleum institute, late today made public a report to governors of oil bearing states recommending no increase for the six months ending Oct. 1 in the current allowable schedules of crude oil production.

While the committee is without mandatory power to dominate the production of the various states, oil men hailed the report as pertinent inasmuch as it marked the inception of efforts between states to agree on production figures.

Industry to Decide.

Washington, D. C., April 15.—(AP)—Secretary Wilbur's voluntary committee on petroleum economics in its final report on the next six months' oil requirements today left to the industry determination of how much crude oil now in storage in each producing state should be consumed this summer.

Orders Fox Film to Divest Interests in Loew's, M-G-M

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, April 15.—In a consent decree signed today by Judge John C. Knox in the Federal court, the Fox Film corporation were ordered to divest themselves of all stocks and interests in Loew's, Inc., Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer Distributing corporation.

H. L. CLARKE. [Wallinger Photo.]

A week ago Fox Film announced that the stock of Loew's, the purchase of which was one of the main causes of Fox Film's financial difficulties last year, will be transferred to a holding company to be organized under auspices of the corporation's new bankers, the Chase Securities corporation.

The acquisition some time ago by the Fox interests of this stock was declared "illegal and in violation of the Clayton anti-trust act" by Judge Knox.

The defendant corporations and their officers, agents and employés are perpetually enjoined from either directly or indirectly acquiring, receiving, holding, voting or acting as the owners of stock in the aforementioned concerns.

Approves Clarke's Plan.

Judge Knox in his order approved the plan of divestment submitted in affidavit form by Harley L. Clarke, president of the Fox Film corporation, and Robert L. Clarkson, chairman of the executive committee of the Chase Securities corporation. According to Mr. Clarkson's affidavit, the Chase Securities corporation, a Delaware concern, was formed for the purpose of acquiring from the Fox Film corporation 660,900 shares of common stock of Loew's, Inc.

It and its associates have undertaken the refinancing of the Fox Film corporation with refunding of its obligations, including $55,000,000 of one year notes maturing today, April 15.

The order further provides that the Film Securities corporation, formed some time ago to take over the stock interests, shall hold title to the stock provided the corporation shall not be operated or managed or its affairs conducted by or through voting control or otherwise so as to substantially lessen competition between the corporate defendants and the three concerns.

As a part of the refunding operation set forth by Mr. Clarkson, Fox Film corporation must derive $28,-800,000 from the sale of its Loew's, Inc., shares. The Chase Securities corporation and its associates have purchased two year 6 per cent secured gold notes of the Film Securities corporation amounting to $20,000,000. It has also induced the General Theaters Equipment, Inc., to purchase 100,000 shares of preferred stock of the Film Securities corporation with a preference on liquidation of $10,-000,000.

Pays Proceeds to Fox Film.

The proceeds of these securities, less a reserve for organization and financing purposes and expenses, have been paid to Fox Film corporation by the Film Securities corporation for the Loew's, Inc., stock. The remainder of the purchase consideration, continues Mr. Clarkson's affidavit, has been paid to the Fox Film corporation by issuing to it 462,000 shares of class A stock of the Securities corporation which, upon liquidation or dissolution, is entitled to a preference over common stock of $100 a share.

The order signed today was consented to by all parties and terminates litigation which lasted well over a year. The order provides that if at any time it becomes apparent that "the said plan of divestment or the corporate arrangements set forth therein are being made use of, or that the affairs of the Film Securities corporation are being so conducted as to substantially lessen competition the court, on application of the government, may make such further orders as are necessary and proper."

I. C. C. MAKES WESTERN GRAIN RATES APPLY TO WATER CARRIERS

Washington, D. C., April 15.—(AP)—The interstate commerce commission has made the revised western grain freight rates applicable to water carriers as well as railroads and corrected omissions and errors in its previous decision. All petitions for rehearing or reconsideration of the results of the investigation not previously disposed of were dismissed and an order issued that the rates go into effect June 1.

The rates involved were investigated during the commission's inquiry into western freight rates. They applied to grain for export as well as domestic consumption.

Because combinations of local rates from some points to various destinations by way of Missouri river points would be lower than prescribed through rates, the commission ordered a number of rates revised. A flat rate of 10 cents a hundred from points west of St. Louis to St. Paul, Minneapolis, Duluth, St. Louis, and various Missouri river points was provided.

The commission found the proportional rate of 11 cents from Minneapolis to Chicago too low and increased it to 12 cents and similar rates from Minneapolis to Duluth were increased from 4.5 cents to 5.5 cents.

The commission in its previous order did not prescribe proportional rates from Minneapolis to western points. Today's order fixes a rate of 11.5 cents to Sioux City; 14.5 cents to Omaha, and 17 cents to Kansas City. Flat rates from Illinois points to St. Louis were reduced to the level of those from the same points to Chicago.

The commission in considering the question of halting shipments in transit without charge ruled that two such stops might be made. Stopping grain in transit for making mixed feed is to be considered one stop and for storage of grain in transit a charge of 2 cents a hundred pounds is to be made.

Revision of present transit rules on prepared flours was denied.

Points Out Rights Held by Land Owners Along Streams

BY SCRUTATOR.

Prior to the advent of the steam engine water power was practically the only important source of mechanical energy. All falls and rapids which could be controlled by the engineering methods of the day were valuable.

Almost up to the close of the nineteenth century water power was the cheapest form of energy available and manufacturers located their plants along streams in order to obtain power.

In recent years, however, fuel power competition has increased rapidly as a result of the development of the steam turbine and improved power house design. Coal and steam have driven many of the old water plants out of business.

False Theory Arises.

Lately there has been gradually increasing agitation for public development of potential sources of water power. There has arisen the false theory that water power naturally belongs to the people.

Under common law the owner of land bordering a non-navigable stream owns the ground over which it flows "usque ad filum," that is, to the center of the stream. He has the right to use the water for power provided he puts it back. The owner of land on both sides of a stream has the right to build a dam and form a pond as far as the property line of the next owner above him.

If he owns the land on only one side of the river he may build a dam only by paying the owner opposite him the assessments or damages as provided for under the statutes.

Courts Guard Rights.

The higher courts have jealously guarded the rights of those who own property along streams.

The Supreme court of the United States in its decision handed down January 14, 1929, in the lake diversion suit, made this statement:

"This court has said that while congress in the exercise of its power may adopt any means having some positive relation to the control of navigation and not otherwise inconsistent with the constitution, it may not arbitrarily destroy or impair the rights of riparian owners by legislation which has no real or substantial relation to the control of navigation or appropriateness to that end."

On Dec. 2, 1930, the Michigan Supreme court stated: "There is no power to justify the taking of private property without compensation. The right of the state is subordinate to that of the riparian owner."

Spanish Peseta Rallies; Regains Part of Decline

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, April 15.—Following its sharp break of 1.11 cents on Monday and Tuesday when the news of the Republican victory at the polls and the abdication of King Alfonso became known, the Spanish exchange rallied today, regaining more than half its earlier losses. Closing quotations on the peseta in this market were 10.48 cents, a net gain on the day of 52 points. At the high price of the day, 10.56 cents, the exchange showed an extreme recovery of 61 points over the low of 9.95 cents reached on Tuesday.

BY FRED HARVEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, April 15.—The Crepe Hangers' union held its spring barbecue at the corner of Wall and Broad streets today and the whole speculative community dolled itself out in sackcloth for the occasion.

"Bad" news of one sort and another was to blame. There were the midweek trade statistics showing a 2 per cent drop in steel industry operations, a falling off in the railroad carloadings figures, the Spanish situation, and another run of dividend cuts and omissions, and it all came on top of a discouraging failure in the efforts of the constructive crowd to put the market ahead at the expense of the shorts during the last week.

Decline Is General.

The average trader couldn't sense a single ray of light in the gloom, apparently, and there seemed to be nothing to do but sell out of his stock market holdings. The popularity of the "remedy" was evidenced in declines of 1 to 5 points throughout the active list. Most issues broke to new lows for the movement and a sizable group of them, including such redoubtable timber as United States Steel common, dropped through the lows of last December.

U. S. Steel finished at 133¾, off more than 3 points on the day. Its December minimum was 134¾.

There was little apparent effort to

I. C. SUBURBAN SERVICE HOLDS UP WELL IN '30

Suburban passenger revenues of the Illinois Central railroad, the only steam road with an electrified service in the metropolitan area, made a good showing in 1930 despite the general adverse conditions which cut into other income.

Suburban passenger revenues last year amounted to $4,712,829 as compared with $4,918,880 in the preceding year. Passengers who rode a mile or more on the suburban trains numbered 331,870,915 last year against 342,471,956 in 1929, a decline of 10,-601,041.

J. L. Bevan, senior vice president, said yesterday that gross revenue of the road in March was about $1,000,-000 ahead of February. Three directors whose terms expire this year were reelected at the annual meeting of stockholders yesterday.

Sinclair Oil to Reduce Expenses Around 10 Pct.

New York, April 15.—(AP)—A retrenchment program involving a 10 per cent reduction of expenses will be put into effect this week by the Sinclair Consolidated Oil company. The program is not aimed specifically at salaries or wages, the company said, although salary and a few wage earners in the higher brackets will receive cuts.

IN THE DARK

THEY ALL LOOK ALIKE

• At the present time a great many securities are selling at low prices. In some cases the price reflects a real impairment in investment quality. In other cases it is the result of factors outside of the security itself. In other words, price is less reliable as an index to the intrinsic quality of a security at this time than it is under more normal conditions. Investors are therefore confused and uncertain as to their proper course of action.

• A thoroughgoing review of holdings under these conditions is very much worthwhile. It may be possible to improve the quality of securities held without any added investment. If the position of an issue with respect to the uninterrupted payment of interest and the ultimate payment of principal is stronger than it is in the case of another issue selling at the same price, an exchange is obviously desirable. The price recovery of the stronger issue is more certain with improvement in general conditions.

• In a review of this kind wide acquaintance with securities and markets as well as complete sources of information are of definite value. We shall be glad to make them available to you for this purpose, as we have to many of our clients. There is no charge and no obligation. General List Declines as Steel Hits New Lows.

support the old line leader, which yielded not so much because of unusually heavy volume of offerings, but rather to lack of nearby demand sufficient to absorb such stocks as came into the market. Other steel shares were correspondingly weak. Bethlehem and Crucible both slipping off to new bottoms for the decline.

Electric Power and Light shares were similarly influenced by the reported contraction in output of electricity in the week ended April 11 and the group made one of the sorriest showings of the entire reactionary movement.

Drops Seven Points.

One of those occasional "air pockets" which develop invariably in such times as these was uncovered in General American Tank Car in the early afternoon. The stock suddenly plunged down for a loss of some 7 points net after having held relatively firm throughout the morning hours. The slump was not occasioned by anything in the way of news bearing on the position of the company and in the absence of some such development Wall street was satisfied to attribute the acute weakness to the collapse of a pool operation which had been under way in the issue.

The recent weakness in Vanadium was explained when the directors met and voted to omit the dividend due at this time. The stock broke nearly 7 points following the release of the news, going to a new low of 43¾.

Westinghouse had another sinking spell which let it down to a new bottom on fresh rumors of another cut in its dividend rate.

The oil shares gave way with the general list, although pressure was not so heavy here as in some other directions. Standard of New Jersey received some measure of support.

Burlington Soon to Apply for Gulf Ry. Control

New York, April 15.—(AP)—Charles Donnelly, president of the Northern Pacific railway, told stockholders at the annual meeting that the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy railroad probably would make application soon to the interstate commerce commission to acquire a majority interest in the Gulf, Mobile and Northern railroad. The Chicago, Burlington and Quincy is jointly controlled by the Northern Pacific and Great Northern. The Burlington's holdings in the Gulf, Mobile and Northern now amount to about 26 per cent of the preferred and common stock outstanding, Mr. Donnelly said.

CONCERN EXPRESSED OVER LACK OF RAIN IN THE WHEAT AREA

Washington, D. C., April 15.—(AP)—Weather bureau officials today expressed some concern over the lack of adequate rainfall in the spring wheat belt, which has been swept by damaging dust storms.

No heavy rains have fallen in this area this month, and as a result the surface soil is drying out. Some rains fell during March which relieved to some extent the top soil, but failed to penetrate to the subsoil depleted by the long drought.

The bureau said "considerable damage" had been done to spring seeding by the dust storms. Further damage was believed in prospect unless soaking rains should come soon, and none was said to be in sight for the next few days. Continued dryness would prolong drought conditions and possibly reduce the 1931 spring wheat crop.

The Ohio valley also continues to suffer from lack of subsoil moisture.

"Plowing for corn is well on the way in much of the state," says the Iowa weekly weather crop report of the department of agriculture. The first grain plowing of the season in Iowa was reported in Jasper county. Oats and barley seeding is reported near completion in the south and western counties, though some will have to be reseeded.

THREE SUITS ARE FILED AGAINST EATON, OTHERS

Cleveland, O., April 15.—(AP)—Cyrus S. Eaton, Cleveland financier, who led the foes of the proposed billion dollar Bethlehem Steel-Youngstown Sheet and Tube merger, together with some of his financial associates and some of the finance companies in which he is associated, were attacked in three suits filed here today.

The suits allege illegal stock transactions involving more than $9,000,000. Because of the alleged illegal transactions, $1,682,599.25 are due stockholders of Continental Shares, Inc., Eaton holding company, it was said.

Eaton was charged with dominating Continental for private ends, principally to use it in blocking the proposed steel merger, which is now under injunction.

Two of the suits, filed by Charles S. Wachner, Cleveland attorney, and Continental shareholder, asked an accounting and equitable relief.

The other, filed by W. K. Gardner, attorney, on behalf of the Paramount Coal and Coke company, of Cleveland, asked a judgment of $1,682,599.25 for the shareholders.

The suits also alleged that in June, 1930, officers and directors of Continental directed that it enter into the purchase of 305 shares of Goodyear Shares, Inc., for $4,107,192.60, and the sale of 100,000 shares of Firestone Tire and Rubber company stock for $2,137,500, and 40,000 shares of B. F. Goodrich company common stock for $1,500,000.

Defendants named by both Wachner and Gardner were Continental Shares, Inc.; Eaton, Richard Inglis, partner in Otis & Co., Eaton brokerage concern, and Continental director; W. R. Burwell, Continental president; Otis & Co., and Phillip Wick, R. V. Mitchell, and David Ingalls, as Continental directors. Gardner named in addition L. G. Watson, secretary-treasurer of Continental.

Estimated receipts at Chicago today: Cattle, 5,000; hogs, 20,000; sheep, 14,000.

Buyers held the upper hand in the cattle market again yesterday and the price slashing which featured Monday's market was started again yesterday. New low levels were established in practically all classes of bovine stock, good grades of steers taking the full break. Choice 1,218 lb steers topped the price list at $9.35. Only twice since 1916 has the top been in three figures during the month of April.

Top prices during the corresponding weeks in the last three years have been above $14.00. Steers show losses of mostly $1.00 compared with a week ago. Yearlings dropped 50@75c during the week. The sharp slump in cattle prices has stimulated the demand for stockers and feeders at the new low prices.

Boosts Average.

The smallest hog receipts for Wednesday since last August, coupled with better eastern demand and a higher wholesale market for fresh pork, boosted the general average price of hogs 10c at $7.30. The extreme top moved up 5c at $7.85. Activity featured the trade and closing sales were highest of the day, with some orders unfilled.

Most of the 5,000 hogs left were being held off the market in hopes of additional improvement today. Small local packers and city butchers bought readily at the strength. Fresh pork loins were sold upwards to 19½c at Chicago. Light weights at that price were comparable to the 17c kinds late last week and were only 1½c per lb under the highest spot since last November. Outsiders during the first three days of this week bought 17 per cent of Chicago's receipts, against 14 per cent a week ago.

Hogs averaging 170@310 lbs were bid $8.80 for next September delivery, but the lowest offer on the heavy grades stopped at $8.60, while $8.90 was the lowest light weight offer. May and June offers were at $8.50 and bids at $8.00. On the "to arrive" market light weights for today's delivery were bid $7.75. Mediums for today carried bids of $7.30 and heavy grades were bid $7.00.

Lambs Hold Firm.

Lambs showed strength after a slow opening yesterday and some of the medium weights that were bid lower at the start were actually sold at slightly higher prices. Demand for lambs at present prices is good.

All interests paid $9.75 for best handy weights, while 97 lb averages were sold at $9.15 and some 99 lb Nebraska lambs brought $8.75. Extremely heavy stock averaging 109 lbs were sold at $8.50. Aged sheep and yearlings were unchanged. Feeding and shearing lambs sold steady. A small package of native springers brought $10.00.

Receipts at Chicago for today are estimated at 5,000 cattle, 20,000 hogs and 14,000 sheep, against 4,626 cattle, 16,533 hogs and 18,686 sheep the previous Thursday, and 4,076 cattle, 16,893 hogs and 15,530 sheep a year ago.

FOREIGN DEMAND BOOSTS WHEAT; FUTURES ACTIVE

Reaction Near Close Is Followed by Rally.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Development of the long anticipated aggressive foreign demand for cash wheat, with export sales of 2,000,000 or more Manitobas and some domestic hard winter, and the failure of the predicted rains to materialize over the spring wheat area yesterday brought in free buying of futures and swept the July delivery here up 1¾c to 65¼c, equaling the best figure since March 4, and with that exception was the highest since Feb. 27.

The break in the stock market in New York was ignored by the trade until near the last, when a reaction of 1c from top developed, but the close was on a rally with net gains of 1@ 1¼c, with July 64⅝@64¼c, September 62⅜@62¾c, and December 65⅝@65¾c, the latter selling at a new high for the season. May was unchanged at 83½c.

Demand for Canadian Grain.

As the foreign demand for cash wheat was almost entirely confined to Canadian grain the Winnipeg market led the advance and closed 2c higher, with July at 62⅝c, or only ⅝c under Chicago. Cash interests sold on the advance, which was attributed to liquidation of stored grain in interior elevators, but there was relatively little pressure otherwise and the finish there was within a fraction of the top.

In the past few days there has been a gradual change in the character of the news from abroad and reports have become much less bearish than of late. Antwerp bought a parcel of No. 1 hard winter wheat for April shipment at equal to 76⅜c, and No. 2 hard afloat at 75⅛c. Liverpool closed ½@1¼d higher, and showed independent strength as the result of a change in the French milling regulations which now permit the admixture of 15 per cent foreign grain against 5 per cent previously.

Turn to Buying Side.

Taken as a whole speculative interest in wheat yesterday was not large, but many of the local element turned to the buying side during the day, and the failure of the dryness in the American and Canadian northwest to be relieved was regarded as adding an element of uncertainty to the situation and likely to have considerable effect on the market unless seeking rains were received.

Dry weather in April is not regarded as likely to start a runaway bull market, as in 1927 seeding in the Canadian northwest continued until late in May and a record crop was harvested. Some reseeding of spring wheat in the American northwest is necessary owing to the high winds which have prevailed of late.

Spreaders Sell Corn.

While corn prices averaged higher the market made only a minor response to the strength in wheat, with the finish at net gains of ⅛@¼c, May being 61½c, July 63½c, September 61½c, and December 54⅝@54½c. Local operators who were long corn and short wheat were credited with unloading the spread, and at the last September corn was about 2c under July wheat, compared with a premium of 6c some time ago.

Cash houses continue on the buying side of oats, removing hedges against shipping sales, and futures closed ⅛@¼c higher, with May 30¾@30⅞c, July 31⅝c, September 31¼c, and December 33c. Shipping sales were 125,000 bu. Messages from Winnipeg indicated some Canadian oats had been sold for export in addition to 500,000 bu or more barley.
